BALLOT FORECAST ON DARK HORSES.

Straw Vote Taken by "The Tribune" Shows Foraker and Cortelyou Can Still Cut Figure.

LOSING, MAY BE POWER.

While Neither Is the Probable Choice, Strength, Thrown to Another, Could Upset Results.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—In making an analysis of the comprehensive national political forecast, such as that which has just been concluded by THE TRIBUNE, it is a great mistake to suppose that it begins and ends with a mere tabulation of the results in the order of the votes received by the different candidates.

There are many other things to be taken into consideration in politics, as every practical man knows. So long as the conditions are such that no one man has an overwhelming majority over all the others, the relative strength of even the most unimportant candidate may have a good deal to do with the determining of the final outcome.

In every political convention when the leader starts in with something less than a majority, he must attract to himself the strength controlled by one or two of the field if he is to win. Similarly, if the field hopes to combine against the leader for the purpose of killing him off before entering upon a free for all race, it is absolutely necessary that the persons composing the field should have some common strength, so as to withstand the natural tendency of the average delegate to drift toward the leading candidate.

Shows Chances of Leaders.

For these and other reasons it is just as well to take up those who make the least showing on the national forecast first. An analysis of their strength, showing the class of people from whom it is derived and the sections where it exists, will do more than anything else to enable the average man interested in politics to determine the chances of the two or three men who may be at the head of the poll.

For this and for no other reason I have grouped Senator Foraker and Secretary Cortelyou. They are not the lowest in this straw ballot, but each of them has a certain political value in determining the possible opposition to Roosevelt and later on to Taft. Senator Foraker is openly opposed to the administration. He is lined up against Taft in Ohio and he has opposed President Roosevelt on almost every feature of what is popularly termed the Roosevelt policy.

The senior senator from Ohio championed the cause of the Brownsville colored troops against the president, and he stood up in the senate with conspicuous bravery and voted against the railroad rate bill, alone of all his party.

Both Represent Reactionists.

Secretary Cortelyou, on the other hand, was Roosevelt's campaign manager four years ago and is now his secretary of the treasury, holding the office solely at the will of the president. Recently Secretary Cortelyou is supposed to have fallen under a cloud so far as White house favor is concerned, although he never has been an open opponent either of the president's policy or of his political program. The two men, however—the senator and the secretary—undoubtedly represent, to some extent, the reaction against the administration, and they are grouped, in analyzing the ballot, for that reason only.

Taking up the senator first, because he is the more conspicuous political figure at the present time, his general standing in this test ballot can be easily stated. There were 5,830 ballots cast for the first choice. Of these Senator Foraker received 110. That is a pitiful percentage if one were to estimate it by its relation to the total. It is more important when it is remembered that Senator Foraker has scarcely been a national candidate as yet, has no machine behind him except in Ohio, and has made absolutely no effort whatsoever in any other state.

All Classes Aid Foraker.

The Foraker strength is not alone on the first ballot. It is significant that a good many others have named him as the second choice, and even as third choice. His strength, too, includes all classes, with the exception of senators and representatives in congress, only one of whom has voted for him. He averages up well among the editors, members of legislatures, and the delegates and alternates to the last national convention.

Looking over the Foraker strength as a whole, it will be found that he is mentioned for first place on 110 ballots, for second choice on 86, and for third place on 85, thus making a total of 281 persons who have mentioned the Ohio senator out of a total of 11,810 ballots for the aggregate of first, second, and third choices.

When one undertakes to reduce the Foraker strength to a percentage basis it is necessary to resort to decimals to get at his relative standing, but that is hardly needed. The ballots themselves indicate more clearly than anything else that Senator Foraker cannot be considered either as an active or possible presidential quantity.

Ohio Strength Below Taft's.

Most of these ballots contain curious individual comments upon the political situation, the president, or the individual candidates. It is easy to see from these extraordinary ballots, which differ so from those deposited in the official boxes, that the vote cast for Foraker represents largely, if not entirely, a feeling of more or less bitter antagonism to President Roosevelt and his policy. In fact, these ballots and the comments they contain appear to reflect Foraker's political attitude to an extraordinary degree. He has caught the fancy of a few here and there throughout the country.

Going into an analysis of his strength by states, it will be seen that, out of a total of 281 mentions, 57 were from Ohio. That, of course, was to be expected. The senator has some strength there beyond all doubt. The vote in that state, however, is pitifully small compared to that of Taft. The interesting feature of the ballot, as regards Foraker, is the fact that in the southern and border states, where there is a large negro population, he had 118 votes, while in all the rest of the north, exclusive of Ohio, he

RECEIVERS AGAIN TAKE FROST LINE

Chicago and Milwaukee Electric Able to Stay Out of Court Less than One Month.

BEFORE FEDERAL JUDGE.

Canadian Bank Failure Blamed for Inability to Carry Out Compromise with Creditors.

The Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railroad company for the second time within a month went into the hands of receivers yesterday. This time it is a friendly receivership in the court of United States Judge Grosscup instead of the unfriendly affair in State Judge Tuthill's court a few weeks ago.

A. C. Frost & Co., the concern formed by the president of the railway to finance its construction, also was placed in a receivership.

Upon allegations that the railroad is financially embarrassed and cannot raise sufficient money to complete its line into Milwaukee, Judge Grosscup was asked late in the afternoon to appoint receivers.

For the railway the court appointed W. Irving Osborne, vice president of the Central Trust company; D. B. Hanna, vice president of the Canadian Northern Railway, Toronto, Can., and Albert C. Frost, president of the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railroad company. As receiver for A. C. Frost & Co. the court appointed George M. Seward, a broker who formerly was secretary of the railway company.

J. H. Gilbert's Claim Unsatisfied.

It came out during the evening that the road has been unable to satisfy the most pressing claims of the clients represented by Attorney Edgar B. Tolman in the receivership proceedings instituted before Judge Tuthill on Dec. 31. Maj. Tolman took the action on the behalf of the holders of claims against the road totaling $500,000. In the conferences which followed, however, he pressed only the $250,000 claim of James M. Gilbert, president of the Metropolitan Trust and Savings bank for money loaned.

At the conclusion of the two days of negotiations it was arranged that a payment of $50,000 would be made to the Metropolitan bank. The money was to be raised by a few financiers interested in smoothing over the difficulty. It also was promised that the road would pay Gilbert $10,000 a week until the whole claim was satisfied. It now leaks out that the financiers aforesaid failed to raise the pool of $50,000. Up to date the road has paid only $12,000 of the Gilbert claim.

Due to Canadian Bank Failure.

The embarrassment of the company's finances is said to be due primarily to the failure of the Sovereign Bank of Canada, located at Toronto, a couple of weeks ago. At the time the receivership in Judge Tuthill's court was dissolved by a compromise the Canadian bankers undertook to sell an issue of $250,000 bonds, the proceeds of which were to be used in completing the construction of the road into Milwaukee. When the Sovereign bank, which was the principal Canadian interest in the road, went under, it was found impossible to raise the money.

In other quarters also President Frost found it impossible to sell the company's bonds. He says it is because investors were frightened by the charges growing out of the Tuthill receivership. It therefore was decided to put the road in the hands of receivers, who will issue receivers' certificates to the amount needed to complete the line.

Liabilities $15,500,000.

The liabilities of the road total about $15,500,000. There is an issue of $10,000,000 bonds on the Wisconsin division and $5,000,000 on the Illinois end of the line. Then there is a floating debt of $500,000. Frost asserts that the assets, which are the road and its equipment, represent more than the liabilities. The receivers will take an inventory of the properties at once.

Whether complications will result from the new receivership almost on the heels of the dissolution of the former one is a matter of speculation. In the compromise as a result of which Judge Tuthill vacated the state receivership, Charles G. Dawes was appointed to look into the charges of irregularity in the financing of the road. It appears that the books of the corporation have not been produced and that Mr. Dawes has been given no opportunity to make his investigation. The appointment as receiver of Vice President Osborne of the Central Trust company, of which Mr. Dawes is president, is regarded, however, as an earnest of the carrying out of this agreement in effect. Mr. Osborne will represent Mr. Dawes and other banking interests involved in the situation.

The receivership was quietly arranged late in the afternoon in Judge Grosscup's court. The bill was filed and accommodatingly suppressed by the clerk of the court and then the judge named the receivers.

Court Acts on Four Suits.

There were four suits—one at law and three in equity. The first was a judgment taken by Otto R. Hansen of Milwaukee against the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railroad company of Illinois or a note for $10,000. This judgment was taken after a trial in which jury was waived.

Upon this judgment a bill was founded asking for a receiver of the defendant railroad upon allegations of insolvency. The bill was answered by the defendant railroad company, and the three receivers were appointed with leave to file bonds in the sum of $50,000 in five days.

A bill was also filed by the Sovereign Bank of Canada against the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railroad company of Wisconsin upon a note of $16,000. The bill alleged insolvency. The order was entered by the court appointing the same receivers.

A bill was also filed by Ball brothers of the Glass Manufacturing company, Muncie, Ind., against A. C. Frost & Co. based upon a note for $50,000. This bill alleged that A. C. Frost & Co. was solvent; that he had been engaged in constructing and financing railroad enterprises, and that the recent financial stringency had made it impossible for him to market his securities advantageously, and that to conserve his financial interests it was necessary that a receiver be appointed.

Receivers Take Possession.

The receivers were notified immediately of their appointment, and arranged to give their bonds and take formal possession of the properties today. President Frost spent the evening in the office of the road, in the Stock Exchange building, as did Receiver

BOMB 15 STARTLES HYDE PARK

AS USUAL, FIND NO CLEWS.

Many Are Frightened at the Loud Report Heard for Blocks Around.

Bomb No. 15 exploded last night in the rear of the saloon and gambling house of Edward F. Brennan, 6310 Cottage Grove avenue. A hole was torn in the roof a little over a foot square and windows were broken in the adjoining houses, but the damage did not amount to over $50. No one was hurt.

It is believed by the police that a charge of blasting powder instead of dynamite was used by the perpetrator. A small bag of powder was found in the yard south of Brennan's. In the previous explosions about the city dynamite bombs have been used.

More than the usual mystery is concerned in this attack on Brennan. He declares there has been no gambling in his place during the Busse administration, although he was arrested more than once when Edward F. Dunne was mayor. He says he is at a loss to understand the attack on him, and believes that the act was that of an insane person.

Saloon Crowded at the Time.

The explosion occurred at 7:10 o'clock when the saloon was crowded with men. Over the barroom is another story which up to a short time ago was occupied as a chop suey restaurant, but which now is vacant. The billiard hall in the rear is a one story frame structure. In the middle of the hall where the roof joins the south wall the hole was made.

Two men were in the hall at the time of the explosion. Thomas Soden, an old man, porter of the hall, was sitting directly beneath of the shattered window, but was unharmed. Another man, who was unknown, was seated nearby. After the explosion he could not be found. The police believe he may have been an accomplice.

A slight trace of the identity of the man who placed the explosive on the roof of the building was gained by the police from persons in the neighborhood, who declare they saw a man running down the alley in the rear of the hall south to Sixty-fourth street. They said he was short of stature and wore a black derby hat.

Police Hear Soden's Story.

Soden, the porter, told the police that a few minutes before the explosion occurred he heard the noise of some one scrambling over the fence in the yard on the south. He said he thought a man was climbing a fence, but that he paid no attention to it. A search for a possible clew resulted only in the finding of the bag of powder.

Between Brennan's place and the building on the south is a narrow passageway which leads from the two buildings to the alley in the rear. The passageway is less than thirty feet long. The police believe the man entered from the alley and climbed the fence, the top of which is only a few feet from the roof of the billiard hall. By standing on the fence they believe he could easily have tossed the explosive on to the roof of the billiard hall and made his escape. The alley is unfrequented and dark.

The explosion was heard for three-quarters of a mile, and crowds of persons were attracted to the scene by the report. The patrons of the saloon were thrown into such confusion by the report that they made no effort to look for the perpetrator. Brennan was not in his saloon at the time.

"I can't understand why any one should go after me this way," he said. "I have not an enemy who would do this sort of thing. There has been no gambling in here during the present administration. If I offended some one, it must have been a long time ago. Who it is I could never guess. I believe the man must be insane."

Friends of Brennan recalled after the explosion that he had testified against "Paddy" Grimes before the grand jury last November. At that time Grimes was accused of keeping a pool room at 6344 Cottage Grove avenue.

MAN'S BODY FOUND BY TRACKS; MAY BE ALLEGED EMBEZZLER.

Victim in Oak Park Partly Identified as J. J. Miller of Wheaton, Charged with $7,700 Fraud.

A man's body, thought by the police to be that of Joseph J. Miller of Wheaton, was found close by the tracks of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad in Oak Park last night.

The body was partly identified by means of a bank book and a card case in which a number of cards bearing the name Joseph J. Miller were found.

If the body is that of the man the police believe it to be, the man was arrested on Jan. 23 by detectives of the Harrison street station on two warrants charging him with embezzlement of $7,700 and conspiracy to obtain money by fraud from Jenkins Bros., valve manufacturers at 31 North Canal street, where he formerly was a manager.

The hearing was set in Judge Crowe's court for Feb. 4.

HINDOOS DRIVEN FROM TOWN; SAY CITIZENS STOLE $1,950.

Two Members of Mob Arrested and Matter Put Before British Consul in San Francisco.

Live Oak, Cal., Jan. 27.—A mob of citizens made a raid on two houses occupied by seventy Hindoos discharged from the employ of the Southern Pacific and drove them out of town.

The leader of the Hindoos went to Yuba City and swore to complaints charging members of the mob with grand larceny, alleging they stole $1,950. Two were arrested and will be tried tomorrow.

The Hindoos also took the matter up with the British consul at San Francisco.

Members of the mob say no money was taken.

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The Rev. He announced that he would place his own bachelor apartments at the disposal of the gossiping circle.

TEACHER IN VERBAL PILLORY

Principal Called "Misanthropic," "Irascible," and the Like.

ANGRY FATHER BRINGS SUIT

William Pettis Demands Miss Louise Ripple Reinstate His Son.

If Miss Louise M. Ripple, principal of the Oakland school, is all she is said to be in a petition for a writ of mandamus filed yesterday by Attorney William Pettis, 3744 Lake avenue, it would not be surprising if pupils occasionally played truant. "Pessimistic," "misanthropic," "beyond the age limit of usefulness," "irascible," "irritable," are some of the expressions with which the attorney characterizes the instructor.

The latest exhibition of the principal's tyranny was the dismissal of Mr. Pettis' 14 year old son, Corydon G. Pettis, from school. The petition to the Circuit court asks that the boy be reinstated and that the board of education be commanded to start an investigation.

Says Discipline Is Lax.

Pettis avers that because of the lax control of the principal over the pupils and the building decorum is at a low point and there have been instances of vulgarity and immorality.

Young Pettis was a pupil of Miss Richmond, a teacher in one of the upper grades of the school, and among his studies was algebra. Jan. 15, it is asserted, Miss Ripple made vain efforts for half an hour to elucidate the principles of the study, and as she progressed she "became less and less comprehensive, and finally failed to maintain the interest of the scholars, and they became unable to understand her lax and careless explanations."

To conceal her inability and deficiency, it is asserted, the principal falsely gave the pupils undermarkings and demerits, chief among them the son of the petitioner. Young Pettis is said to have been rebuked in the presence of the other pupils and then dismissed.

Injured by Long Experience.

Pettis charges that "by a course of teaching for twenty-five or more years Miss Ripple has become misanthropic, and she sees more harm than good in the innocent conduct of the children under control; that she has not progressed with the times and environment, and has become blind to the baneful results following her exclusion of scholars."

The petition continues:

"She is easily nettled by unimportant and small diversions to which small children of tender years are inclined; she seems to delight in twisting the conduct of the innocent into enormous breaches of discipline, telling the scholars that they, or some of them, have been guilty of misdemeanors or other offenses not by her of right punishable at all, and for which she metes out punishment as her whim may incline and her biased judgment dictate.

Other Accusations Made.

"On occasions too numerous to mention she has falsely accused others of breaches of her self-serving rules, and, assuming them to be breaches of the rules, regulations, and by-laws of the board, has administered rebuke and methods of discipline beyond her authority and power under the law."

Pettis says District Supt. Ella C. Sullivan and Supt. Edwin G. Cooley, to whom he reported the case of his son, have refused to right the alleged wrong.

REFORM ASYLUMS FROM TOP DOWN.

This Will Be Recommendation of Legislative Committee After Investigating Them All.

EVEN STATE BOARD HIT.

New Death Reports Out of Bartonville Institution Are Added to the List of Scandals.

A sweeping reorganization of the management of all the state charitable institutions from the board of charities down to the rank and file of the attendants will be recommended to the general assembly as a result of the investigation now in progress. The report will even ask for the abolition of the board of charities.

This information, stated as a foregone conclusion, became known yesterday along with the further intelligence that the investigation of the scandals at the Lincoln home for feeble minded children will be widened in scope to include all the institutions in the jurisdiction of the board of charities. The legislative committee of which Representative John W. Hill is chairman will visit each institution, note conditions, and take evidence wherever grave scandals are discovered.

More Shocking Details Learned.

The day brought forth additional shocking details and reasons for an extended inquiry, and more will come out when Representative Hill gets the board's full report of the injuries received by inmates of state charitable institutions since March, 1907.

The report has been compiled by Secretary Graves of the board of charities at Mr. Hill's request and will be made public as soon as it has been given to him.

In it will be found an account of four deaths at the Bartonville asylum for the incurable insane since September. One inmate was scalded and death resulted in two weeks. Two others escaped from the asylum and died from exposure, and one was burned to death.

This record eclipses that at the Jacksonville insane asylum, where inmates have been drowned, but in the Bartonville case the members of the state board do not blame the superintendent. At Jacksonville they do, and it is asserted that in spite of the fatalities resulting from neglect Supt. H. B. Carriel still refuses to follow the recommendations of the board.

Dr. Carriel has failed to date, according to members of the board, to provide life saving apparatus at reservoirs in which inmates have been drowned, and he has failed to have built a proper gate to prevent them from finding easy access to pools.

"No Restraint" Method.

In the case of the Bartonville asylum, Supt. George Zeller is not blamed by the members of the board, although the investigation at that asylum may result in a censure of his "no restraint" methods. He has been successful in handling "Fainting Bertha," who escaped twice from restraint at Elgin, but he was unable to prevent women patients from wandering off into the woods to die from exposure. Zellers is an ardent advocate of the theory that insane patients should be controlled by other agencies than iron bars and physical restraint.

The patient who was scalded in Bartonville died of pneumonia, but it is admitted that the injuries received while bathing were accountable for it. The woman who was burned to death ignited her dress at a cooking stove in the tuberculosis camp maintained at the asylum, and ran like a blazing torch over the grounds, evading attendants and other patients who were endeavoring to roll her in blankets.

Zeller's reports are filled with records of injuries since last March, most of them said to be trivial. He is one of the superintendents who obeyed literally the order of the state board of charities for reports of all accidents. Some of the superintendents exercised a large degree of "discretion," in sending in reports.

List of Proposed Reforms.

The reforms that the Hill committee is expected to recommend to the legislature include these:

The absolute divorce of the state institutions from politics.

The abolition of the present board of charities and the creation in its place of a board of control of salaried officers, who shall devote their entire time to the government of the institutions.

The creation of a central purchasing bureau to buy and distribute all the supplies used in the state institutions.

The equalized grading and increase of the wages of attendants so as to attract a better class of men and women to these positions.

The rehabilitation of the physical condition of the institutions and the introduction of up to date methods of care and treatment.

The establishment of a farm for the segregation of epileptics.

Whether the legislature will linger to receive this latest parcel of trouble is a question.

Hill Wants All the Truth.

Representative Hill, who is considered one of the most conscientious members of the assembly, declined to discuss the ultimate recommendations of the committee. He said the matter was one so serious that he must refuse to speak until the entire truth is known. It was learned, however, that the committee has discussed the foregoing tentative recommendations and has sent to other states for information concerning the practical operation of systems in vogue.

The committee will resume its examination of witnesses at the Lincoln home on Thursday, and probably will conclude on Friday. Next week the investigation of the scandals and deaths at the Bartonville asylum will be taken up. After the conclusion of that inquiry the committee, accompanied by State Civil Service Commissioner William B. Moulton, will tour the other institutions, examining conditions and hearing testimony, if necessary, to bring out the facts.

Entire System Must Be Changed.

The investigation has gone far enough already to show conclusively that the entire system of the management of the institutions is primitive and ineffective. The board of charities has no power to enforce reforms. What is needed in its place, it is contended, is a board of control composed of salaried experts who will be supreme in the management of the institutions without even the interference of the governor.

Thousands of dollars are wasted annually in the purchase of supplies by the individual institutions. Great economies would be achieved by the central purchase and distribution of supplies by a bureau organized for this purpose, the contracts being let by competitive bid.

At the present scale of pay it is found impossible to get desirable and efficient men and women for attendants. A male attendant gets from $25 to $40 a month and board, while a woman gets an average of $20 and board. The civil service board has succeeded in weeding out most of the "hospital tramps" who travel the round of the institutions working as attendants as long as they are tolerated and then move on to a fresh field. But at this it is contended that the pay must be raised to get efficient service.

Takes Issue with Dr. Hirsch.

Col. John G. Ogiesby, whose connection with the Lincoln Asylum for Feeble Minded has been made the subject of remarks by Rabbi Hirsch and other members of the board of charities, spent some time today in looking up the records in the statehouse.

"I find," he said, "that so far from cutting down the appropriation for Lincoln, as Dr. Hirsch says we did in the legislature, we increased it. The only cut was that in the appropriation for current expenses. We gave the institution more than it asked for improvements and repairs.

"I find also that Dr. Hirsch has not been to the Lincoln asylum since Dr. Hardt took charge. The state board wanted an appropriation to visit Europe and inspect institutions. We thought the members would do better to obey the law and visit the Illinois institutions, so we didn't make the junket appropriation."

Contest in the Legislature.

In reply to Ogiesby's statement that no reductions were made in appropriation for improvements at Lincoln, it is said that an item of $10,000 for steam radiation was cut out.

The legislature and state board of charities were at loggerheads all last winter over the subject of appropriations for the asylums. The legislators had a scheme to make Bartonville a great central asylum for the incurable insane, and, in spite of the recommendation of the board, appropriated for eight new cottages there and for other improvements to put this plan into effect.

In doing so the senate appropriations committee, which originated the appropriation bill for repairs and improvements for asylums, cut out over $1,000,000, which had been asked by the board.

There was immediate war, and Gov. Deneen was dragged into it, backing the board of charities and hinting that a special session would be called if the legislature did not do justice to the institutions. Finally a compromise was reached by which a part of the sum which had been stricken out was put back—about a third of it. Gov. Deneen then vetoed the Bartonville appropriation for new cottages, and the state board announced that it had been given enough money to make a start in its program of rehabilitation.

Dr. Hirsch Makes More Charges.

Dr. Hirsch in the afternoon called attention to the whipping of inmates of the St. Charles school for delinquent boys. He said in part:

"The superintendent of this institution, C. W. Hart, openly admits to the board that in extreme cases he administers corporal punishment to the inmates. This is a quasi penal institution and he may have some bad boys to deal with, but the board has told him that it does not approve this procedure.

"At Chester, in the asylum for insane criminals, the conditions are atrocious and shocking. The buildings are old and dilapidated, and have been utterly condemned by the board to the governor. If new buildings are not erected at the same time the new penitentiary is built, the failure will be an everlasting disgrace to the legislature and the state. The place at present is simply a prison, and a hideous one at that. The inmates are criminals, it is true, but they are insane and sick, and they should not be treated nor confined as they are at present.

Politics Rules at Wilmington Home.

"At the soldiers' widows' home at Wilmington, which is practically a home for old women, there is a mystery existing which I believe should be cleared up. Both the women on the state board—Miss Lathrop and Mrs. Bourland of Peoria—have urged many times that the superintendent, Mrs. Flo Jamison Miller, be removed. I do not state the nature of their complaint, and up to date the political influence has been too strong to secure a new incumbent for the office. In addition to this, every time we have tried to do anything there the G. A. R. has arrayed its forces against us.

"At Watertown, in the western hospital for the insane, the physical conditions are the best in the state, because the buildings are new.

Field for Work at Jacksonville.

"At the Jacksonville central hospital for the insane I believe an investigation will be desirable. From the superintendent, H. B. Carriel, come denials regarding the persons who were drowned in the open reservoir. He claims they were suicides. I believe the reports in our office will substantiate the statement we have given out. At any rate, such an admirable chance to commit suicide should not be given to crazy people.

"At the Elgin northern hospital for the insane conditions are improving, even though Supt. V. H. Podstata is a greatly discouraged man. He is one of the best men we have in the state, but the atmosphere of the place is hostile to him, and the attendants and others would like to do as they please. All this on account of the fact that his predecessor, whom we succeeded in removing, was the political 'friend' of Representative Shurtleff.

Change for Better at Kankakee.

"At Kankakee the conditions are as different as day from night since Supt. James L. Greene took charge. He is a great medical man and a great executive. He has also kept free from political 'influence.' The trouble there now is lack of money to make physical improvements. He went there under fire on account of the fact that under the former superintendent, a man nearly 80 years old, the real manager was Len Small.

"At the soldiers' orphans' home at Normal the physical conditions are bad. Ugly charges concerning the superintendent, R. N. McCauley, have come to us that we have investigated, but have found no proof against him. An investigation would probably be desirable."

REFORMATORY BOARD MEETS TO INVESTIGATE A DEATH.

Begins Hearing Testimony in Case of William Hamlin—Boy's Mother Is Represented by an Attorney.

Pontiac, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The board of managers of the Illinois reformatory met here this afternoon, at the request of Supt. M. M. Mallary, to investigate the death of William Hamlin, Jan. 18. The dead boy's mother is represented at the inquiry by Attorney Gilmer of Quincy.

The testimony this afternoon was given by Dr. J. A. Marshall, the institution physician, and other medical men, who said that Hamlin sustained a fracture of the vertebrae of his neck. The story developed thus far is that Hamlin, on the night of Dec. 23, planned to escape. He had smuggled from the blacksmith shop into his cell chisels, and files, and succeeded in nearly sawing thrqugh the bars when detected.

As punishment he was placed in solitary confinement and chained to the bars of his cell, at noon, Dec. 24. He was taken down the next morning, chained up again the night of that day, and taken down again the next morning. Again he was chained to the bars the night of the 26th. That night a guard was called to his cell. He left the cell for a minute, and while he was out Hamlin quickly climbed upon the bars on the inside of the cell door and, with the shout of "Here goes nothing!" he made a side leap to the concrete floor, a distance of probably seven feet.

The guard, thinking Hamlin was shamming, chained him up to the bars again, where he remained until the next morning. He was let down in the morning, and about noon was removed to the institution hospital.

MOTHER ON KNEES TO MRS. M'DONALD

Witness Tells How Parent of Webster Guerin Sought to End Intimacy.

GRILLING FOR BROTHER.

James Hamilton Lewis Storms at Witness, Who Tells of Schoolboy Amour.

The story of a mother's remarkable appeal and prayer to another woman was told in the closing moments of the day's session of the Dora McDonald murder trial in Judge Brentano's courtroom yesterday afternoon. Against the exotic background of intrigue, illicit attachment, and sordid death constituting the state's presentation of the tarnished life of Mrs. McDonald this touch of unselfish love came as the one pure note of the day.

Miss Nellie Fitzgibbons, 655 West Harrison street, an aunt of Webster Guerin, with whose death Mrs. McDonald is charged, was the relater of this remarkable scene. It had to do with a visit which she and Mrs. Guerin, the mother of Mrs. McDonald's youthful lover, paid to the Michael McDonald residence at Ashland avenue and West Harrison street in the days when the gambler's wife was just beginning to weave her spell around her schoolboy victim.

Pleas Met with Laughter.

"We went to see Mrs. McDonald about Webster," said Miss Fitzgibbons simply. "We never had been friends, and it was hard, but his mother determined to do something. Mrs. Guerin asked Mrs. McDonald:

"'Why are you going around with Web all the time? He would be a good boy if you would only let him alone. You have your husband and I have only my boys. Won't you leave them to me?'

"Mrs. McDonald laughed.

"'I am not going around with Web,' she said. 'I heard that Guy told Dad that. When Web comes back from California I am going to have him kill Guy.'

"Then my sister got down on her knees to that woman. She cried and said: 'Please let that boy alone. He would be good if it was not for your influence. You seem to have cast a spell over him. I can't do anything with him any more. O, won't you let me have him?'

Denies "Running Around with Him."

"Mrs. McDonald walked up and down the room laughing.

"'I am not running around with him,' she repeated.

"'Didn't I catch you at Richard Vaughan's house with him the other night?' asked my sister. 'I saw you running out of a room with your hair all flying. I know what you are doing.'

"Then I said to Mrs. McDonald:

"'Aren't you ashamed—and you a married woman, too?'

"She put her hand back of her dress as though to get a weapon.

"'I'll kill you,' she said. 'Look out; Look out!'

"She was still crying this when we left the house. After this we could not do any more with Web."

Testimony Is Unshaken.

This testimony, with other of a similar nature showing the relations that existed between Mrs. McDonald and young Guerin for ten years before the tragedy in the Omaha building last February, was one thing that the defense could not shake. James Hamilton Lewis, who cross-examined the state's witnesses, made little attempt to deny that the woman and the boy had improper relations. In his examination of Miss Fitzgibbons and of Archie Guerin, brother of the dead man, who was on the stand the greater part of the day, Mr. Lewis tried to bring out this line of defense:

That Mrs. McDonald was arranging for a divorce so that she and Guerin could be married.

That Guerin blackmailed the woman year after year, and it was the final quarrel over money which Guerin owed Mrs. McDonald that resulted in the struggle for the pistol and the death.

Lewis Storms at Witness.

The trial proceeded rapidly. The courtroom, which was crowded all day to its last inch of space, was held fascinated by the exhibition of Mr. Lewis in action. The suave, courteous exponent of fashion was gone. The transformation brought forth a raging lion of a lawyer, who went after his victims on the witness stand with hammer and tongs and biting sarcasm. At one time Mr. Lewis almost climbed in the witness chair in his fierce attack on Archie Guerin. Judge Brentano was forced to rap for order time after time.

Mrs. McDonald appeared for the first time without her black veil and large black hat. She faced the jury and the witness box, her haggard white face, framed in heavy bronze hair, almost lifeless as far as the scenes around her were concerned. Occasionally a light of interest would flicker up into her eyes, but it died away as soon as it was born and her head sank wearily back.

Began When Boy Was Sixteen.

Guerin, whose cross examination by Mr. Lewis brought charges that caused the young man's face to blanch with fear or anger, took the stand soon after Assistant State's Attorney E. S. Day had completed his opening address. Guerin supported most of the charges made by Mr. Day. His direct testimony led from the time his brother was a 16 year old boy and first met Mrs. McDonald while on his way to school past the woman's residence. He told of the relations between the two, which existed through the school days, through the time when Webster kept a haberdashery business on West Madison street, and up to the days when he and his brother went into business as the Harrison Art company.

"When Webster and I were boys together," he said, "Mrs. McDonald would call Webster into her house on our way home from church or school and he would stay until after lunch time. About once a week while he was in business Mrs. McDonald would call and talk to him in his private office. Then he would go away with her.

"She kept up her visits when we went into the Omaha building. She came nearly always in the evening. Webster and Mrs. McDonald usually went into the La Salle street station. When Webster went away with her he would carry a suitcase. She called often on the phone, giving the name of Madeline.

Tells of Threats by Woman.

Guerin then told of the scene in the restaurant a short time before his brother's death, in which Mrs. McDonald showed her jealousy of Miss Avis Dargan, now Archie Guerin's wife.

"She shouted: 'You are trying to steal him, and I love him, I love him,' said Guerin. "A little while after she turned to me and said:

"'Just think, after all these years Webster is going to throw me down. Would you blame me if I killed him?'

"The morning my brother was killed she came into the office. She said she had a report from a detective, and she and Webster had a row. Webster said he was through with her for good. She walked up to him and said:

"'Well, I'm not through with you, by any means. Do you think I am going to put a bullet through my head without taking you with me? I've told that old slob of a husband of mine all about it—he knows everything now.' This was the last I saw of my brother alive."

Denies All Lewis' Charges.

Then Mr. Lewis went to work to discredit this evidence. His manner was belligerent and at times sneering. He showed no mercy. Guerin stood the grilling well, though he was forced to fall back on loss of memory concerning many things.

"You worked as a ticket seller at the Colonial theater?" "I did."

"Is it not true that you were discharged for stealing by Mr. Lederer?"

"No."

"Did you not steal $300 from Mr. Dillon, and did he not have to take $300 of his wife's savings to pay it back and keep you out of jail?"

"It is not true."

"Isn't it true that your business is a fraud; that you have swindled poor working girls by getting their pictures and making them pay an enormous price for copies?"

"It is not true."

Lost Memory Angers Lewis.

Mr. Lewis advanced a few steps, his whiskers bristling with indignation, his collar awry, his necktie flying around his ears. Clapping his hands sharply, he said:

"Is it not true that you went to a girl named Mary Jacobson and attacked the girl when she went into her room to get money to pay you? Didn't she come downtown and get a warrant for your arrest, and didn't you try to bribe a policeman and then have to pay the girl to keep still—didn't you?"

"I don't remember."

"You don't remember, eh?" said Mr. Lewis, his voice conveying the acme of sarcasm and doubt.

"I say no."

"Did you take Herman Hansen, a witness for the defense, down to the state's attorney's office Saturday and threaten him with jail unless he told you all he had told the defense?"

"I questioned him."

Denies Testimony Was for Sale.

"In the last month haven't you been in the Rookery building with lawyers trying to sell your testimony, trying to get money for altering your testimony in this case?"

"No. It isn't true."

"Isn't it true that you offered to change your testimony so that it would favor the defendant for $75,000—$50,000 for yourself, $10,000 for Miss Fitzgibbons, $10,000 for your wife, and $5,000 for your brother Ben?"

"No, certainly not."

"Did you not tell a man in Leader's saloon in the Monadnock building a month ago that you were studying law, and that you were out for the stuff, and that you knew how to change testimony?"

"That's a lie," cried Guerin.

"Do you know J. M. Levy, alias Robert Cassat, whom you arranged with to testify he had been in the La Salle street station and had seen the shooting?"

"No, I did not make any such arrangement."

"Didn't you try to get Samuel Edwards to testify that he had run into the Omaha and had seen the shooting and had run out again?"

"No, sir."

"Scandalous" Retort Stricken Out.

"I object to the way counsel is getting stuff before this jury," cried Mr. Rittenhouse.

"He is testifying himself," said Mr. Day.

"Well, if I did I'd tell the truth," said Mr. Lewis, with a glance of scorn at the witness.

"I don't believe you would," said Guerin.

"What's that? What's that?" said Mr. Lewis, running toward the witness stand. "Your honor, I move that such scandalous and impertinent remarks be stricken from the record."

"Let it be stricken out," said the court.

"And don't you talk back at me any more," said Mr. Lewis, shaking his finger at the witness.

Didn't Say "He Killed Her."

"After that morning in the office," Mr. Lewis continued, "did you not go over to the Windsor-Clifton to see Harry Feldman? Was he not waiting there for his sister and did he not ask you where she was, and did you not say, 'O, she is chewing the rag over there with Web'?"

"I went to see Feldman."

"Then when you heard the news of the shooting, did you not say: 'Good God, Web is shot. O, yes, I know he killed her and then shot himself. I knew he would do it. If she is not dead, get some one to her and stop her mouth'?"

"It is not true."

"When you left the room with Jimmie McDonald, did you not say: 'I wish I had staid. Web might not have done it'?"

"No, sir."

"Then didn't you say: 'He has got his diamonds on—I must get them'?"

"No, sir."

"Did you get the diamonds, and then accuse the police of stealing them?"

"I got them from the coroner."

"Now, isn't it true that you went to Mrs. McDonald's house to get $500 from her to carry on your business?"

"I never got a cent from her."

"Well, didn't your brother get money from her for years—blackmail her, and didn't she say that morning that she must have her pawn tickets back or the old man would find it out?"

"No, sir, nothing of the kind."

Same Story by Aunt.

Miss Fitzgibbons in her direct examination followed the story of Guerin closely in showing the relations between her nephew and Mrs. McDonald. She told how one day when Webster was ill Mrs. McDonald came to the house and went into his bedroom and kissed him. She identified a trunkful of pictures of Webster and Mrs. McDonald.

Telling Story of Her Life Tragedy; Offers New Phase of "Unwritten Law."

Mrs Angelina Anselone.

TWO FIRES IN SAME BUILDING

Loss of $50,000 in Hot Blaze at 22 West Randolph Street.

ENGINE STRIKES A TOWER.

Fire Wall and Hard Work Prevented the Flames' Rapid Spread.

Fire—the second within a few hours—in the plant of Charles H. Brideau, in the Manufacturers' building, 22 and 24 West Randolph street, at 11:30 last night, caused a property loss of $50,000. The flames leaping out of the fifth story of the building threatened for a time to spread, but the firewall and the work of the firemen arrested them before they could make much headway. Traffic on the Milwaukee, Armitage, and Ogden car lines was suspended during the fire.

The fire, which was discovered by neighbors, who turned in an alarm to Engine company No. 2, soon got beyond the control of the firemen and a 2-11, immediately followed by a 3-11, was sent in, which brought more than thirty engines and the fire tug Illinois to the scene. The fire did not get beyond the fourth floor, which was occupied by the Western Metal Manufacturing company.

List of Firms' Losses.

The firms and their losses follow:

Charles H. Brideaux Manufacturing company, fifth floor; damage by fire and water, $10,000.

Western Metal Manufacturing company, third floor; damage mostly by water, $10,000.

Western Instrument company, second and third floors; damage by water, $10,000.

Aultman Engine and Thrashing Machine company, first floor; damage by water, $5,000.

Loss to building, $10,000.

The origin of the fire could not be learned by the police or firemen. The first fire occurred shortly after 8 o'clock and was soon extinguished.

While responding to the alarm an engine of colored company 21 and the water tower from engine company 32 collided at State and Washington streets. None of the firemen of either company was injured, although they were all thrown to the street.

Fireman's Body Found.

After the greater part of the day had been spent in a vain search the body of James Gallagher of truck company 1 was found by a party of his comrades under a pile of debris on the first floor of the fire wrecked Mayer building, 167 Adams street, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. All day long streams of water were played on the smoking ruins of the building and the Hotel Florence, which also was burned. The damage done by the fire is estimated at $150,000.

Not until the body of Gallagher was found was it positive that death had followed in the wake of the fire, which wrecked two buildings and scorched several others and for a time threatened the new Corn Exchange National Bank building, the Woman's Temple, and adjoining structures.

Woman Warns Hotel Guests.

The fire started in the basement of the seven story Mayer building, and almost before the arrival of the firemen had ascended to the roof and also leaped across an areaway to the Hotel Florence. The fire was discovered by Mrs. A. Long, wife of the proprietor of the hotel, and she immediately notified the guests. Several women were carried down ladders by the first firemen on the scene, most of them being compelled to get out in their night clothes, with the thermometer down to 15 above zero and a strong wind blowing.

ADDS SECTION TO UNWRITTEN LAW.

Mrs. Angelina Anselone Tells Jury How She Killed Her Traducer.

CLAIMS SELF DEFENSE.

Thought He Was About to Kill Witness After Breaking Up Home.

The "short and simple annals of the poor" found eloquent expression in Judge Winder' court yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Angelina Anselone, 24 years old, told why and how she shot and killed Philip Ferreo last August.

Her plea is self-defense—that she shot to protect her life from imminent danger. But whether Philip Ferreo had a revolver in his pocket or not and whether he intended to draw it and use it had he not been stopped by a bullet in his brain are questions less frequently asked than the question of unwritten law. Had she a right to kill him?

If her story is true, it is a new plea of the appeal to the unwritten law for justification. There were no chorus girls, champagne suppers, or hereditary degeneracy in it. The woman did not kill the man because he had betrayed her or because he was tired of her. According to her story, she was a pure woman, a good wife, and a good mother, and she shot Philip Ferreo because, not content with ruining her home and happiness, he still followed her, intent on ruining her soul or taking her life.

Testifies Through Interpreter.

In short sentences she told her tragedy. Her little daughter Anita, 4 years old, who played an important part in precipitating one of its saddest scenes, sat with Mrs. Fiorelli, the court interpreter, who translated Mrs. Anselone's confession and whose testimony forms practically the whole case for the prosecution. As Mrs. Anselone gave her testimony her little daughter became restless, and the mother frequently halted to smile at the child and speak to her. At last the little girl began to cry for her mother, and after being taken to the corridor for a short time was allowed to go to her mother, who then held her in arms for most of the afternoon. Once, however, she got down and stood beside the stenographer's desk, staring curiously at the exhibits for the state which lay there, a revolver and several bullets.

Mrs. Anselone told of coming to America with her baby two years after her husband and of going with him to live with her brother and his wife, to which house Philip Ferreo soon came as a boarder. Ferreo first tried to make trouble between the brother and his wife and threatened to kill the man if the woman would not yield to him. He made threats to Mrs. Anselone four times, at one time showing her his revolver and saying: "By this gun your brother shall fall." Under these circumstances, one of which was the fact that Ferreo showed his revolver conspicuously every night when he sat down to supper, the brother and his wife left their own house to the Anselones. Ferreo also left the place, but continued to visit them.

Tells Story in Detail.

Following is the story of the shooting and the events leading up to it as told by the little Italian woman in the plain, coarse dress with the madonna shawl on her head and the baby on her lap.

"One day Philip came into the house cursing. I was sewing trousers. When he sat down I asked him why he cursed. I said people who cursed were not welcome where I was. He kept on cursing and I asked him again why he cursed. Then he jumped up and said: 'I want to eat with you.' 'Why do you talk with me that way?' I said. 'Leave me.' Then he grabbed me by the hair and tried to drag me to the bedroom. I tried to push him away, and my child began to scream and he let me go. As he went out of the door he said he would go and tell my husband that he had eaten with me, and that my husband would leave me."

Q.—In your dialect, what did he mean by that?

A.—He meant that I had been unfaithful to my husband.

Q.—What did you say to that?

A.—I said, "As long as I have done no wrong I do not believe that my husband will leave me."

Child Tells of Attack.

"That was Saturday night," continued the witness, "and the next morning, Sunday, as soon as my little one awoke she went to her papa and said: 'Papa, Phil shall not come here again, because last night he grabbed my mamma by the hair and beat her.' My husband was angry and asked me to explain why Phil beat me. I said he beat me because he was trying to force me to eat with him. My husband did not believe that and I asked him to get Phil and ask him before me if that was not the truth. About 9 o'clock my husband came in with Phil, and then he said to him, 'I want to know why last night you beat my wife.' 'I did not beat her,' he said. Then the little child said, 'Yes, papa, he did beat my mamma.' But Phil said no.

"Then my husband was angry and he said: 'Tell me the truth, or as sure as this is St. Joseph's day I will kill you both. Have you eaten with my wife? If you have really done it, you may take her, I do not want her.'

"And Philip said, 'I will take her.' I began to scream, 'You have betrayed me. It is a lie, and I hope some one will kill you.'

"Then Philip said again that he had eaten with me, and my husband said, 'Then you may have her, I don't want her.' Then Philip struck at me, but my husband struck me first, and they both beat me, and my husband left, and I have never seen him since. Before Philip left he threatened me and said, 'You shall fall into my hands.'"

Gets Revolver and Kills Him.

She then told of arming herself with a revolver which her husband had left, and of meeting Ferreo one day shortly afterward. He taunted her with the success of his plans, and in her anger she drew her revolver in the crowded street and shot into the ground at her feet. Ferreo ran, and a policeman took the gun away from her. She then bought another revolver, which she used more effectively.

"The day that I killed him," she said, "I saw him from my window pacing up and down the street in front of the house, so I called in my little one. After I had called her in she said, 'Mamma, I want some bread,' so I started out to get a loaf of bread at the store. I went the rear way. As I went down the steps a neighbor said that my cousin who had caused my husband to leave me was walking up and down by the alley. As I walked across the yard the door to the alley opened and Philip came toward me. 'Do not be frightened. I want to talk with you,' he said. I told him to take himself away from my sight.

"Then he began to curse, and said that he would kill me, and made a motion with his hand toward his hip pocket. I did not think what I did, but I was sure he was going to kill me, and I threw up my hand with my revolver in it and shot. Then I dropped the revolver and ran, without even knowing if I had hit him."

State's Attorney Fletcher cross examined the woman for over half an hour, without shaking her testimony, and will continue the examination this morning.

Convicted at Former Trial.

On her first trial, before Judge Kersten, she did not go on the stand and tell her story, and was found guilty of murder and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. The severity of the sentence, following closely verdicts of acquittal for wealthier women defendants on the grounds of the "unwritten law," roused a protest among club women, headed by Mrs. Frederick Freer, and a new trial was granted by Judge Kersten on the ground of error in the record. Mrs. Anselone is represented by Bernard P. Barasa.

THAW HAS MANIC-DEPRESSIVE

White's Slayer Victim of Circular Insanity, Say Experts.

OUTING FOR THE PRISONER.

Will Go to Penitentiary When Hummel Is Questioned.

New York, Jan. 27.—The Thaw defense closed its case today with "manic-depressive" insanity as the explanation of the death of Stanford White at the hands of the young Pittsburg millionaire. Tomorrow the prosecution will begin its evidence in rebuttal, and the case should go to the jury by Wednesday night or Thursday noon.

District Attorney Jerome tomorrow morning will apply for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of Abram Hummel, the convicted lawyer, who is confined in the penitentiary on Blackwell's island, and who is too ill to appear in court. Mr. Littleton of the defense said he would oppose any such action, whereupon Justice Dowling announced that if necessary he would go to the island himself tomorrow night in company with Thaw and his counsel to preside at the taking of Hummel's testimony.

Prospect Delights Thaw.

Thaw seemed delighted at the prospect of the outing—even to the grim shores of New York City's penal colony—and smiled broadly at the court's suggestion.

District Attorney Jerome contented himself with drawing from the alienists the fact that last year they swore it was during a "brain storm" that Thaw committed the homicide. He also read from the affidavit made by Dr. Wagner before the lunacy commission last year.

It was left to Justice Dowling to make a most important inquiry of the alienists. He desired to know the exact nature of "manic-depressive" insanity, and if the attacks were likely to recur. He also asked if a person suffering from this form of insanity would be likely to commit assaults.

An English physician, one of three men of medicine who testified, first gave the name of "manic-depressive," or "subacute mania," to Thaw's mental condition. Dr. Sydney Russell Wells of London made the diagnosis during an outbreak by Thaw in London in 1899, when, with a normal temperature, Thaw demanded that the walls of his rooms in a nursing home be torn down so that he might have air and that twenty tons of ice be put in the apartment to cool it.

16,000 Words in Question.

Mr. Littleton's hypothetical question, which was answered by the three experts, was a résumé of the evidence. The question contained some 16,000 words.

Dr. Charles Francis Bingaman, the Thaw family physician, of Pittsburg, the first witness, repeated the testimony he gave at the last trial. He said the defendant always referred to the Madison Square garden tragedy as "the act of Providence."

Miss Lillian T. MacBride of London, a nurse, corroborated the testimony of Dr. Wells. There was no evidence of alcoholism, she said, and Thaw's acts and appearance impressed her as irrational.

Dr. Frederick J. Burton-Browne of London, formerly of the India medical service, who, while practicing in Rome, attended Thaw, in March, 1902, testified that he had diagnosed the case as one of simple or mild mania.

Dr. Maurice Gauja of Paris, who attended Thaw in Paris in the spring of 1904, when he attempted suicide by swallowing laudanum, followed Dr. Browne, and then Mr. Littleton read the hypothetical question to Drs. Smith-Ely Jelliffe of Columbia university, Charles G. Wagner of Binghamton, N. Y., and Britton D. Evans of Morris Plains, N. J., insanity experts, at the same time.

Didn't Know It Was Wrong.

Dr. Wagner said he believed, from the facts set forth in the question, that Thaw on the night of June 25, 1906, when he shot and killed Stanford White, was suffering from such a defect of reason as not to know the nature or quality of his act or that the act was wrong.

Explaining "manic-depressive," Dr. Wagner said it was a circular form of insanity.

"In manic-depressive insanity," queried Justice Dowling, "are the attacks likely to recur?"

"Yes," replied Dr. Wagner.

"It is safe then to predict frequent attacks when the mania and melancholy manifested themselves in early life?"

"If you are considering a person in middle life, I think you have a right to expect frequent and more violent outbreaks in the future," Dr. Wagner replied.

Drs. Evans and Jelliffe also stated the opinion that Thaw did not know the nature or quality of his act or that the act was wrong.

District Attorney Jerome moved that all of the evidence of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw be stricken from the record on the ground that she had not produced in evidence the fourteen letters from Stanford White she showed Thaw in Paris. Justice Dowling overruled the motion.

FIRST MOVE BY WALSH TODAY IN FIGHT FOR A NEW TRIAL.

Judge Anderson Will Hear the Argument, Which May Be Based Upon "Weeping Juror" Incident.

John R. Walsh and his lawyers will take the initial step today in their endeavor to annul the verdict of the jury that found Walsh guilty a week ago Saturday of misapplying funds of the Chicago National bank. District Judge A. B. Anderson of Indianapolis, who presided at the banker's trial, will hear a motion in the morning for a new trial in the federal court.

The motion was entered almost immediately after the verdict had been recorded in Judge Anderson's court. Attorney John S. Miller probably will argue the question. Assistant District Attorney Fletcher Dobbyns is confident the motion will be denied.

One of the principal points, it is said, that will be raised in support of the argument for a new trial is the attitude of Juror Elbert Palmer of Harvard, Ill., who wept when the verdict was returned. The defending lawyers are prepared, it is said, to charge that Palmer was coerced into signing a verdict of guilty.

The fact that three jurors were ill at different periods also may be used as a ground for a new trial.

The shooting by Mrs. Beatrice Thomas Metcalfe of Terre Haute in the federal building, by which, it is charged, she attempted to kill the late Samuel R. Hamill, one of Walsh's lawyers, may be made a point supporting the endeavor to obtain a new trial.

COUNT AND BRIDE FOIL THE CURIOUS

Dodge Huge Crowd Around Vanderbilt Home After Brilliant Wedding.

HOUSE AN ORCHID BOWER

Bright Uniforms and Beautiful Dresses Make Rooms Riot of Colors.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, the youngest daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, today became the wife of Count Laszlo Jeno Maria, Henrik Simon Szechenyi. Through the marriage she becomes the first American woman who has acquired a Hungarian title.

The wedding, which was held at the home of the bride's mother, 2 West Fifty-eighth street, was one of the most brilliant affairs of its kind ever held in the city, although in detail it was characterized by simplicity. Only about 300 guests, relatives and intimate friends, witnessed the ceremony.

While there was no repetition of the disgraceful street scenes which have been enacted at other prominent New York weddings, especially the wedding of Miss May Goelet to the duke of Roxburghe in 1903, the police at times had their hands full caring for the crowd that gathered near the Vanderbilt house. There were at one time probably 3,000 persons, most of them women, standing in Fifth avenue and the side streets hoping to get a glimpse of the bridal couple. They were all disappointed, and the way that came about was one of the most interesting happenings of the day.

Point Out Carriage; Use Auto.

It was 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon when Inspectors Schmittberger and Walsh, who had charge of the police arrangements, were called to the Fifty-eighth street entrance of the Vanderbilt house. A carriage bearing the Vanderbilt monogram was pointed out, and it was said that it would take the bride and the bridegroom to their private car at the Grand Central station. They would leave at the Fifty-seventh street entrance.

That was enough for the inspectors. They immediately stationed about twenty-five men at the entrance, and this number was reinforced a few minutes later when the carriage drew up at the curb. The crowd made a dash for Fifty-seventh street, the photographers drew up in battle array, and there was scarcely even a policeman left at the Fifty-eighth street side.

The expectancy of the crowd of women was at its height when word was sent out from the house that the couple had gone. The curiosity seekers started a rush up Fifth avenue, mixing things up generally with the Fifth avenue traffic, but all they saw was the tail end of a red automobile going east through Fifty-ninth street.

Guests Delay the Ceremony.

The count and the countess had started on their honeymoon.

It will last only a few days, as the count has booked sailings on the Kaiser Wilhelm II for Feb. 4. They will probably spend the most of the time at Harry Payne Whitney's place at Westbury, L. I.

The guests began to arrive at the Vanderbilt house at 11:30 o'clock. The wedding ceremony had been set for 12 sharp, but at that hour there were fully one-third of the guests who had not yet got into the house. At one time there was a line of waiting carriages extending nearly around the plaza to Fifth avenue.

The guests as they entered from the Fifty-eighth street side laid their wraps away and were taken on a lift to the hallway on the first floor. This hallway runs the length of the building. It was decorated with palms, ferns and southern smilax. There the guests were received by Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who was dressed in robin egg blue with a blue and gold hat.

Rooms Riot of Orchids.

The wedding ceremony was performed before an altar erected in the drawing room on the Fifty-seventh street side of the house. This room was abloom with orchids. Behind the altar was a bridal arbor of palms and orchids. Some of the guests stood in the drawing room and some in the ballroom which adjoins it.

An orchestra of sixty-five pieces and thirty-six choristers from St. Patrick's cathedral were concealed behind a wall of palms and ferns in the hall. The bride herself had selected the music which the orchestra should play. The program while the guests were assembling included two movements from Tchaikowsky's symphony "Pathetique," the love music from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and the bridal procession from Rubinstein's "Feramors."

Mrs. Vanderbilt, the bride's mother, entered the drawing room first on the arm of her youngest son, Reginald C. She wore a pearl gray brocade with her famous string of black pearls. She took a seat to the right of the altar with her youngest son on one side and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, her elder daughter, on the other side.

Bridegroom in Uniform.

Mgr. M. J. Lavelle and the Rev. Father J. J. Byrne, master of ceremonies, both of the cathedral, who were to officiate, were in the drawing room when the guests began to enter. Mgr. Lavelle wore the robes of his office, a black cassock and cape trimmed with red and with red buttons. On his head was the black berretta with a red pompon. Father Byrne was dressed in the regulation black cassock and cape.

The bridegroom entered with his best man, Count Anton Sigray, a cousin. The bridegroom wore the full dress uniform of a lieutenant of the Hungarian hussars—red knickerbockers, a dull gray coat, and tight fitting polished boots extending to his knees. Over one shoulder hung a cape of chinchilla fur held in place by black silk cords. At his side the count carried a beautiful sword with gold and ivory hilt. In one hand he held his hat. Count Sigray was in court uniform.

The count had no sooner reached the altar than the organ, hidden in a bower of palms in the hall, struck up the opening bars of Gaul's cantata "Ruth." Above the organ's notes sounded the soprano voices of the choir boys. The cathedral quartet joined in.

Entrance of Bridal Party.

The bridal party came down the grand staircase, crossed the ballroom, and entered the drawing room. A wide aisle, fringed on each side by high palms and tall vases of flowers, led straight from the hall to the drawing room. The aisle looked almost like a tropical garden path.

Leading the procession were the two bridesmaids—Miss Ruth Vanderbilt Twombly, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, and Miss Dorothy Whitney, the second daughter of the late William C. Whitney. Miss Twombly is a cousin of the bride and Miss Whitney is one of her closest friends. The bridemaids were attired in ivory white gowns of the princess style, with girdles of silk. They wore large hats trimmed with ostrich plumes, and necklaces of pearls presented to them by the bride. Each carried a muff of pink chiffon ornamented with a cluster of white acacia blossoms.

Miss Flora Whitney, the 10 year old daughter of Harry Payne Whitney and a niece of the bride, followed the bridemaids as flower girl. She also was dressed in white and carried in one hand an elaborate basketful of white orchids.

Bridal Gown Simple in Effect.

The bride was leaning on the arm of her eldest brother, Cornelius, who wore the conventional frock coat. Miss Vanderbilt's dress, of princess design, was of white satin embellished with some beautiful white lace which was worn by her mother at her wedding. A cluster of white orchids held the bridal veil in place.

She wore about her neck a string of pearls and carried in one hand a prayer book bound in ivory and gold, while in the other she held a bouquet of white orchids and orange blossoms, tied with white satin ribbons. The bride's gown, like the other features of the wedding, were designed to be simple in effect.

Cornelius placed his sister's hand in that of the count and the wedding service began. It was the regular service prescribed in the Catholic church for marriages in which one of the contracting parties is not of that faith. Mgr. Lavelle handed the ring to the count, who in turn placed it on the bride's finger, pledging his troth.

Address by Mgr. Lavelle.

Mgr. Lavelle said in his address:

"I hope, my dear friends, you have reflected sufficiently upon the importance of the contract which you have just ratified in the presence of God. The solemn engagement by which you are united is not of a transient and momentary nature; it binds you together during the whole period of your earthly existence.

"Whatever may be your present anticipations, whatever the tie of affection that binds you to each other, the time of difficulty, the time of trial, must arrive when all the courage of a generous heart and all the piety of a true Christian will be required to sustain you, to enlighten you, and to protect from the fury of the storm the fair fruits of domestic peace.

"It is this that awakens a feeling of the deepest interest among those who surround you on this occasion, and prompts us all to invoke upon you the favor of the Almighty. May he then extend to you those graces which will be the security of your earthly happiness and a pledge of your eternal welfare."

Urges Obedience to Religion.

Mgr. Lavelle went on to entreat them both always to let religion direct them in all their actions.

The couple knelt at the altar and received the benediction. There was no salutation between the bride and bridegroom at the conclusion of the service. Mgr. Lavelle and Father Byrne congratulated them both and then, to the strain of the Triumphal march from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba," they marched out into the ballroom. There an informal reception was held.

Not more than 200 of the guests remained for the wedding breakfast. There were thirty-eight tables set in the dining room and the ballroom. At the bridal table, which was trimmed with white orchids and orange blossoms, were, besides the bride and bridegroom, Miss Whitney and Miss Twombly, the bridemaids, Count Anton Sigray, the best man, and the ushers, who included two of Count Szechenyi's friends, Count Stefan Szechenyi, and Count Paul Esterhazy.

At Mrs. Vanderbilt's table were Mgr. Lavelle, Baron Hengelmuller, the Austrian ambassador at Washington, and the baroness, Mrs. Ogden Mills, the Rev. Father Byrne, and J. P. Morgan.

Red Uniforms Add to Color.

There were six or eight tables in the dining room, each of them presided over by a relative of the bride. Among others who sat at the heads of these tables were Mrs. Seward Webb, Mrs. William D. Sloane, Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly. The most of the other guests at these tables were also relatives—chiefly cousins—of the bride. Most of the friends of the family had seats in the ballroom.

Besides the bridegroom and his best man, all of the other Hungarian members of nobility and also the members of the Austrian diplomatic corps at Washington wore their court regalia.

In most instances this consisted of loud red knickerbockers, a blue or green coat, and tight fitting boots reaching to the knees.

Police Guard at Departure.

Most of the guests had left the house before 3 o'clock. No announcement was made as to where the count and countess would spend their honeymoon. Some of the friends of the family said they had planned at one time to go to Oakland Farms, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's place near Newport, but the chances were that they had gone to Mr. Whitney's place at Westbury.

There were 150 police in the squad which guarded the Vanderbilt house. From 12:30 o'clock until after 3 they refused to allow anybody to walk past the Vanderbilt house on the west side of Fifth avenue. The crowds in the side streets were kept several hundred feet away from the house.

The favorite vantage point was the little park in the Plaza circle. There were fully 1,000 persons there at one time, but the police kept the walks open.

The police had to handle one or two women a little roughly, but for the most part it was a most orderly crowd.

UNHAPPY THOUGH PROMOTED FROM DISHWASHER TO WIFE.

Child Bride Tells in Juvenile Court of Disillusionment After She Weds Restaurant Proprietor.

When Charles Bryan asked a 15 year old dishwasher in his restaurant at 66 Center street to quit washing dishes as a paid employé and begin to wash them as his wife the prospect looked so alluring to her that she hardly could believe it. She told Judge Tuthill about it in the Juvenile court yesterday along with subsequent tales of neglect and desertion.

"Your honor," sobbed the child-wife, "I told him I could not see why a man owning a restaurant and having money would desire to marry his dishwasher. I told him how young I was, and that I was a poor girl. He told me it made no difference what I was as long as he loved me. So I married him.

"We lived together for a short time, and when I asked him for clothes he put me off and did not get them for me. When I asked for money all he gave me was a quarter.

"When he tired of me he said I was insane, and a doctor examined me. I was taken to the Detention hospital, but later released."

In spite of this treatment the young wife said she still loved Bryan, and finally they went away to try life together again.

CAUGHT WITH DECOY PACKAGE.

Fugitive from Chicago Indictment Captured at Vicksburg When He Calls at Express Office.

One of three decoy packages sent to as many cities resulted yesterday in the arrest of Harry Pryor, a former convict, at Vicksburg, Miss. He had fled when indicted in Chicago for burglary.

According to the police, Pryor, who is a colored man, robbed the residence of H. L. Ghidden, 1857 Michigan avenue, of clothing and jewelry valued at $500. Detectives learned he had gone to New Orleans, Atlanta, or Vicksburg. Decoy packages were sent to each of the cities and the police of each was asked to watch for Pryor if he went to express offices to obtain the packages.

TELLS OF WIFE'S ELOPEMENT

Alexander Surprised to Learn Two Continents Know Sorrow.

EASILY DUPED BY PAIR.

Attachment of Former Chicago Woman an Unexpected Blow.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HYERES, France, Jan. 27.—Henry Addison Alexander, whose wife, the daughter of the late Gen. Joseph T. Torrence of Chicago, recently eloped with William Blakeston, a London lawyer, today told of how his false friend and his wife deceived him.

Mr. Alexander's face is marked with lines of deep sorrow. His air is that of one utterly crushed. Plainly he was much surprised that his wife's elopement is known over two continents. Even his servants here do not know that Mrs. Alexander has run away. They think she is gone on a visit somewhere and expect her to return at any moment.

"I have lived here for four years, since my marriage," said Mr. Alexander with a forced laugh. "I have enough money to assure a comfortable existence and I bought this villa because I hoped to live happily with my wife, far from society, and because I like this climate."

Tells of Blakeston's Visit.

"Where did you meet Blakeston?" he was asked.

"In London," said Mr. Alexander, moodily. "I thought I got to know him well and asked him to spend some weeks here. He came two months ago and remained three weeks. I suspected nothing. I saw not the slightest sign that he was undermining me in my wife's affections. In fact, I pressed him to return when he told me that business affairs called him to London. He did return on Jan. 16, and, taking advantage of my absence in Switzerland, they ran away together."

"Where are they?"

"In London, I think," answered Mr. Alexander.

It was learned easily that Blakeston bought two tickets for Italy, but Mr. Alexander did not know that.

No Quarrels with Wife.

"Had you quarreled with your wife?"

"Not at all," replied Mr. Alexander. "I never had a quarrel with her. As far as I was concerned, I was entirely happy. There was not a cloud on our happiness that I could see."

"What do you propose to do?"

Mr. Alexander is more than 60 years old; at least twenty years Blakeston's senior. He did not answer the question, but his eyes flashed and he clenched his hands.

Every one in Hyeres thought Mrs. Alexander was French. She speaks French perfectly.

GUARDSMEN TO MEET REGULARS

Gen. Scott Picks "First" and "Fourth" as Illinois' Representatives at Indiana Encampment.

The First and Fourth regiments of the Illinois National Guard will rub elbows with regulars at the United States army encampment at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Sept. 11 to 20. Adjt. Gen. Scott announced yesterday he had selected the First and the Fourth, which has its headquarters in Jacksonville, as the state's representatives at the big gathering of troops. The troops of the First, commanded by Col. Joseph B. Sanborn, have seen duty in the Spanish war, but the encampment will prove a unique experience.

STABS SELF; FIGHTS TO DIE.

Would-Be Suicide Nearly Slashes Policeman Stoffens, Who Tries to Save Him.

Policeman William Stoffens of the Irving Park station narrowly escaped being stabbed to death yesterday while attempting to prevent Charles Johnson, a laborer, from committing suicide. It was only after Johnson was weak from the loss of blood from a deep gash in his neck that Stoffens was able to subdue him. Johnson probably will not recover. The struggle between the policeman and Johnson took place in the bathroom in the latter's home, 276 North Forty-first court. Johnson had been reported missing and Stoffens was sent to investigate.

ASKING A VOTE ON ANNEXATION.

Two Hundred People Sign Evanston Petition—Mayor Paden Thinks the Question of Small Interest.

The petition which is being circulated in Evanston asking for a vote on the question of annexing Evanston to Chicago was the subject of some discussion yesterday.

Mayor Joseph E. Paden and others said that the question was of little or no interest to the voters.

James Huxtable, who is circulating the petition, says 200 names were added during the day, the majority of the persons asked signing it. His chief argument is that the fire and police forces, now called "splendid," will be enlarged and better paid after consolidation.

GRIP ATTACKS JOHN M. SMYTH.

Chicago Merchant for Time Is in Serious Condition, but Makes Strong Rally.

John M. Smyth, the merchant, is suffering from grip at his residence, 560 Dearborn avenue. He was stricken with the disease on Sunday, and for a time it was feared it would result seriously. His condition improved so yesterday, it was said in the evening, that he hoped to be at his place of business today.

PHYSICIAN BEATEN AND ROBBED

Police Believe Dr. Henry W. Bernard Is Victim of Enemies Posing as Footpads.

Dr. Henry W. Bernard, 1107 West Chicago avenue, was assaulted and robbed last night by two men who the police believe are enemies of the physician. The attack occurred at Campbell and West Chicago avenues. The men took Dr. Bernard's watch and $40, but left his revolver and a diamond pin valued at $150.

HOBO'S HERO STARS IN COURT

Ben L. Reitman Again Revels in Limelight of "Persecution."

STREET PARADE DEFENDED.

"Orderly Until Police Interfered"; Chief Shippy to Be Witness.

Chief Shippy will be subpœnaed to appear in Judge Sadler's court this morning as the star witness for the prosecution in the case against Ben L. Reitman, United States army deserter, head of the "Brotherhood Welfare," and alleged champion of the hobo's cause.

Chief Shippy will be asked to describe the "disorderly" features of the parade of the unemployed on Jan. 23. It was while Reitman was leading the march of anarchists and others to the city hall, armed with a petition "for work," addressed to Mayor Busse, that he was arrested by the police and "booked" at Central station under the charge of disorderly conduct.

The trial was started during the afternoon in Judge Sadler's court on the fifth floor of the Municipal court building, in Michigan avenue, and was continued over until this morning in order that Chief Shippy might appear. He also will be questioned by Attorney Sigmond Steadman, counsel for the defendant, concerning "the attack" which, according to the tale that Reitman recited on the witness stand yesterday, the chief made on him while he was in charge of a cordon of police.

Thought He'd Be Killed.

"I thought surely I would be killed," said Reformer Reitman when telling his story to the jury. "After Policemen Fred G. Brocker and Frank J. Schmitt took hold of me, and the crowd had been scattered, a lot of plain clothes men rushed at me with their clubs, shouting: 'Get him; he's the fellow that caused all this.' One of them struck me over the head and the rest of them were beating me on the back."

"The whole line of march had scattered. I don't believe there were more than half a dozen men about me when I was attacked."

There were several of "the faithful" in court, among them "Pittsburg Joe" and "Water Tank Mike."

Reitman's mother and his brother Louis were present.

Quiet Until Police Appeared.

On direct examination Reitman described the march as "quiet and orderly until the police interfered."

"What is your occupation?" asked Assistant City Prosecutor Seligman.

"Physician and reformer," replied Reitman, trying to suppress a smile.

"Have you an office?"

"Yes, sir; at 92 State street."

"Of what does your reform consist?"

"My object is to give unemployed and homeless men as good a chance to get work as those who have means."

"What was the object of giving that parade?"

"It was threefold. First, to show how many unemployed men there are in the city who want work; second, to petition the mayor and city council to furnish them work; and third, to test their rights as citizens to march after Chief Shippy had denied them the privilege."

Sane Men All Want Work.

"Do you mean to say that all those men want work?"

"Why, certainly. I never knew a sane man who didn't want to work."

"Well, were all of those men sane?"

"The great majority of them."

"Then habitual tramps are insane, are they?"

"My twenty years' experience with tramps causes me to believe that all habitual vagrants and able bodied beggars suffer a form of insanity."

Will Speak Unless in Bridewell.

A meeting to protest against the action of the police in interrupting Dr. Reitman on parade will be held at Brand's hall, 162 North Clark street, this evening, and the doctor announces that he will make an address, "provided," he adds, "I am not in the bridewell. The meeting is said to be under the auspices of the Radical society of Chicago, and Reitman promises that several "well known anarchists will speak."

A meeting of the Henry George society will be held in Handel hall tomorrow evening, where, so Dr. Reitman announced last evening, he will make his last appearance before the public.

"I've got mine," he explained laconically. "It's the quiet life for me now."

This depressing announcement was offset by a later remark that he was considering the acceptance of an invitation to march at the head of an army of the unemployed from St. Louis to Washington. But, as he sadly added, of course this, too, is contingent on his keeping out of the bridewell.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS CELEBRATION.

Committee Prepares Program for Golden Anniversary of Association's Organization in Chicago.

Plans were made for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Young Men's Christian association in Chicago at the meeting of the citizens' advisory committee held last night at the Midday club.

The celebration will begin April 13 and last for two weeks. It will include religious services in all departments of the Y. M. C. A. and in various churches throughout the city, special lectures and addresses, and an athletic carnival.

It will culminate in a banquet at the Auditorium Annex April 27. The athletic carnival will take place in the Coliseum, and over 1,000 men and boys will participate.

DUNNE PRAISES THE FORESTERS

Former Mayor at Banquet Predicts Successful Future for the Catholic Order.

The fifth annual banquet of St. Elizabeth court, No. 22, Catholic Order of Foresters, was held last evening at the Grand Pacific hotel. Nearly 200 members and their friends were present. Ex-Mayor Edward F. Dunne spoke on the "Forester as a Citizen." He predicted a successful future for the organization. Other speakers were Bishop Muldoon, the Rev. D. J. Riordan, the Rev. P. J. Calhaghan, Thomas F. McDonald, high secretary of the order, and William F. Ryan, Illinois chief ranger. J. W. Dowd presided and Dr. C. P. Caldwell was toastmaster.

CANNON BEAMS ON 'SEM' GIRLS

Delegation of Budding Beauties Calls on the Speaker.

GREETS "NEXT PRESIDENT."

Candidate Blandly Tells Why He Opposes Woman Suffrage.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—They filed demurely into Speaker Cannon's room in the house of representatives this afternoon, a score of girls in tailor made frocks, every one of them awed by the thought that she was to be brought face to face with Uncle Joe and grasp the iron hand that wields the gavel.

But the venerable presiding officer of the house put them at their ease in a moment, and when they went away they were the happiest twenty girls in all the world. Uncle Joe was happy, too. A presidential candidate who overlooks the potent force of women in politics doesn't know his business.

No sooner had William J. Bryan left the speaker's presence than the twenty budding beauties entered, and they were beauties. The speaker's eagle eye and his other lighted up with the sparkle of fifty years ago as he saw their rosy cheeks and clear complexions.

Speaker Pleased with Callers.

"It is a pleasure to see you, young ladies," said Uncle Joe, throwing his "fancy tail" cigar in the grate and taking a furtive look at himself in the big mantel mirror.

The principal of the seminary in this city, where the girls are students, who was a mere man, explained that his pupils were from many different states and had all heard much of the speaker of the house. There were girls from Georgia, Ohio, Arkansas, New York, Texas, Iowa, Virginia, and other parts of the union, and every one of them said she was happy to meet the speaker. When the handshaking was over Mr. Cannon said:

"Now, girls, form around me in a semicircle, so that I can see you better."

"These young ladies all wanted to meet the next president," explained the principal.

Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

The speaker's eye grew brighter.

"Now, girls," he said, "I'm mighty glad to see you and I want your support, and I hope I am going to get it, but I want to tell you frankly that I am opposed to suffrage for women. You see, every one of you will have two votes if you have suffrage, for as I look into your eyes I can feel you'll control some man's vote as well as your own. That's why I am opposed to woman suffrage."

"I'm sorry there isn't an Illinois girl here," said the principal.

"O, yes, there is," said the girls in chorus, and they pushed forward a young lady from Uncle Joe's state.

CHARGES GAMBLING ALLOWED IN SOUTH SIDE DISTRICTS.

Chief Shippy Investigating Conditions Reported in Stanton Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street Precincts.

Reports that gambling is allowed and the 1 o'clock saloon closing law in the Stanton avenue and Thirty-fifth street police districts is not enforced were denied by Capt. William Plunkett last evening. When Chief Shippy was told that these precincts were "wide open" he talked to Plunkett over the telephone.

"You want to pay some attention to my orders," declared the chief.

"These reports are not true," called back the captain.

During the day Capt. Plunkett's report of the "house warming" which marked the opening of the new Stanton avenue station last Thursday night reached the city hall.

"I am not satisfied with Capt. Plunkett's report and shall continue my investigation," said Chief Shippy. The report stated that the story was false and malicious. Plunkett admitted that "Benny" Yanger and "Jack" Root gave a sparring exhibition, but said that there was no prize fight.

Elton Lower, president of the civil service commission, said that the third member of the retiring board probably would be chosen this morning. He stated that an attempt would be made to secure a high class physician for the place and the appointment would be made from a list of ten names which had been prepared by Dr. Evans.

POLICE TAKE SOCIALIST 'CRIER.'

Distributer of Handbills Proclaiming Massmeeting Tonight Also Makes "Parade" to Station.

Jacob Schneider, 145 Newberry avenue, was arrested last evening while distributing handbills advertising a massmeeting of socialists to be held at Brand's hall tonight. The meeting is called to protest against the action of the police last Thursday in arresting Dr. Ben L. Reitman and forbidding a delegation of the unemployed to enter the city hall to demand employment.

Schneider came to this country from Russia eighteen months ago.

A committee of fifteen members was appointed during the day by President John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation of Labor to make an investigation as to the number of unemployed in the various organized trades in Chicago.

The data will be attached to a petition to be sent to city, state, and federal officials asking that work for the unemployed be furnished on public works.

ASSIGNMENT BY HOME OF AGED.

Bethesda Society Takes Action for Benefit of Creditors—Receiver Sought Some Time Ago.

A voluntary assignment for the benefit of its creditors was made by the Bethesda Home for the Aged society yesterday.

A receiver was asked on Jan. 4 by Frank F. Henning, president of the society. He stated that the liabilities would reach $40,000. He said that he had expended $53,000 in building up the institution, of which amount $14,000 was contributed by the life members of the organization.

The home is located at 30 Belden court. It has been established for fifteen years.

WOMAN SLAIN, 5 DOCTORS SAY

Declare Marks on Josephine Malone's Throat Made by Fingers

MANIAC THEORY ADVANCED.

Clayton Woman's Husband Acts in Janesville Double Mystery.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Five of six leading physicians who reëxamined Josephine Malone's body this afternoon said marks on her throat and neck were made by fingers. Dr. St. John disagreed and intimated the marks were not there when he made his examination with a microscope Saturday. Dr. Gibson, who helped in Saturday's examination and was present today, accounts for their presence by saying the body on Saturday was in a semi-frozen condition, and that the embalming fluid and thawing from the tissues developed the marks, then not noticeable.

Death Suspicious, Official Says.

District Attorney Fisher thinks the death suspicious enough to warrant the employment of a detective. He says the county should investigate both the Malone case and that of Madeline Clayton, whose death was similar, and whose body was found across the river, a hundred yards away from that of Miss Malone.

William and Frank Malone, brothers of the dead woman, insist she was murdered, and consulted an attorney with a view of forcing the police and district attorney to take action. City Marshal Appleby is the only official who believes the death resulted from suicide. He sees no need for an investigation.

Actress' Husband on Scene.

Frederick Clayton, husband of the dead Chicago actress, arrived last night and is aiding in solving the Malone problem, stating that he believes its solution will mean the clearing up of the mystery of his wife's death.

The theory advanced by the district attorney and relatives of Miss Malone is that the woman was the victim of a maniac, who choked her and threw her, while alive, into the river. One of the persons suspected of the crime was brought to the morgue today, but he showed no evidence of ever having seen the woman before and thought he was invited there to aid in the solution of the death as a detective.

State Short of Funds.

A Milwaukee detective, who arrived this afternoon, stated he did not believe the woman went into the river of her own will.

Just what action will be taken is doubtful, as District Attorney Fisher, while expressing a theory of foul play, does not believe there is sufficient evidence yet to call a coroner's jury, and has no funds at his disposal to employ a detective.

It is possible the Malone family will employ an investigator to work under direction of the district attorney.

GAMES DO NOT MAKE SOLDIERS.

President Eliot of Harvard Says Violent Sports Fail to Increase Martial Spirit.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 27.—The "violent and fierce" sports of the present day are not necessary to the development of a martial spirit, declared President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university tonight, in an address on "Harvard Fifty Years Ago."

To prove his statement he stated that fifty years ago strenuous athletics were comparatively unknown, yet Harvard sent to distinguished military service over 1,200 graduates and students.

Interesting comparisons of Harvard fifty years ago and the present day were made by the speaker. Should the university grow as much in the next fifty years as in the last fifty, he said, Harvard would have 37,000 students.

HEIRS TO FIGHT BRADLEY DEEDS

Proceedings to Set Aside Conveyance of $3,000,000 Worth of Property to Institute to Be Begun.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the heirs of Mrs. Lydia Bradley this afternoon it was decided to institute proceedings to set aside the deeds made by Mrs. Bradley conveying property valued at $3,000,000 to the Bradley institute, affiliated with the University of Chicago.

Heirs in Missouri, Indiana, and California have been heard from. John Dailey has been retained to prosecute the case.

Mr. Dailey declines to state the basis of the suit, but it is understood it will be charged that undue efforts were made to bring about the transfers.

SAYS GAS VICTIM WILL LIVE.

Optimistic Statement Given Out at Hospital, but Dr. Dobija's Case Puzzles the Police.

That Dr. Franz Dobija, the Austrian physician who was found unconscious with the gas jets turned on Sunday afternoon, would recover was the statement given out last night by Dr. Frederick A. Rettig, who is attending him at the Alexian Brothers hospital. Until he regains consciousness, however, his case will remain a mystery to the police. The three people who entered the flat at 2 o'clock in the afternoon still insist they found and left Dr. Dobija sleeping quietly without any smell of gas in his flat and with one window open.

NOW A HOME BEAUTIFUL SHOW.

Exhibition of Household Furnishings Will Be Held in the Coliseum March 10-21.

An exhibition of household furnishings will be made at the Coliseum, March 10 to 21. It has been named the Home Beautiful show. Collections of pictures, a cotton field showing the processes from picking to the finishing of mattresses, the use of rugs, and arrangements of color schemes are some of the features that will mark the undertaking. Daily lectures will be given during the exhibition.

Jury Convicts Milbrath.

COOKE DECLINES TO GO TO PRISON.

Convicted Man Still in Jail and Will Seek New Habeas Corpus Today

SHERIFF SAYS TOMORROW

State's Attorney Threatens Contempt Proceedings Against Strassheim.

John A. Cooke's attorneys will resume today the battle to keep him out of the penitentiary, in the face of threats from the state's attorney's office that any delay beyond this noon will be followed by proceedings against Sheriff Strassheim for contempt of court.

The sheriff, however, promised that unless some judge issued a writ of habeas corpus, the convicted politician would be started on his long deferred trip to Joliet at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Cooke's attorneys, when they heard of the threat made by Assistant State's Attorney Hobart P. Young, refused to discuss it. They continued their preparation of an amended petition for Cooke's release on habeas corpus. The intention is to present this petition before some judge this morning. It was not completed in time for presenting it yesterday, it was stated.

The new petition will set forth the same grounds for Cooke's release that were averred in the petition that was denied by Judge McEwen, but in different language.

Hold Judge McEwen's Ruling Nil.

It is asserted that the petition will contend that there was no judgment by Judge McEwen, for the reason that the attorneys for Cooke, before Judge McEwen delivered his opinion, withdrew the petition.

They take the position that it was as though Judge McEwen had torn up his sixty odd typewritten pages of opinion and thrown it into the waste basket without reading it. In other words, they refuse to consider the decision by Judge McEwen. They will not admit that it was delivered.

It will be further represented in the amended petition, according to one story, that this same opinion—unrecognized though it is by Mr. Cooke's attorneys, Daniel Donahoe and James Hartnett—was circulated in the streets before Judge McEwen had done reading it.

It became known during the day that Cooke's attorneys are not delaying his removal to the penitentiary with the idea of securing a review of the case by the State Supreme court, which will meet Feb. 4. They are, it is stated, working for a record in the state courts. After they have exhausted the state courts in their efforts to secure Cooke's release on habeas corpus it is their intention, it is asserted, to apply for a writ of habeas corpus before some federal judge. This will give them the opportunity to take the case ultimately before the United States Supreme court.

After Sheriff for Delay.

"I am going to find out tomorrow what the cause is of all this dilly dallying on the part of the sheriff's office," said Assistant State's Attorney Young last night. "If no writ is issued by noon and Cooke has not been started for the penitentiary I shall proceed against Sheriff Strassheim for contempt of court. The sheriff is sworn to enforce the laws. I don't understand why he is apparently trying to aid Cooke."

Mr. Young said there was nothing to the claim that any judge would have to issue a writ for bringing Cooke into court forthwith.

"The law is," said he, "that the court shall not issue the writ in the first instance, unless the face of the petition shows that he should be discharged. Some new point must be raised if they file another petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

"It is the practice of the Supreme court first to hear what both sides have to say, and then to issue the writ if warranted. They can thrash out all those points with the prisoner in the penitentiary and that's where Cooke has got to go.

Says Sheriff Goes Too Far.

"Cooke was theoretically started for the penitentiary two weeks ago. The sheriff has no more right to keep him in custody at the jail after Judge McEwen's decision than a party of hoodlums would have if they captured or rescued Cooke at Lockport on his way down to Joliet. The sheriff has no right to permit Cooke to loiter in Chicago.

"Of course, if a writ in Cooke's favor is issued tomorrow that will alter the case and we will fight it, but I don't expect that any writ will be issued."

Cooke spent the day in reading books in the comfortable jail hospital. He was sentenced to Joliet a year and a half ago for grafting while he was clerk of the Circuit court.

Suit to prevent the further removal of cushion seats in the "bleachers" at the West Side ball park was filed in the Circuit court yesterday, by John F. Lee, Edward F. BRYAN WILL STICK; SAYS SO HIMSELF.

He Will Look Up Record of Any Democrat Who Suggests Retirement.

THINKS VICTORY IS NEAR

But Man Chosen for Chief Aid Cannot Serve, Having Fight on Own Hands.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—William Jennings Bryan evidently does not intend to withdraw in the least from the position he has taken in the race for the democratic nomination for president.

He told the democratic members of the senate and house in so many words today that no one had suggested that he withdraw from the contest, and added that he would inquire closely into the position and affiliations of any one who dared to do it. His statement, repeated to the democratic senators at the home of Senator Newlands of Nevada tonight, was as follows:

"No one has suggested to me that I should not become the candidate of the democratic party for the presidency. If any one should do so, you may set it down as certain that I shall inquire minutely into the credentials which he has and whom he represents, and whether he belongs to the true democracy. I shall also discuss the affiliations which he may have in and out of the party.

Can Prove His Popularity.

"I can show you documentary evidence of the demand in nearly every part of the country and from most of the leading men within our ranks for me to accept the nomination. If I am mistaken as to such a demand, I must be shown that the suggestion of the withdrawal of my candidacy does not come from that faction of the party which in recent campaigns has coöperated and voted with the republican party."

Mr. Bryan believes the chances of the party for victory were never better than they are today, and letters he has received and personal conversations he has had with influential democrats have convinced him there is a genuine sentiment among the democrats to have him once more serve as their standard bearer.

So confident is he that he will be the leader that he has approached Senator Stone of Missouri to ascertain if he would serve as chairman of the democratic campaign committee. Unfortunately for Mr. Bryan, Senator Stone has a fight on his hands. Gov. Folk has declared his candidacy to succeed "Gum Shoe Bill" in the senate, and the latter must devote all his time and attention to Missouri. Mr. Bryan is considering other men for the chairmanship, but he has not decided whom to select.

Dinner Marred for Time.

Mr. Bryan sat tonight on the right of Senator Newlands and faced a number of men who oppose his candidacy. The Nevada host experienced a great deal of difficulty in arranging the function. He sent out invitations some days ago for two dinners, but received a number of declinations from the men asked to the second dinner tomorrow night, who thought they were of sufficient importance to attend the first night.

It became necessary to rearrange the lists, so, after consultation with Mr. Bryan yesterday, Mr. Newlands canceled his original invitations and divided the democratic senators, asking for tonight those whose names began with A and ended with L and for tomorrow night the remainder of the senatorial alphabet.

This arrangement seems to have pleased every one. Among men at the dinner tonight was Daniel of Virginia, who strongly opposed Bryan's government ownership views.

Not Convinced at End.

Just what happened at the dinner is a professional secret and therefore not known to the world at large. When the party broke up Mr. Bryan was not convinced that the good of the party required his withdrawal. He is in the race to stay, and further evidence must be furnished to induce him to issue a proclamation of renunciation.

At the time Bryan was in the house of representatives today Secretary Taft also was there. The two men did not, however, meet. A member suggested that the next president of the United States surely was at the capitol today.

"Yes," responded a wag, "and his name's Bill, at that."

Mr. Bryan paid a visit to the press gallery apparently for the purpose of being interviewed. The newspaper correspondents were embarrassed for a moment, but soon they began to question him in rapid fire manner and the candidate for the democratic nomination was kept busy making replies.

Story Shows Fowler's Position.

Representative Fowler of New Jersey, who was making a speech on the currency question, was responsible for Mr. Bryan telling the following story:

"Mr. Fowler's experience reminds me of a man who started to get over a fence into a lot in which there was a ferocious bull. The idea struck him that it would be funny if he could get hold of the bull by the tail and throw him over the fence. The thought appealed to the man so humorously that for half an hour he sat down and laughed as hard as he could. Finally he subdued his mirth and climbed over the fence.

"Some time afterward, when he came to, he aroused himself and said: 'Gee! but it was a good thing I had my laugh first.'

"Perhaps," added Mr. Bryan, "it may be a good thing that those members who are poking fun at Mr. Fowler are having their laugh first."

Mr. Bryan gave out an interview, repeating his views on the currency situation and the remedy that should be adopted. He would like to have congress adopt a law like that on the statute books of Oklahoma, providing for the insurance of bank deposits.

Texas "Compromise" with Taft.

While Secretary Taft was at the capitol he met Representative Henry of Texas.

"Mr. Secretary," said Henry, "our folks in Texas think mighty well of you, and, while there is some difference of opinion among the Texans as to whether or not you ought to be the next president, we are going to compromise the matter. We'll give you the Texas delegates to the republican convention, but on election day we will defeat you by about 400,000 majority."

"Fine," exclaimed the secretary, his fat sides shaking with laughter. "If you Texans will do that, Mr. Henry, I shall be entirely satisfied."

New Chicago Political Organization Enters Arena to Tell Husbands How to Vote.

A new and unique organization will enter the political arena at the next election, if plans laid by several Chicago women under the leadership of Mrs. W. C. H. Keough at the Sherman house last night are carried out.

The organization was formed to elect Bryan, and guide the politics of husbands, brothers, peddlers, hucksters, gardeners, the husbands of washwomen, and several other classes, and incidentally to deal a death blow to woman suffrage. It will be known as the Democratic Home Influence club. It has thirty-five charter members and each has pledged herself to form five auxiliary organizations.

Three of the women present were wives of republicans, and one of the main objects of the organization will be to wean republican husbands from their party allegiance. Officers were elected during the evening, Mrs. Keough being chosen president.

BALLOT FORECAST ON DARK HORSES.

Negroes May Have Influence.

This is a straw which the politicians will readily follow, because it shows accurately the way the political wind is blowing wherever the negro vote is brought into the question. Foraker was the champion of the Brownsville negroes and the race has flocked to him in response to his efforts. This is undeniably true of the colored people in the south, where they have no voice at the polls, but where they do have a little something to say, although not much, in the making up of the delegations to the national convention.

If the northern negroes follow their southern brethren in this regard, and if their resentment against Roosevelt continues after his successor is nominated, which, of course, is an open question, it might mean the loss of a ward or a legislative district here and there, and in some rare cases these little losses might be critical.

The most curious feature of THE TRIBUNE vote is to be found in the ballots themselves. Some of these comments are funny, some scurrilous, but almost all of them are significant. For instance, one of the alternates in the last convention from an Ohio district, who now records himself for Foraker, writes on his ballot:

"I favor law enforcement, and less gallery play, less meddling, and less talk."

Ohioan Attacks President.

Another Ohio Foraker voter attacks the president by saying: "He's a yellow demagogue, a liar, and as rotten as they're made."

One well known Mississippi republican, who makes Foraker his first choice, says that for second and third choice he favors: "Any one of those who are being favorably discussed who are not in sympathy with the policies of the present administration."

Any analysis of Secretary Cortelyou's strength as shown in the test ballot must be from the point of view that he has never formally announced himself as a candidate. That is only fair to him. His name has been included in this list because it appeared on a sufficient number of ballots. He has some elements of strength, which are clearly indicated, and they are elements which Foraker does not possess. In other words, Cortelyou is stronger for second or third choice than for first.

That is the exact position a dark horse would occupy. He invites no attack on the first ballot and remains in comparative obscurity until the break comes. Then he has the probability of securing the sudden second choice strength and of holding what he has. Every time a candidate is removed he moves up a peg, and so the man who is strong in the reverse order of choices always stands a chance of being the "runner up" in a political convention.

Cortelyou a Second Choice.

This test ballot shows exactly what the people have been saying of Cortelyou, which is that he is far in the rear, and will be so when the convention opens, but that he is liable to gain strength during the different ballots rather than to be eliminated altogether. On the particular test question now, out of a total of 251 mentions, Cortelyou's name is put down 20 times for the first place, 87 times for second place, and 144 times for the third place.

This indicates a political situation almost the reverse of that which controls the Foraker movement. Cortelyou's strength on the first ballot is so small that he cannot be considered in any way, so far as this test is concerned, as an enemy of the administration and voted for on that account alone.

That he is being borne in mind and that the various voters think of him as a residuary candidate is shown clearly by the fact that four times as many voters think of him for the second choice as for the first and that a still greater number are willing to accept him after two other favorites have been put out of business.

His Support Is Widespread.

An examination of the Cortelyou ballots shows that they do not represent cranks or any extreme in republican politics. In many cases the writers say they approve of the policy of the president only in part, but there is nothing violent in this dissent from the administration program. There is frequently an expression of opinion that a more conservative man is necessary, without any impairment of the general principles of Roosevelt administration.

This indicates that the Cortelyou strength is conservative and moderate. It is more than that. It is much more widely spread geographically than one would expect under the peculiar circumstances. The majority of his votes are found in New York, Virginia, Illinois, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Maryland.

There is not much more strength in New York than in Virginia or Illinois, and besides the half dozen states mentioned, there are scattering votes recorded from California to Florida, indicating that the secretary of the treasury has attracted popular attention to a degree which renders it necessary that his political strength, inert though it may seem to be at the present time, must be taken into consideration by the politicians from now on until the canvass closes.

CUBS' FOOD

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts

See Below.

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My little baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1½ tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family."

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

END REVISION OF ALDRICH MEASURE

Currency Bill Ready for Final Touches Before Going Into Congress.

NOW HAS MANY CHANGES.

One Amendment Does Away with Delay in Issuing New Bank Circulation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The revision of the Aldrich currency bill was completed today by Senators Aldrich, Allison, and Hale. When the committee on finance meets tomorrow after the recess taken a week ago to enable Senator Aldrich to incorporate in the bill several amendments which had been suggested by both the republicans and democrats, the completed measure will be presented and will form the basis for the final discussion before it is reported to the senate.

Most of the changes which will be made in the Aldrich bill as a result of the committee discussion have been explained heretofore in the Washington dispatches to THE TRIBUNE. A new amendment contained in the draft of the revised bill to be considered by the committee tomorrow was suggested by Senator Bailey, one of the democratic leaders. It provides for an equitable distribution of the circulation authorized by the bill, and was the outcome of the apprehension on the part of the senators from the states which have much sparsely settled territory that New York, Chicago, and other great cities would be able to have a practical monopoly of the issue of emregency currency through their ability to control most of the bonds which banks must obtain and deposit in the treasury as collateral for the issue of the additional circulation.

States Basis of Division.

Senator Bailey did not submit his amendment in writing, so it was drafted by Senator Aldrich, and incorporated in the revised bill. Under this amendment the country is not divided into subtreasury districts, as was proposed by Senator Bailey, but each division comprises a state of the union, whose national banks are to be entitled to taking out emergency circulation in proportion to the total capital and surplus of the national banks in that state. The republican members of the finance committee have approved of this amendment, as drawn by Senator Aldrich.

Several new amendments are designed to provide for an issue of an emergency circulation with the least possible delay. In the Aldrich bill, as presented originally to the committee on finance, it was provided that the subtreasuries should hold in reserve the emergency circulation notes of only such banks as requested that they be printed and so held subject to call.

One of the revised amendments requires the secretary of the treasury to prepare and keep on hand in the subtreasuries printed notes of all the national banks in each subtreasury district. Under this provision a bank which had not contemplated taking out any emergency circulation and suddenly desired or felt compelled to do so will not be required to wait until the notes can be printed and transmitted to it through the nearest subtreasury.

Delay in Issuance Averted.

The secretary of the treasury is directed also by one of the new amendments to pass upon the stability of several classes of unofficial securities that may be used as collateral for circulation. To avert any delay through an inquiry as to the stability of these securities in times of financial stress the secretary will be required to have all such securities classified immediately upon the passage of the act.

The important changes in the bill, heretofore given in THE TRIBUNE, provide that the bonds of counties and cities, without regard to the number of inhabitants in these counties and cities, as originally provided, may be accepted as security for the issue of circulation; increasing to $500,000,000 the amount of circulation that may be taken out under the bill, the original limit having been $250,000,000.

Friends of the Aldrich bill declare—and this opinion is shared by Senator Aldrich, its author—that opposition to the measure on the part of bankers is because of the belief entertained by them that it will be costly to take out the proposed emergency circulation. The fact that the emergency circulation might be secured, Senator Aldrich said, would make its issuance unnecessary in any considerable quantities.

McKinney Introduces Bill.

Representative McKinney of Illinois, member of the house committee on banking and currency, today introduced a currency bill which has the indorsement of the currency commission of the American Bankers' association. It also has the approval of the executive council of the Illinois Bankers' association.

The bill provides for the issue of guaranteed credit notes, a guarantee fund derived by a tax upon the notes issued to be placed in the hands of the treasurer of the United States, and in addition gives these note issues prior lien on the assets of any national bank that may fail.

Under the bill, before a bank can issue the guarantee credit notes, it must have out 62½ per cent of its capital in bond secured notes, thus giving protection to the bondholders who have invested in this class of security, but continuing the policy by giving the federal government a market for its bonds.

A bank may then issue notes to the amount of 40 per cent of 62½ per cent of its capital, bearing a tax of 2½ per cent per annum, and may issue additional notes equal to 12½ per cent of its capital, bearing 5 per cent per annum tax.

The currency issued over and above the bond secured notes is to be subject to retirement when the occasion for its issue has passed. Under this plan it is calculated that there will be an automatic expansion or contraction of notes as the needs of the country may justify.

FORGAN HITS CURRENCY BILLS.

Chicago Banker, in New York, Declares Country Needs Less, Not Expansion of Credits.

New York, Jan. 27.—Speaking of the financial bills offered as a panacea for present financial troubles, David R. Forgan, president of the National City bank of Chicago, declared the country needs less, not more, expansion of credit.

Mr. Forgan strongly opposed Mr. Bryan's proposition of "government guarantee of all deposits of the national banks" as a remedy for existing financial evils.

Mr. Forgan was speaking at the annual dinner of the bankers of New York.

Among those at the guests' table were J. Pierpont Morgan and Controller of the Currency Ridgely.

"ISLAND SLAVERY KNOWN TO TAFT."

Tillman Charges Secretary with Cognizance of Philippine Human Traffic.

PRACTICED IN THE UNION

Mr. Hale Gets Delay on Heyburn Bill to Investigate Allegations.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—In the senate today Secretary Taft was charged by Senator Tillman with having knowledge of slavery in the Philippine islands. The charge was made during the debate of the bill revising the criminal code of the United States, which provides penalties for dealing in slaves.

The old law against slave trade was retained in the code by the committee reporting the bill, with a change by which the word "persons" is substituted for the words "negroes, mulattos, and colored persons." Senator Hale declared that, slavery being a thing of the past, all reference to it should be taken out of the code.

"Slavery in United States."

Senator Heyburn, in charge of the bill, contended for the retention of the provision, saying there are forms of slavery other than those abolished by the civil war. He cited cooly slavery and slavery for immoral purposes, which, he said, exists in this country, and said the prohibition would apply to such practices. He added he had heard it charged that slavery of the old fashioned kind exists in one of the Philippine islands.

Mr. Hale declared he had never supposed slavery existed in the islands after American occupation.

"I am surprised," interposed Senator Tillman, "to hear a republican senator disclaim knowledge of what has been notorious since we took possession of the Philippines. I am still more surprised that the party which gathered so much glory from the destruction of slavery in this country and which has control of our foreign affairs, has done nothing to put an end to slave trade there. Why don't the men responsible for Philippine government enforce the law? The islands are governed by Secretary Taft under the president."

Action on Matter Delayed.

Mr. Hale said he did not think that relation toward the islands would prevent the secretary of war from reporting conditions. "I am not prepared," he said, "to say that the secretary of war has suppressed important facts concerning the Philippines."

Mr. Hale asked that the paragraphs relating to slavery be passed over in order that full information might be received concerning it, to which Senator Heyburn agreed.

Mr. Lodge declared it well known that in the islands of Bolo and Moro debt slavery existed. It is also common knowledge, he said, that Gen. Bates made an agreement by which slaves might purchase their freedom, but President McKinley refused to approve of that treaty, and soon afterward slavery was practically abolished by executive military order. The organic act of 1902 contained a clause against slavery, and Sept. 24, 1903, he continued, the Philippine commission provided heavy penalties against persons who hold or sell slaves.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

Don't be a frozen householder

Nothing equals the discomfort and disadvantage of a cold house. It means a poor start for the day's work; and by night, no matter how brightly lighted or well furnished, a cold house is a poor climax to the day's efforts. Then, too, the family breadwinners are handicapped in the business competition with others who are put in the best mental and physical poise by rising, bathing, dressing and breakfasting in rooms tempered and invigorated by the soft warmth of Hot Water or Low-Pressure Steam, as produced by

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

Then there are the great economies to be considered. You save largely at the coal-bin—burning, if you wish, the cheapest grade of soft coal, screenings, gas-house coke, natural gas, wood—anything. They do not throw ash-dust, soot, smoke or coal-gases into the living rooms, thus reducing house-cleaning one-half and saving much wear on carpets and furnishings.

Better to omit the useless inner doors, extra chimneys, mantels, fancy lamps that are never lighted, books which are never read, vases which contain no flowers, etc. The savings brought about by these outfits will soon assist to pay for fine furnishings.

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators will outlast the building—require no repairs. When property is sold, owners get full money back, or 10% to 15% increased rentals. Bankers extend larger loans, and more readily, on property thus modernized.

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators require far less attention than does a parlor stove. A child can run them.

Quickly put into OLD buildings—farm or city—in mid-Winter without disturbing occupants. Just the season to get the services of the most skillful fitters—the finest workmanship! Prices are now most favorable.

All IDEAL Boilers have easy-acting, non-clinkering grates—so nicely balanced that a child can shake them. Should last 30 years.

Don't delay investigating this well-paying investment with its marked fuel, labor and repair savings, besides greater comfort, health protection, cleanliness, safety, low insurance, and durability. INTEREST ROUSED IN GRAND OPERA.

Public Awakens to Presence of San Carlo Company in Auditorium.

LARGE SALE ALL WEEK.

"Carmen" Draws Largest Audience Seen Thus Far in the Present Season.

BY W. L. HUBBARD.

The public of Chicago seems to have awakened at last to the fact that grand opera has replaced vaudeville for a time at the Auditorium, and that the opera is of a kind deserving of patronage. The second week of the San Carlo company's engagement opened last evening with one of the largest audiences of the present season, and it was learned from the box office that the advance sale yesterday for the week was gratifyingly large.

The demand for tickets was not confined to any particular night, but was quite uniformly distributed through the eight performances—a sign of healthy interest and sound appreciation of what the company is offering.

The Wednesday night bill, "Les Huguenots," formed somewhat of an exception to this rule, however, there being an especially heavy demand for places, and indications point to a sold out house for that evening. The chance to hear both Mme. Nordica and Mme. Nielsen in the same cast attracts, as the "all star" plan ever attracts.

Mr. Russell had not returned from Boston last evening, but is expected back today, and Mme. Nordica also is looked for on one of the flyers from New York.

The opera last evening was "Carmen," the one work in operatic repertory which gives promise of never losing its attractiveness for laymen and musicians alike. Be it ever so badly given the wondrous charm of the Bizet masterpiece cannot be wholly obscured, and if it be well done there is nothing in the whole list of present day operatic offerings that affords such a large measure of such thorough musical enjoyment and satisfaction and such excellent entertainment. The book itself is the most perfect yet fashioned for any opera or music drama, and the musical setting is of such consummate beauty and faultless skill that even the most captious critic can find nothing in the score to which to take exception.

The performance began brightly and snappily, and it continued so to the end. The audience caught the spirit instantly and approval—the approval of hearty and discriminative appreciation—was bestowed whenever opportunity made such approval advisable and possible. There were occasional roughnesses in the ensemble, which suggested less of rehearsal than had been bestowed upon other performances that have been given by the company, but these made themselves felt in the first two acts rather than in the later ones, and the excellence of the Russell ensemble stood admirably revealed in the great scene in the smugglers' retreat, and in that in front of the arena.

The Carmen was Mme. Noria, who made an excellent impression in the role. She is suited to it temperamentally, and her enactment of the part was one of the strong factors of her performance. She clearly has thought out the character carefully, intelligently, and independently, and there is nothing she does—or did at least last evening—that is not entirely logical, fitting, and effective. The impulsiveness, the carelessness, and the vanity of Carmen she reveals with emphasis, and she shows the gypsy's fickleness without giving her the heartlessness with so many portrayers of the part suggest. She presents a Carmen who really loves the men she takes into her favor—loves them for a brief time, it is true, but loves them passionately and sincerely while the infatuation is on. The infatuation, however, is fleeting, and she turns to the next lover with just as much abandon and just as much sincerity as she did at one time to the one just discarded. Such conception of the character makes Carmen less reprehensible than she usually is made to appear, and rather tends to emphasize the charm and potency of her coquetry and her dashing, impulsive nature.

Vocally the music of Carmen does not lie as well for Mme. Noria as does that of Aida. She uses the low version, and while the low tones of her voice are rich, warm, and of beautiful quality, they are not especially resonant and powerful. The result is that a considerable number of passages in the vocal score become inaudible unless the accompaniment chances to be light. Mr. Conti, the director, held his orchestra finely subdued whenever such subduing was permissible or desirable, but there are many places in the splendid score where fullness of volume is essential, and in such as these, if Carmen chanced to be singing, and singing in the lower registers, Mme. Noria's voice did not carry through the instrumental mass or through the voices of her associates. When this covering of the voice was avoided, however, the music of the part was beautifully sung.

Numerous liberties were taken with tempo and phrasing in the first act—most too many for them to be wholly justifiable by the score. But in the second and remaining acts the singer adhered more closely to what Bizet has indicated, and the result was pleasure and satisfaction to all who heard. Her delivery of the "Seguidilla" in the first act was better than of the "Habanera," and the music of the scene with José at Lillas Pastia's was sung with admirable understanding and effect. The card aria was somewhat theatrically given, there being lacking in it the note of inevitable tragedy which it demands for its finest rendition, but the quarrel with José and the bit of love duet with Escamillo in the last act were excellent.

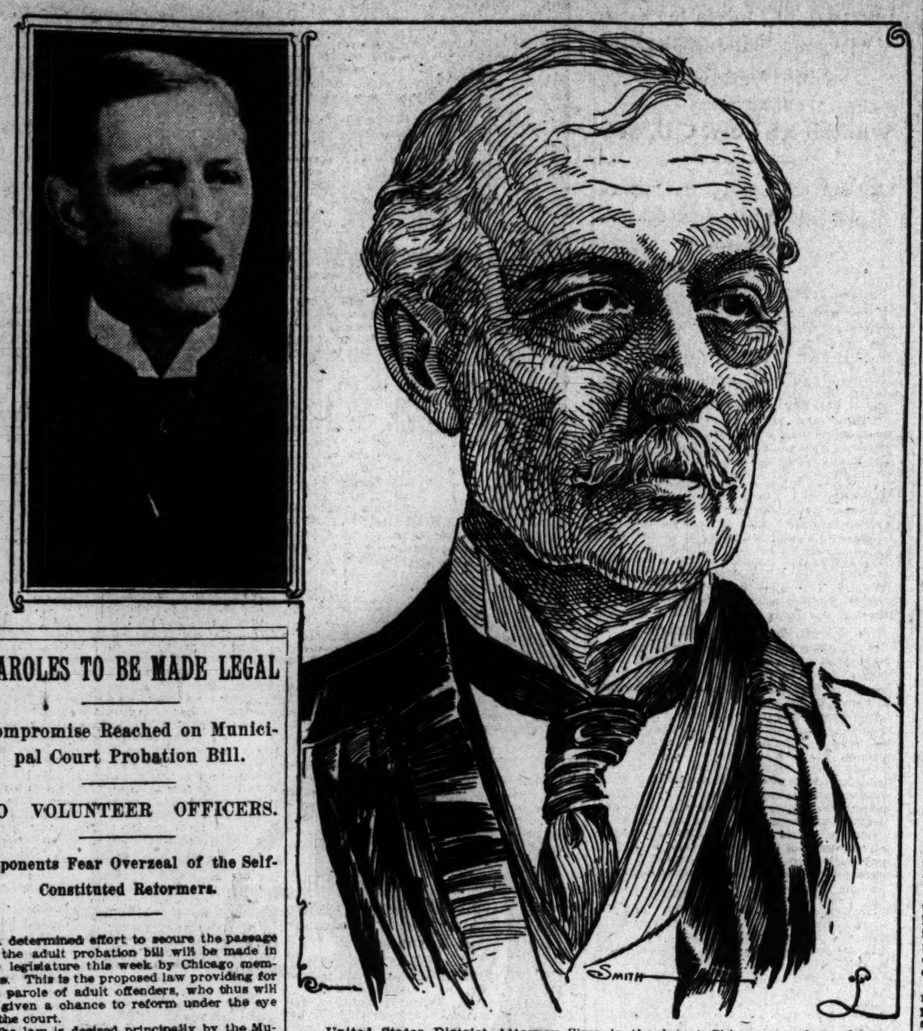
Mr. Constantino was the José, and it may be said with all verity that he is the best one that has been heard here since Ravelli and Campanini appeared in the rôle. He acts the part with a manliness which no one save Jean De Reszke has brought to its portrayal of late years, and he sang it last evening splendidly. Not in years has the "Flower aria" been so beautifully sung—with such finish and tonal glory—and with such excellent understanding of its dramatic significance. It really is the whole story of José's love for Carmen, and the sincerity of feeling, the devotion, and the pitifulness of his affection for her were expressed as Constantino gave the difficult aria last evening. The audience felt the power of the singer's achievement and insisted upon a repetition—a demand that has not been made in several seasons of "Carmen" giving in the Auditorium. The dramatic climax of the third act was compassed with intensity and true strength.

The Escamillo of Mr. Segurola was another sterling portrayal this capable and intelligent artist added to the list he has presented here. He is a man who thinks as well as sings, and he does both well. He made a handsome Toreador, won a particularly enthusiastic and insistent encore for the entrance song, and did some particularly beautiful work both tonal and interpretative in the brief love duet with Carmen in the last act. Mlle. Bramonia as the Michaela embodied the character attractively, and did her portion of the duet with José in the opening act neatly and well. The lovely aria in the third act she compassed with more than usual success, and to do this is to do considerable. She is a young singer who fills a place of importance in the San Carlo company and fills it well. Mmes. Marchi and Perego, as the friends of Carmen, were satisfactory, Mr. Giaccone and Mr. Franzini as the two smugglers were especially commendable, and Mr. Fulcini was an acceptable Morales. The chorus did good work, and the orchestra under Mr. Conti's careful leadership gave a thoroughly enjoyable and praise meriting reading of the beautiful score.

Tonight commencing at 8 o'clock "Faust" will be presented, Miss Nielsen appearing as Marguerite, Mr. Dani as Faust, Mr. Segurola as Mephisto, and Mr. Blanchart as Valentine.

Twenty Years from Now—No. 10.

How will Edwin W. Sims look in 1928?



United States District Attorney Sims is the latest Chicagoan whose features in the period two decades away have been guessed by the artist. In that distant date it appears that he wears the robes of a judge—this appearing to answer to the hopes of his friends that before 1928 he may have been elevated to the federal bench.

PAROLES TO BE MADE LEGAL

Compromise Reached on Municipal Court Probation Bill.

NO VOLUNTEER OFFICERS.

Opponents Fear Overzeal of the Self-Constituted Reformers.

A determined effort to secure the passage of the adult probation bill will be made in the legislature this week by Chicago members. This is the proposed law providing for the parole of adult offenders, who thus will be given a chance to reform under the eye of the court.

The law is desired principally by the Municipal court, in which Judge Cleland while at the Maxwell street branch demonstrated—illegally—the good that can be accomplished by the system. The measure now before the legislature is designed to insure the legality of adult probation.

There appears to be no good reason why the bill should not pass this week. It is on third reading in the senate, but has not been debated in the house. The only opposition that has shown itself centers in two sections of the measure.

Confer Over Compromise.

In order to see if a compromise that would remove the opposition could not be reached, Chief Justice Harry Olson and Judge Stephen A. Foster of the Municipal court conferred yesterday with Representative Anton Cermak, who had represented the opposition. Judge Foster drew the provisions of the bill.

There had been opposition to the third section of the bill, which provides for volunteer parole officers. It was feared that a lot of self-constituted reformers would butt in and prove perniciously harassing to probationers. Then exception was taken to the provision that a man who has been drunk only once in twelve months need not be arraigned. It was objected that parts of this action would lead to the keeping of a formal roster of semi-occasional drunks.

Provisions Not Held Vital.

Judges Olson and Foster agreed that these provisions were not vital to the bill. They had been put in merely because they were part of Judge Cleland's scheme. Representative Cermak was told that the bill would be satisfactory if passed with these provisions eliminated.

The judges said all they wanted to do was to get some legal authority for giving adult offenders a chance to reform instead of going to the bridewell. Mr. Cermak volunteered to do all he could for the bill on the basis of the compromise effected, and it is said that opposition has now disappeared.

RECEIVERS AGAIN TAKE FROST LINE

Seward. Attorney Jacob Newman, representing the holders of $1,000,000 of the bond issues, also was present. Along in the middle of the evening Mr. Frost gave out this statement:

"The direct cause of the receivership is the fact that the credit of the company and the market for its securities were injured by the receivership instituted on New Year's eve, and as a result it became impossible to consummate the sales of bonds, which had been substantially completed.

"After conferences between the principal holders of the company's obligations it was decided that a receivership would be the best means of conserving the property and the interests of the bondholders, creditors, and stockholders.

"There is only about eight miles of the road to be completed, and more than 50 per cent of this work has been done. The total cost to complete the road will not exceed $250,000.

"In the appointment of the receivers the court considered as far as was possible the different interests so that all parties would be protected."

Says Dawes Did Not Know It.

Receiver Osborne said last night at his home in Evanston that he was sure Mr. Dawes had not known of the contemplated proceeding for the appointment of a receiver when Mr. Dawes departed for Washington in the morning. Mr. Osborne was surprised himself to learn that he had been appointed receiver. It is said that he was appointed, however, with the idea that it would meet with the approval of Mr. Dawes.

"I talked with Mr. Dawes this morning at 11 o'clock," said Mr. Osborne, "and I am quite sure that he did not know anything about the contemplated action or he surely would have mentioned it. My appointment, I will say, was a surprise to me, although I received a little intimation of it at 5 o'clock this afternoon. About 10 o'clock tonight an attorney called me up and told me I was appointed. I had gone to bed early and had to get up to answer the telephone.

"I haven't seen the bill and I don't know what the allegations are. I just came back from the east. I understand, however, it was brought about by the trouble of the Sovereign bank of Canada, which went into liquidation last week. This bank was to finance the railroad, and when it went into liquidation it became evident that payments could not be made and a receiver would be necessary for the road. So Mr. Frost probably thought that the best thing to do was to apply for the receiver himself. The other receiver, I understand, is a Canadian railroad man."

First Receivership Hit Credit.

Mr. Newman, who said he represented certain large bondholders, but might eventually represent the receivers, made this statement:

"The receivership inaugurated Christmas eve necessarily destroyed the credit of the road. The bond sales, which would have been completed in four or five days, were stopped. You know how sensitive capital is in these times. The receivership was vacated, but the evil had been done. The road has got to be completed. The money cannot be obtained in the ordinary way. The $250,000 must be raised by the sale of receiver's certificates, which are a prior lien on everything. Therefore it will be easy to dispose of them."

F. S. Munro, attorney for the railroad company, said:

"The whole intent and purpose of this receivership is to keep the business in the present control. The other receivership was aimed the opposite way. Other men wanted to step in here and run this road. That is why we fought it so. Mr. Frost has the biggest interests here and ought to run the company. Gordon Ramsay still holds his position officially as vice president, but he has nothing to do with this receivership or with this business."

Judge Tuthill's Receivers.

The receivers appointed by Judge Tuthill were Carter H. Harrison, Charles G. Dawes, and Gordon A. Ramsay, Mr. Ramsay being vice president of the railway.

The Western Trust and Savings bank is trustee for the $10,000,000 bond issue on the Wisconsin division, and the Merchants' Loan and Trust company for the $5,000,000 issue on the Illinois line.

EDDY MOVE SURPRISES BOSTON

Scientist Leader Takes Up Life in New Home as of Yore.

STEP LONG CONTEMPLATED.

Official Does Not Think College Will Be Started at Concord.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Boston was surprised when it learned that Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy had taken up her residence in Brookline.

The aged founder of Christian Science took up today the routine of her life just as at her home in Pleasant View.

Alfred Farlow, head of the Scientist information bureau, in a statement today, said: "I desire officially to deny the assertions that guards were posted about Mrs. Eddy's new home to keep people away. Mrs. Eddy's household will consist of the same personal attendants she had at Pleasant View.

"There is no mystery surrounding the removal of Mrs. Eddy. She has contemplated the change for at least eight years."

Asked as to what was to be done with Mrs. Eddy's former residence, Mr. Farlow said: "I do not believe the Pleasant View residence will be utilized as a Christian Science college."

Samuel J. Elder of Elder & Whitman, attorneys for the Massachusetts interests of Mrs. Eddy and the Christian Science church, today said:

"The assertion that Mrs. Eddy's change of residence was to avoid possible litigation in New Hampshire is absurd."

PROMISES TO TELL OF GRAFT IN PENNSYLVANIA CAPITOL?

Separate Trial Granted to One of Five Accused Leads to Rumors He Will Confess.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The prosecution in the "capitol graft" cases today agreed to a separate trial for Architect Joseph M. Huston, thus giving rise to rumors that he had turned state's evidence.

This followed the refusal of the commonwealth to grant the same request made by Contractor John H. Sanderson, former Auditor General William P. Snyder, former State Treasurer William L. Mathues, and James M. Shumaker, former superintendent of grounds and buildings, who were accused of conspiring with Huston to defraud the state in the furnishing of the new state capitol.

This trial is only the first of a series to be instituted. The charge against the five men is that they defrauded the state out of $19,306.40 in payments of $49,417 for sofas, tables, and clothes trees.

BLOW TO SYMPATHY STRIKES.

President Mitchell of United Mine Workers Says No Benefit Accrues from Them.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—President Mitchell announced to the convention of the United Mine Workers of America today that he did not desire to hold office in the organization after his retirement as president April 1. This will stop a movement to have him placed at the head of an advisory board.

Mr. Mitchell declared himself opposed to sympathetic strikes.

"I have watched labor troubles and conditions as closely as any man," said he, "and have seen no benefit accrued from sympathetic strikes."

He urged the miners to continue the contract system.

W. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, addressed the convention. He referred feelingly to the appreciation of Moyer, Pettibone, and himself for the action of the labor element of the country in contributing $300,000 for their defense.

Flooded Into Crime, Her Plea.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Naomi McGee, 33 years old, was arrested in a department store today on the charge of shoplifting. At police headquarters, it is stated, she confessed and declared that the shock of passing through the Johnstown (Pa.) disaster in 1889 caused her to have a criminal tendency.

PRIMARY TRIBES GLIMPSE CANAAN.

Arrival at Jericho Menaced Only by Possibility of Chilled Pedals.

UP AGAINST FINAL TRIAL

Tomorrow to Determine Housetops or Wilderness for the Oglesby Bill Adherents.

BY C. S. R.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—If the twelve tribes of the legislature do not get cold feet again they may arrive in Canaan this week. They have had almost as many tribulations as the twelve of Israel, and they have caused almost as many as did the other twelve to the gentlemen who have both feet in the fleshpots of Egypt.

If they do get cold feet, it is back to the wilderness for them, and it will be wilder than ever. The Oglesby bill comes up on the second reading in the house in the morning. If it is advanced to the third reading without amendment, the housetops of Jericho will be in sight and the tribes led by the band of hope will be marching around its walls by Wednesday.

Long distance telephone communications between various leading spirits in the twelve tribes tonight have aroused direct primary advocates to the hope that the bill may escape amendment. In that case they are confident of their ability to make the Oglesby proposal a law.

No Amendment Efforts?

Representative C. J. Lindly, an ardent but occasional advocate of the direct principles, is in Centralia tonight with Representative McMackin, whose vote also is depended on. Mr. Lindly will be unable to be present tomorrow to save the bill from amendment, but he is authority for the statement that no attempt will be made to amend it.

He is helping Congressman William Lorimer carry on the deep waterway campaign. Mr. Lorimer is undergoing an operation on his ear. He was unable to keep his engagement at Centralia, and cannot speak tomorrow night at Vandalia. Mr. Lindly will keep the Vandalia engagement for him.

He feared his absence from the legislature tomorrow might be construed as indicating he was more occasional than ardent regarding direct primaries, and to set his mind at rest, he betook him to a telephone booth and engaged Representative David Shanahan of Chicago in long distance converse.

Mr. Shanahan is one of the outspoken opponents of direct primaries, and had been expected by friends of the Oglesby bill to make a fight to defeat it by amendment. He comforted Mr. Lindly by informing him that no attempts would be made, no amendments offered, no obstacles placed in the way of the bill, and that it would be allowed to go to the third reading for a vote on Wednesday.

Mr. Lindly, having received this news, switched his telephone connection to Springfield and informed Representative John G. Oglesby that he had Mr. Shanahan's word for it that no amendments would be offered, and that he would be on the scene on Wednesday in time to vote for its passage.

Rounding Up Bill's Friends.

If telephone calls and letters can get the attendance of men committed to the Oglesby bill in its present form, they will be here, but Representative Morton D. Hull of Chicago, who has been leading the fight to pass the bill, will rest more easily when he sees them all in their chairs.

On paper anywhere from eighty-one to eighty-seven votes for this bill can be counted, but its advocates will be satisfied if they can count seventy-seven on its final roll call.

They are afraid there will be many cases of cold feet and a corresponding number of vacant chairs. Only a few of the representatives were in Springfield during the evening, but such as were announced their intention of voting for the bill. Representative Flannigen, who arrived too late to vote for the Shanahan bill, is on the scene and says he will vote for the direct primary measure. If Mr. Flannigen and Representative B. M. Chiperfield had put in appearance when the Shanahan bill was on roll call there might have been no Oglesby bill, as reintroduced by Senator Jones, to vote for this week.

Representative John P. McGoorty of Chicago, who introduced one of the amendments over which the house and senate were deadlocked during the consideration of the bill last year, has said he will not introduce his amendment again. It was to give the voters the right to decide how many candidates shall be nominated for the house of representatives in each district.

League Drops Its Fight.

The measure in its present form allows senatorial committees, which are made elective and official bodies, to determine this. The Legislative Voters' league, which has been fighting for this amendment and which had announced its intention of carrying into court any law that did not contain a provision destroying the political control of such legislative nominations, announced tonight it would not insist on its point.

Board Will Sell Contractor's Tools.

The drainage board next Monday morning will sell at public auction the machinery and tools of Joseph J. Duffy, contractor for sections 1, 2, and 3 of the water power development work recently completed at Lockport, Ill. Sixteen months ago the board took over the work of the contractor and completed it. Contractor Duffy, it is said, intends to sue the board for $500,000 damages.

UNITE TO WAR ON NOSTRUMS

Medical Society and Retail Druggists Sound One Slogan.

EVIL IS THEME AT BANQUET.

Dr. G. H. Simmons Urges Stores to Put Patent Cures in Rear.

War upon patent medicines and those proprietary remedies known as "ethical," which, when prescribed by physicians, are said to induce harmful habits of self-medication, was agreed upon at a joint dinner of the Chicago Medical society and the Chicago Retail Druggists' association, in the Auditorium hotel, last evening.

The dinner was called a "get together" affair, the object being to ally the two associations in a cooperative fight against nostrums of all sorts, whether the lavishly advertised "one night cures" or the harmonious sounding compositions which commonly are substituted by doctors for prescriptions of chemical formulæ.

The responsibility for the popularity of such compounds was placed at the door of every man having to do with the handling of drugs, from the manufacturing to the final sale, and from the wholesale chemist down to the "cut rate" druggist, it asserted, the fight for the return to "honest simplicity" will be carried.

Urges Union Against Evil.

"The blame for the condition of affairs existing today," asserted Dr. George H. Simmons, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, "is widely scattered, and to oust the evil no manufacturer, retailer, or physician should feel himself free from responsibility. I believe the doctors will return to the chemical formulæ, if they feel the druggist is ready for the change.

"To the druggist comes the necessity of knowing his pharmacopeia and his national formulary in every detail. At his door in the past much of the criticism for the patent medicine craze must be laid. Frequently I have seen one store window after another loaded down with disgusting displays of nostrums.

"The man who by such a method plays upon the fears of the credulous commits a crime more despicable than that of the hold-up man. We cannot ask you to cease selling such things, but we can ask you to keep them out of your windows and off your showcases. Don't push them. Keep them in the back room out of sight."

Warns Doctors of Danger.

President S. C. Yeomans of the Druggists' association, after asserting that while the average retailer has discarded the promotion of the patent "cure" its place has been taken by the pharmaceutical preparations often prescribed by physicians, who avoid the difficulty and trouble of writing out a chemical termed recipe, said:

"The nostrum is at the bottom of self-medication. The shrewdness, the disregard of consequences displayed by the people, is quick to decipher prescriptions containing these euphonious names, and if the physician could appreciate the number of counter calls for these up to date fakes he would give them a wide berth in prescription writing.

"It is easy to roll these high sounding Latin and Greek derivatives under the tongue, and the whole list of these names should be officially changed or officially tabooed."

Says "Teach Next Generation."

Dr. J. M. Dodson, dean of students of Rush Medical college, said that while it might be difficult to "teach an old dog new tricks," the medical schools of the country should emphasize to the next generation of physicians the necessity of avoiding the use of any compounds in their prescriptions.

Dr. Henry B. Favill, president of the Medical society, presided at the dinner. Among the other speakers of the evening were Dr. George W. Fowler, Henry Sandkoetter, H. V. Spilver, Charles H. Avery, and Prof. C. S. N. Hallberg.

THREATS OF DYNAMITE IN MILWAUKEE MILK WAR.

Neighbor Arrayed Against Neighbor in the Fight for Advance in Rate in Waukesha County.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27.—Farmers of Waukesha county are threatened with treatment similar to that meted out by night raiders of the south if they sell milk to Milwaukee dealers at the recent alleged low rate.

"If you sell another can of milk to Milwaukee we will blow up your place the first good chance. Beware. We mean business."

This threat is being posted all over the Waukesha milk producing district, in the war to make Milwaukee dealers pay an advance of 10 cents an eight gallon can. Bitter feeling prevails.

EVANGELISTS JOIN FORCES.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman and Charles M. Alexander Will Tour the World.

Warsaw, Ind., Jan. 27.—Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, a Presbyterian evangelist, it is announced today, has associated himself with Charles M. Alexander, a leader in sacred music, formerly with the Rev. Dr. Torrey. They will tour the world, conducting simultaneous campaigns.

DENIES WARNING BANK'S PATRONS.

National of North America Officer Says He Did Not Advise Withdrawals.

BESIEGE JOHN D.'S HOME.

Hundreds of Unemployed Men Seek Work at the Rockefeller Country Estate.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, Jan. 27.

Denies He Told Bank's Patrons to Withdraw.

Explanation of the many withdrawals of deposits from the suspended National Bank of North America, if not of the "run" that set in on Saturday, was supplied today in an allegation that one of the officers had written letters advising some depositors, among them inferior banks with balances in the North American, to transfer their accounts to other institutions.

The report connecting Henry Chapin Jr., one of the vice presidents of the bank, with this peculiar transaction was explained by Mr. Chapin tonight.

"Last October, when Charles W. Morse was thrown out of the bank and affairs of the institution were widely discussed in the press," said Mr. Chapin, "a Catholic priest who is a friend of mine, the Rev. Father Henry, came to consult me concerning $18,000 of trust funds which he had on deposit with us. He had been criticised, he said, for leaving the money there in view of the notoriety attached to the bank, and had almost come to the conclusion he should withdraw the deposit.

"I told him that if he worried about the safety of the trust fund he could save himself anxiety by withdrawing it. He did so. I told Morgan J. O'Brien, then one of the directors of the bank, what I had done, and he approved my action. I have, of course, written no such letters as those mentioned in the reports circulated today."

Among the banks said to have withdrawn deposits on the advice of an officer is the Baltimore National bank, which had a balance of $150,000.

Hundreds Seek Work on Rockefeller Estate.

John D. Rockefeller's place at Pocantico Hills was overrun this morning by men looking for work. They came from all over the country, and even from New York City. C. V. Hemenway, superintendent of the estate, was hard pressed to know what to do with the hundreds that applied for work. "We cannot care for every man who gets out of work," he said. "We have all we can do to care for our people hereabouts, and this we do the year round. If every employer did the same there would be no hard times. We have good faith in the men here at home and we intend to take care of them. The men have taken our words literally. They are marching into our woodlands and are chopping wood. Of course we expected to be consulted in the matter."

No one had any idea so many outsiders would apply for work on the oil king's estate. It was never intended or never given out that they would be cared for. Mr. Hemenway said outsiders were not suitable for his work.

Police Dogs on Duty; Perform Satisfactorily.

Max, Jim, Dona, and Nogi of the new dog police squad began their new duties tonight with policemen from the Parkville station in the territory between Prospect park and Coney Island. They started on their tour a few minutes after midnight. Lieut. Wakefield, who brought them from Belgium, went down to see that they got away in good form. He was in plain clothes, and by way of a test made as if to strike one of the policemen. Now, according to the cops, the doggie police are supposed to resent any attack upon uniformed men. Nogi promptly jumped at Wakefield's breast and knocked him over in a snow bank.

Later Inspector Harkins and Capt. Funston of the district, purposely dressed in plain clothes, encountered Policeman Nicholson in Ocean parkway at a dark place, and after pretending to strike the policeman started to run. Nicholson tried to hold Dona back, but she got away and tripped Inspector Harkins, who was running, and sent him heels over head on the slippery pavement. Then the dog, still dragging its leash, managed to get between Funston's legs and treated him to a tumble. For the present they will be restrained by leashes, but after they learn the precinct they will be allowed to roam at large. It was proven tonight that they responded readily to the whistles of policemen.

Jerome Scored by Judge for T. F. Ryan Quiz.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky of the General Sessions court today gave a decision in the proceedings instituted to punish Paul D. Cravath for contempt of court in declining to tell the November grand jury what Thomas F. Ryan said to him in connection with the sale of stock of the Wall and Cortlandt street ferries railroad to the Metropolitan Securities company in 1902. Mr. Cravath based his refusal upon the fact that he was Mr. Ryan's counsel, and Judge Rosalsky upholds him in this contention.

In his decision Judge Rosalsky delivered a severe arraignment of District Attorney Jerome, declaring he so conducted the examination of Thomas F. Ryan before the grand jury as probably will invalidate any indictments which that body might have found against Mr. Ryan. Hence the court discharged the November grand jury, which had been held over on account of the Cravath incident, and directed Mr. Jerome to submit the matter anew and in a legal way.

Steel Company Employes Get Extra Dividend.

An extra dividend of approximately 65 per cent is to be paid to employés of the United States Steel corporation who subscribed for the stock in 1903 under the profit sharing plan devised by George W. Perkins. These stockholders have received regular 7 per cent dividends on the stock, also a bonus of 5 per cent a year, according to terms of the profit sharing plan. Including the 65 per cent extra dividend, they will presently have received a total of $125 a share in dividends in five years. It is estimated that about 20,000 employés will be benefited by the extra disbursement.

EX-CANDIDATE PARKER PRACTICING HIS GREAT STUNT OF SUPPORTING THE TICKET IN 1908.

GODDARD WINS CLUB ELECTION

"Members'" Ticket Successful in Annual Union League Contest

HOTTEST FIGHT IN YEARS.

Triumph for "Opposition" Jones, Who Has Battled Long Years.

L. A. Goddard was elected president of the Union League club, it was discovered when the 1,000 odd ballots were counted last night, at the liveliest election the club ever held.

Mr. Goddard was at the head of the "members'" ticket, as distinguished from the regular ticket, and was put up by "Opposition" George P. Jones, who has been in charge of all the opposition tickets for the last twelve years.

Andrew McLeish was the other candidate for president, running on the "regular" ticket. No one save the tellers knows how many votes the different candidates got, and they refuse to tell, it being considered best for the feelings of the defeated candidates that the vote be kept secret.

List of the New Officers.

For the other offices the regular ticket got the most votes, the list being as follows:

First vice president—Jesse Holdom, regular.

Second vice president—Joseph Downey, regular.

Treasurer—F. L. Hankey, regular.

Secretary—David B. Lyman Jr., regular.

Directors—William D. Allen, Harry B. Clow, regular, and George R. Skinner, member.

Committee on political action—B. E. Sunny, Horace K. Tenney, regular, and Charles Alling Jr., member.

There was no soreness on account of this election, said a newly elected director, who refused to be quoted. Years ago, when the club membership was limited to 600, nobody took any interest in elections and the officers nearly always were holdovers. Then, as the membership increased, the by-laws were amended, providing for the nomination of other candidates in addition to those posted on the blackboard by a committee of five and known as the regular ticket.

Jones Fights for Twelve Years.

Twelve years ago "Opposition" Jones fixed up a slate for his first "members'" ticket and the elections have been getting better and better ever since. The issue twelve years ago was:

"Two drinks for a quarter."

"Half a lemon with each plate of oysters."

No such important issue was before the election yesterday, but "Opposition" Jones was there, older but just as happy over the trouble he was making as he was twelve years ago. There are 1,700 members of the club, many of them new, and the vote was the largest ever polled. The new members around 600 of them, rallied to the support of Goddard and let the old members take the rest of the offices.

KAISER IS 49 YEARS OLD

German Emperor's Birthday the Occasion of Celebration.

NOT ASLEEP, IS 'AWAKENED'

Usual Custom of Breaking His Slumber with Songs Carried Out.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Emperor William is 49 years old today. He was "awakened" this morning according to the immemorial birthday custom by the fanfaring by the palace trumpeters and the singing of a hymn by the castle choir at 8 o'clock.

As a matter of fact, however, the emperor had risen several hours earlier and had disposed of a variety of state documents by the time the singing began, after which he appeared at a window in the castle overlooking the court where the musicians were gathered.

His majesty, dressed in a field marshal's uniform, greeted the choristers and received the congratulations of the visiting princes, after which there was service in the private chapel of the palace, at which there were present princes and princesses, ambassadors, and several high civil, military, naval, and court personages.

The imperial couple took their places, after the conclusion of the service, on the dais in the great white hall of the palace, while a thousand officials and officers filed before them. The emperor in the afternoon called at the different foreign embassies and left cards. As he drove down Unter den Linden he was greeted by an extraordinarily large crowd which had assembled in the expectation of seeing him.

The elaborate precautions taken by the police against any possible demonstrations, proved to be unnecessary. The socialists generally followed their leader's advice to keep away from the festivities.

MAGOON TO SUCCEED TAFT?

Governor Starts to Washington and Many in Havana Think He Is Not Going Back.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, Jan. 27.—Gov. Magoon sailed for Tampa this morning on the revenue cutter Hatuey. As the cutter started a salute was fired from Cabanas fortress, to which the Hatuey responded. The governor expects to return to Havana by Feb. 20.

There is much speculation concerning the purpose of his trip to Washington. Many here think he will not come back, but will succeed Taft as secretary of war.

Rumors to the effect that ex-Consul Gen. Steinhart will be appointed provisional governor and also that Señor Don Gonzalo de Quesada, Cuban minister to the United States, will be given the appointment are current.

PICHON PIERCES DELCASSE EGOTISM

France's Glory Restored by Years of Republican Efforts, Minister Declares.

SPEECH MET BY CHEERS.

Chamber of Deputies to Support Government in Moroccan Question.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—M. Richon, minister of foreign affairs, during the debate in the chamber of deputies on the Moroccan question, threw cold water on the followers of M. Delcasse, his predecessor in the war office.

Replying to the statements of the former minister that to him was due the restoration of France's prestige, M. Richon said:

"The foreign policy of France is not the work of one man, one party, or one administration. France has recovered her place, lost in the catastrophe of 1871, as the result of thirty-seven years of republican effort. The Russian alliance was desired from the beginning, the Anglo-French entente was welcomed by all parties; we brought about a rapprochement with Italy, tightened the bonds with Spain, concluded an accord with Japan, aided in the reëstablishment of the Russo-Japanese relations, and dissipated Anglo-Russian misunderstanding, and thus restored France to her place in Europe. Our policy was conceived solely in the interest of the peace of the world."

Speech Greeted by Cheers.

M. Pichon's strongest words in connection with Morocco, which were received with cheers, were: "France, on account of Algeria, could never permit the internationalisation of Morocco."

While pointing out Europe's interest in seeing Abd-el-Aziz, the sultan, prevail over his brother, who had declared war on foreigners, M. Pichon made it clear that France would remain neutral. France had been forced, he said, by increasing anarchy, which the Algeciras act had not foreseen, to exceed the letter of the convention, and the present danger is that she might be compelled to further widen the zone of her military operations to restore order. But every step thus far had been approved by the signatories of the Algeciras act, he declared.

Chamber to Back Government.

He defined France's policy as "the defense of France's legitimate rights and the execution of the European mandate of loyalty toward the sultan, but no intervention in the interior and no expedition either to Fez or Morocco city."

In conclusion he said: "If Abd-el-Aziz falls, we will treat with his successor in the name of Europe, but we cannot admit the internationalization of Morocco."

The reception of M. Pichon's speech makes it manifest that the chamber will support the government against both extremes—M. Jaures, who wants to abandon, and M. Delcasse, who wants to conquer, Morocco.

HER DOGS ALONE MOURN OUIDA.

Pitiful Cortege Follows Body of Once Famous Novelist to Last Resting Place.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

FLORENCE, Jan. 27.—Followed by a funeral cortége consisting only o fthe dozen dogs she had starved herself to feed and her faithful old servant, the body of "Ouida" was taken to its last resting place today.

The funeral was a most pitiful epilogue to the dreadful privations which the once famous novelist had suffered since the dissipation of her fortune earned by her writing. After the departure from the hut which served as the last home of the impoverished writer, the procession trudged slowly to the English cemetery at Bagni di Lucca, where the body was interred.

Only a small wooden cross marks the grave of the woman who won fame and wealth by her pen.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the appoval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

BUDGET PROBLEM BEFORE COUNCIL.

Controller Sends In His Estimate of Revenue and How to Spend It.

CUTS ON EVERY HAND.

He Reduces Amounts Asked For to Correspond with City's Income.

Controller Wilson yesterday issued his estimates of city expenses for 1908. He figures the total revenue of the city for 1908 for purely corporate purposes at $20,218,447. This is exclusive of the water fund, which will add $3,684,341 more, or a total of $23,902,788. The water fund money, however, can be spent only for water fund purposes.

Against this the various heads of departments have asked for appropriations amounting to $29,464,430. These the controller has scaled down until his total of what he thinks the departments ought to have is the same as the anticipated income, $20,218,447. The council will have to decide between the two.

The controller's figures were sent to the city council in the evening. They were referred to the finance committee, which will now take up the work of evolving from them a budget which will provide for the city's wants during 1908 and at the same time keep within speaking distance of the amount of money the city will have to spend. No committee ever has succeeded perfectly in this task. Last year the appropriation bill was $5,973,049 more than the revenue, and work appropriated for was not done in consequence, but this year the committee promises to do better.

Items in the Revenue.

The items going to make up the revenue for corporate purposes are given in this order:

From taxes	$ 6,213,596.58
Miscellaneous, largely saloon licenses	10,211,896.12
Balance Dec. 31, 1907	1,879,660.83
Balance permanent bonds	10,125.62
Sales of new bonds	1,903,166.63
Total	$20,218,166.63

The city can really sell new bonds up to $3,040,666 during the year, but the controller only wants to spend the amount given during 1908. He asks the committee to reserve $1,137,500 for necessary permanent improvements, on the ground that the money from the bonds ought to spread out over four years. As there will be no increase in tax valuations in that time, there can be no more bonds sold, and if the entire amount is spent this year the revenue will be just that much less next.

But unless the present council differs from all former ones, that $1,137,500 will be too great a temptation to be resisted. It means ready cash which can be spent, and it is the rule with councils to spend all they can and try to spend more.

Need of New City Hall.

The necessity for a new city hall will form the first excuse for dipping into it. The controller has not allowed for this building in his estimates and the money will have to be found outside. With $500,000 or more appropriated from this reserve for this purpose the rest is likely to go easily. The idea in the finance committee, however, is this could be forestalled by appropriating the entire sum for the city hall, even if the money could not be spent this year.

The estimates for the water fund do not include liabilities of $3,326,474 for work already contracted for to put the system in better condition. The estimated net income from the fund is $1,627,430, which falls short by $1,699,044 of meeting this indebtedness. Commissioner Hanberg wants for water system betterments a total of $4,945,950, but the controller could not find it for him.

Big Increase for Police.

The heaviest single increase in any department that will have to be met is in the police. It will take just $1,076,775 more than last year to meet the increased pay roll caused by raising 2,118 patrolmen to $1,400 a year, 562 to $1,300, and 737 to $1,200, outside of the new men added to the force. Chief Shippy also wants $855,423 for new buildings and the like, but the controller cut out this item.

He was kinder to Chief Horan of the fire department, however, allowing him $314,649 for betterments and repairs outside of the mere operation of the department. Commissioner Hanberg wanted $3,664,261 for harbor and bridges, of which $308,415 was to be spent in operating the bureau and the rest to go into new bridges and repairs on old. The controller promptly cut him down to $650,000 to do the best he could with.

The commissioner of public works also wanted $3,898,668 for cleaning streets and collecting garbage, but the controller figures he will have to get along with $2,500,000. So it went all along the line.

Health Department Cut Hard.

Health Commissioner Evans asked for an extra $241,000 in order to provide for needed laboratory facilities as well as extra inspectors. Instead, the controller cut him to less than the department actually spent last year.

City Electrician Carroll also had hard luck. He was after $693,000 for betterments and $173,300 for renewals and repairs, in addition to the operating cost of $1,123,434. The controller thought he could get along with $1,400,000 all told.

SHOW BROTHERHOOD IN HOME

Men of "The Tribune" Lodging House Generous to Friends.

SHARE HARD WON PITTANCES

One Inmate with Week's Wages Buys Clothing for Comrades.

Material for sermons on the brotherhood of mankind can be found every day at THE TRIBUNE lodging house at 59 Canal street. There may be a selfish man here and there, but the vast majority of them share with each other frequently the proceeds of the few jobs they secure.

A dozen Lithuanians last night were showing their new caps and socks purchased with the $6 that one of their number earned in a week's work in the shipping room of a Market street wholesale house.

All that this worker had bought for himself was a pair of gloves and a glass of beer.

Generous Man Shows Modesty.

"They would do the same for me," he said, through an interpreter. "We have to stick together when we are poor."

He has left the lodging house, having secured regular employment now, but he visited the place during the evening to bring the gifts of clothing to his comrades.

Down by the central post on the first floor a big man with a reddish beard and mass of touseled hair was mending the clothing of a boyish fellow, who had worked with him on a Wisconsin farm. He had found a needle and thread somewhere and was doing the work clumsily, without a thimble, but so that it would hold, you may be sure.

Manager Cleland related the story of another lodger who had earned $2 working in the streets during the last heavy snow storm, who had taken a number of his companions to a Madison street restaurant for a "square meal."

Man's Weariness Arouses Pity.

Another lodger offered to pay the expenses of medical attendance for an old man who had lain on a bed in the lodging house all day, apparently ill. The old man, however, simply needed a rest. The lodger was advised to go to one of the regular lodging houses, as only those without funds are kept at the Canal street institution. One of the men, who had not been home for twelve years, received $50 in a letter from Canada during the day, and took the next train back for his native village.

RELIEF FOR IDLE IS DISCUSSED.

Chicago Committee Holds Meeting to Plan Ways and Means of Raising Funds.

A conference of members of the relief committee organized by prominent Chicago business men for the purpose of raising money for the benefit of the unemployed was held yesterday in the office of Chairman William V. Kelley in the Commercial National Bank building.

Details of organization and the appointment of subcommittees for the taking of subscriptions were discussed. Another meeting will be held today.

Those present in addition to Chairman Kelley were Franklin MacVeagh, Charles H. Wacker, W. R. Stirling, H. C. Barlow, Ernest P. Bicknell, and Sherman C. Kingsley.

GRANTS TISDELLE FURTHER DELAY.

Banker Appears Before Referee in Bankruptcy and Takes Stand.

EVASIVE IN HIS ANSWERS

Then Pleads Nervousness and Hearing Is Put Over Till Tomorrow.

On the plea that he was too nervous and ill to answer questions as to the tangled state of affairs in his private bank, Archie C. Tisdelle obtained a continuance before Referee in Bankruptcy Eastman yesterday until 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. Tisdelle appeared in court, much to the surprise of all concerned, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Robert E. Cantwell. The whereabouts of the banker became such a mystery on Friday that the United States marshal couldn't find him, and Mr. Cantwell was summoned to appear yesterday morning and answer the charge of conspiring with the banker to evade being summoned into court.

Because Mr. Tisdelle has made an appearance and consented to examination Attorney Francis Houlihan, acting for Receiver William C. Niblack, withdrew the charges made against Cantwell. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock witnesses will be heard by Referee Eastman in the hope of getting light on some of the involved affairs of the bank.

Creditors More Apprehensive.

Before court adjourned yesterday noon Tisdelle went on the stand. His attitude and answers tended to cause grave apprehension by the depositors as to what has become of their savings.

Attorney James Rosenthal questioned Mr. Tisdelle about turning over to Burr Robbins, proprietor of the Deming hotel, 136 Madison street, a contract for railroad ties that is alleged to be part of the assets. Tisdelle said the assignment to Robbins was made on Dec. 24, 1907, and that the consideration was nearly $16,000. When asked about the whereabouts of the contract Tisdelle asked to consult with his attorneys, after which he declared he didn't know where the contract is, and that he has no copy of it.

After persistent questioning Attorney Rosenthal learned that Tisdelle still owes Robbins between $4,000 and $5,000.

Denies Trying to Dodge Service.

At this stage of the inquiry Mr. Tisdelle appeared on the verge of a physical collapse, and the hearing was continued. The banker denied having tried to evade service. He said he has been in town all the time since the bank failure, despite the fact that on the day he was ordered into court information was given out at his house that he was out of town.

RAIDS PARTY FOR BEST MAN; MIDNIGHT WEDDING FOLLOWS.

Jeremiah Bartholow and Rena M. Pidcock Surprise Chicago Whist Players, Then Hurry to Crown Point, Ind.

After interrupting a "bridge" party at the home of Lyndon M. Rutledge, 4206 Lake avenue, in order to secure the services of the host as his best man, Jeremiah Bartholow, an insurance broker, 606 Winthrop avenue, proceeded to Crown Point, Ind., Sunday night and was married—after tribulations. The young woman who accompanied him was Miss Rena M. Pidcock, a teacher, 4458 Oakenwald avenue.

The couple had decided hurriedly to enter the matrimonial state, and the startling visit to Mr. Rutledge's home followed. They then telephoned to Judge Nicholson at Crown Point and boarded a train after the judge had agreed to tie the knot.

They arrived at Crown Point about 9 o'clock in the evening, but the city hall was dark. They searched for the justice for several hours and finally returned to the city hall, when they discovered the judge and Clerk Ernest L. Shortridge had entered the chambers by using a ladder and climbing through a window.

A "midnight marriage" followed.

STEALS TO KEEP FEET WARM.

Judge Helps Pay for Shoes Lad Took and Bailiff Will Get Him a Job.

By exhibiting a pair of shoes through which his feet could be seen and pleading his feet were almost frozen when he stole a pair of shoes, Edward Hoflund aroused the sympathy of Judge Crowe and the court attendants. Louis Polisky, 1259 State street, was the complaining witness.

"I'll give a dollar towards buying this boy a pair of shoes," said Judge Crowe, turning toward Polisky. "Will you take a dollar for the shoes this boy took from you?"

"O, I can't do it, your honor," said Polisky, "they're worth a dollar and a half."

Assistant State's Attorney Roe, bailiffs, and clerks added to the fund, and Bailiff J. E. Laingor promised to get him a job. As the prisoner had pleaded guilty, the judge fined him $5, but ordered that he could pay it when he obtained work.

BAN FALLS ON ICY SIDEWALKS

Merchants Must Clean Away All Snow or Lose Right to Signs.

COUNCIL PASSES NEW LAW.

Firemen's Pension Fund Report Shows a Balance of $308,923.

Storekeepers who fail to keep the sidewalks in front of their premises free of ice and snow fell under the ban of the city council last night. An order providing for the punishment of such offenders was passed at the instance of Ald. Brennan of the Eighteenth ward.

If the law is enforced, all business firms will be compelled to keep their sidewalks clean and safe, or suffer the removal of their merchandise and signs from space on and above the public way.

"The conditions in some parts of my ward are terrible," said the alderman, in speaking to his ordinance. "It's as much as a person's life is worth to walk over the icy sidewalks that should be cleaned by the occupants of the property."

Ordinance Passed Without Debate.

The aldermen thought the measure would be a good thing for the rest of the city also and passed it without debate. The ordinance which was drawn by Assistant Corporation Counsel Miller, provides:

"Ordered, that the owner, lessee, or occupant of any building, structure, lot, or place who shall suspend or permit to be suspended over the sidewalk in front of such building, structure, lot, or place, goods, wares, or merchandise of any kind whatever or signs of any kind, shall keep the sidewalk in front of such building, structure, lot, or place, free and clear of ice and snow, and in case of the refusal of any such owner, lessee, or occupant to comply with this order, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of public works to compel the removal of such goods, wares, merchandise, or signs.

"It shall be the duty of all police officers to report to the commissioner of public works any refusal to comply with this order."

Reports on Firemen's Pension Fund.

City Clerk John McCabe submitted a report of the condition of the firemen's pension fund, showing a balance of $308,923.44 on hand Dec. 31, 1907. The amount of pension checks paid was fixed at $146,906.06.

Ald. Kohout presented an order directing that the committee, when considering the budget, include in it an item for $20,000 for a new fire station at Wilcox and Fortieth avenues. It was referred.

Ald. Race asked that the corporation counsel prepare an ordinance prohibiting the use of chains on the wheels of automobiles. The chains injure the pavements, he said. It was referred to the judiciary committee.

Tonsiline Prevents Quinsy The Germs which cause Quinsy reach the deeper seated tissues by absorption through the tonsils, causing the horribly painful inflammation which results in suppuration. Quinsy is simply a development of Sore Throat to which some people are peculiarly subject. With them a tedious or neglected Sore Throat terminates in Quinsy. With them, a quickly cured Sore Throat means Quinsy avoided and nothing cures Sore Throat as quickly and surely as TONSILINE.

Many such letters as below prove TONSILINE'S value in preventing Quinsy.

Gentlemen:—I have been subject to Quinsy for the last fifteen years and have simply had to suffer from ten days to two weeks with it at every attack, never having been able to find a preventive, until I commenced using TONSILINE.

Up until a year ago I had had ten attacks of Quinsy, but have been able to avoid it twice since that time by the use of a 25 cent bottle of your remedy. Hoping that others similarly troubled will profit by my experience, and thanking you for what your TONSILINE has done for me, I remain, Yours very truly, E. T. KEENAN, Chief Clerk Auditor's Office, C. A. and C. Ry., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sufferers from Quinsy should always have TONSILINE ready for instant use on first sign of Sore Throat. 25c and 50c—All druggists. The Tonsiline Co. Canton, Ohio.

The "Y and E" Roller-Bearing Steel Suspension for Vertical File Drawers

A New and Most Remarkable Piece of Simple Mechanism Which Eliminates the Only Drawback to Vertical Filing

THE customer who wrote us the other day: "Send us another of those Y&E Vertical Filing Cabinets with those full-jeweled, ball-bearing attachments" could not have chosen a more striking parallel to describe the smooth, beautiful operation of the Y&E invention above illustrated.

Nearly every business house is familiar with the "sign post" index advantages of Vertical filing; the great facility of reference; and the immensely increased filing capacity obtained by this method. But the aching arms of many a file clerk can testify to the discomfort and inconvenience of opening and closing file drawers, which—when comfortably filled—are as solid as iron and heavy as lead!

The old-style suspension slides of wood were just as likely to hinder as to help. In time, they usually warped or cracked,—and, the drawer would stick and bind.

In contrast, think of being able to open and close a loaded file-drawer weighing 75 pounds with your little finger alone!

The difference is here: Five fiber wheels on each side of the drawer ROLL instead of sliding. Steel gear cases—so strong that they can carry even the weight of a full-grown man—cover the mechanism and carry the file drawer in and out.

The poise is perfect, the action easy and noiseless, and the construction so simple and strong that you would have to take an axe to put it out of order! Every Y&E Vertical Filing Cabinet (and we carry in stock 15 distinct Vertical cabinets of SECTIONAL construction alone) is fitted with this patented Y&E drawer suspension.

This exclusively Y&E device adds easily ten years to the life of the cabinet. Result: —Greatest length and efficiency of filing cabinet service in proportion to the initial cost.

And that's what really determines "price."

The new edition of our complete catalog entitled "Record Filing Cabinets" is now ready. It illustrates and describes not only the 15 distinct Vertical cabinets, but the entire Y&E line—121 different cabinets in all. 63 are of Y&E SECTIONAL construction and the 17 separate Y&E Filing Methods are utilized.

Ask us to mail you catalog No. 914. Very valuable for reference—whether you need new filing equipment now or not. You will not be importuned to buy.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE.

The banishment of disease is an attractive theme. For generations people were trained to think that a certain percentage of deaths must be expected from diphtheria, smallpox, consumption, and other important factors in making up mortuary tables. Now they are being taught that there is a chance of the entire elimination of these diseases. The development of this idea that medicine is to prevent disease rather than treat it when it comes is one of the most encouraging things in modern life.

The challenge to consumption has been issued with no uncertain sound. Smallpox is being so well handled that its terrors have almost entirely disappeared. The destructive effects of other diseases are being limited more and more with each passing year as the causal conditions are discovered and then removed.

Commissioner Evans' statement about diphtheria is right in line with this general advance. It seems too good to be believed that there is any chance of doing away entirely with a disease which has brought sorrow to so many homes. And yet, when that which has been accomplished in other directions is recalled, the prophecy that diphtheria within ten years will become as rare a malady as leprosy does not seem so bold after all. If what was counted perfectly normal in the city's health in 1881 was regarded with alarm as an epidemic condition in 1907 there is at least room for encouragement.

The signs of a healthier race are many. In hospitals and laboratories earnest investigators are attacking the problems of medical science with renewed determination. Large endowments have enabled these workers to devote their time to the search for causes of disease without having to stop to think of how to get their bread and butter. One discovery after another has been announced until both the physicians and the people have felt the new inspiration of hope.

The emphasis is being placed upon the carelessness of the individual. Disease and death do not come because they must in accordance with the decrees of fate. They are largely due to inattention to simple rules which any one may follow. That seems to be the judgment of preventive medicine. Its remarkable development during recent years has attracted the attention of the whole world. To help it along in its victorious career should be the ambition of every one who loves his fellow men.

PHILIPPINE PROGRESS.

For almost ten years the United States has controlled the Philippine islands. Basing his opinion upon the report of the secretary of war on conditions as he found them in his recent trip, President Roosevelt asserts his pride in the American record during a decade. He questions whether there is a brighter page in the annals of international dealing between the strong and the weak than that which tells of our dealings with the Filipinos, unless, perhaps, it is the one which recounts achievements in Cuba.

He joins with Secretary Taft in making four recommendations for the future. A more liberal commercial policy, an altered land holding plan, the possible establishment by the Filipino government of an agricultural bank, and the extension of coastwise laws of the United States to the islands are the things proposed. In connection with the first of these the interests of the American tobacco and sugar industries are to be protected.

Excepting the third point mentioned, these recommendations manifestly are excellent ones. Secretary Taft feels confident that there need be no serious interference with the American interests mentioned as a result of a lowered tariff. To gain some concessions to the islanders, he declares himself ready to favor a limit on the quantity of tobacco and sugar to be admitted from the Philippines. This limit might be so fixed as to prevent either any lowering of the price of either commodity in the United States or any undue exploitation of the sugar and tobacco industries in the islands.

The recommendation proposing to authorize the island government to open and conduct an agricultural bank with a capitalization not exceeding $2,000,000 is one which may well be held in abeyance for the time. It is doubtful whether there is enough information upon the subject available to form the basis of a satisfactory decision. It is not a matter of such pressing importance as to need hurried legislation.

What is said of the development of medical science is particularly gratifying. Much has been accomplished in teaching the islanders the essentials of sanitation. Plagues have been fought successfully, and there is every reason for thinking that, as in Cuba, the work for public health will remain one of the most notable features of American occupation.

All will applaud what has been done for the Filipinos in this and many other directions, but THE TRIBUNE is inclined to believe that a greater measure of self-government has been granted them than they are ready for. The secretary of war thinks that the progress made in educating the people in the discharge of political functions outweighs the loss in administrative efficiency which is involved. Such a policy is justifiable to a degree, considering the end aimed at, but not to the degree to which it has been carried. As the secretary is convinced that it will be a generation, and perhaps longer, before the Filipinos, in spite of all that has been done for them, will be ready for complete self-government, the work of fitting them for it should not be pushed too assiduously at the cost of governmental efficiency. The more efficient the administration the better off will the Filipinos be.

INVESTIGATE ALL.

There must be a thorough investigation of all the state charitable institutions. If there have been abuses in any of them they should be unearthed. Those which are entitled to a clean bill of health should be given it. Justice to them demands it. Otherwise popular distrust excited by the disclosures at Lincoln will unjustly include them.

The investigation of the institutions is not a question of politics. It is a question of humanity. It involves the good name of the state. The legislature dare not sacrifice that in order to shield anybody. The people insist on having the facts and the legislature cannot afford to say they shall not have them.

The chairman of the committee which has been inquiring into conditions in the Home for Feeble Minded Children and which has brought to light many horrifying facts says the committee has authority to investigate all the institutions, but that it would take several months, perhaps a year. He adds that the members of the committee are busy men, serving without pay, who could scarcely give the requisite time to the matter.

This is a hint to the legislature to increase the membership of the committee so that subcommittees can be formed and inquiries carried on simultaneously at several institutions. Surely there are many men in the legislature who are willing to enlist for a short time without pay in so necessary and honorable a service.

Illinois is not a poverty stricken state. There is enough money in its treasury to hire experts to assist the committee in its labors. The legislature will not be accused of extravagance if it shall make an appropriation for such a purpose. Whatever it may do in the direction of making clear to the public the exact conditions that exist in the state charitable institutions will have popular approval.

But there must be no attempt to dodge a grave responsibility to please or protect anybody. There has to be a general investigation, no matter who may be hurt by it.

COOKE AND STRASSHEIM.

Sheriff Strassheim says he is ready to "give Cooke, like anybody else, a run for his money." But has not he given Cooke more of a "run for his money" than any other man he had in custody? Yet many have gone to Joliet from the county jail during Sheriff Strassheim's administration who were much more deserving of considerate treatment than Cooke. He was found guilty of using a public office to rob the public. All of the courts to which he appealed found his trial regular and his sentence just. He has had more of "a run for his money" than any man in the jail.

It must wound the feelings of the sheriff to see an old political chum and crony on the road to Joliet, but the law and his duty, not his feelings, should govern when it is a question of the treatment of a convicted grafter. The sheriff says he wishes to treat every prisoner considerately "up to a certain point." That is an excellent sentiment, but consideration has been carried beyond all bounds in Cooke's case. He has been locked up in the jail, but he has been treated as a guest instead of a prisoner.

The judge to whom Cooke appealed for liberty decided last Saturday that he was not entitled to it. He should have been sent to Joliet yesterday. There would not have been the "undue haste" or the "railroading" which the tender hearted sheriff deprecates. That officer would simply have done his duty.

Why does the sheriff do for Cooke what he has done for no other prisoner?

GARDENING IN CHICAGO.

If the plans of Health Commissioner Evans are carried out in a little while Chicago will blossom as the rose. If he shall have his way the city's waste places, the big vacant lots, the blocks of unoccupied space, will be converted into flower gardens and vegetable producing areas. Dr. Evans' idea is one worth thinking about; and, better still, one worth putting into execution.

In Chicago fertilizers can be had at one-third the cost in eastern cities. Baltimore sells for $2 a ton what in Chicago brings 70 cents, because the demand for it is not great. Here it is a source of annoyance to the health department because of the inefficient means at hand for its removal. To use it for the enrichment of Cook county fields and gardens would be profitable in more ways than one.

The city consumes tons of vegetables a day. Few are raised in or near the markets. They are shipped from neighboring towns and villages, and by the time they reach here lose that freshness of flavor that is so desirable. Of course, for early vegetables, the community must look to the far south for its supply. But for the staple foods from the gardens Chicago should not go beyond its own territory.

There are in the corporate limits hundreds of acres of tillable land, of easy access, now littered with bits of broken furniture and tin cans. They await the inevitable growth of the city. Some day these lots will have handsome buildings; but at present they are a menace to health, because in summer they hold stagnant pools of water.

Truck farmers make as high as $400 an acre from the cultivation of onions. The planting of cabbage is almost as profitable. Beans, tomatoes, lettuce, and radishes also pay handsomely. If every waste place in Cook county should be tilled there would not be an oversupply of vegetables. Even if the products were not consumed at once, they could be canned. Canning factories in communities insure the stability of the market.

Should property owners begin cleaning up their unoccupied lots, both in the city and the suburbs, employment would be given to many who would otherwise be unable to get it. The people would be better fed and at a smaller cost; the unsightly places would be clean and the health of the city improved.

Plant a garden!

TAXES AND THE CHARTER.

The controller's estimates contain some items which may attract the attention of taxpayers who voted against the charter and set them to thinking. They will learn that their property is to be taxed this year $2,500,000 for the improvement of the water system and $500,000 towards the construction of a new city hall. If the charter had been ratified the $3,000,000 would not have been taken out of revenue but would have been obtained by the sale of bonds. The drafts on the revenues on account of the city hall and water system will be kept up for several years. There will be many opportunities for property owners to reflect on their lack of wisdom in beating the charter.

Many taxpayers voted against it because they were told by false guides that it would raise their taxes. They are grieved and perplexed to discover that although the charter was not ratified their taxes have gone up. The tax bill they are complaining of now would have been just the same if the charter had been adopted, though it would have been difficult to make them believe it. But under the charter real estate taxation would have been less burdensome in subsequent years.

First, it would no longer have been necessary to provide for permanent improvements out of current revenue.

Second, the consolidation of the different taxing bodies would have made possible economies in administration amounting to about a million dollars a year.

Third, new sources of revenue would have been available, and the dependence of the municipality on the general property tax would not be so great. By great good fortune the city has been able to get the wheel tax, but other productive sources of revenue offered in the charter are out of its reach.

Taxpayers who voted against the charter blundered egregiously, as they are beginning to discover. They went directly against their own interests. They have made it difficult to proceed with permanent improvements which are greatly needed, and they have to be directly taxed to meet the cost of those which can be taken in hand.

M. ARISTIDE BRIAND, who has just been promoted from the post of minister of public instruction and of public worship to that of minister of justice, becomes thereby ex-officio vice president of the council of ministers and deputy premier. The minister of justice is at the same time keeper of the great seal of France, and therefore the chancellor of the republic.

In the absence of Clemenceau he would in the ordinary course assume the latter's powers and rights as prime minister, and should Clemenceau, who is now near 70, be suddenly stricken, it is Briand who would in the ordinary course of events succeed to the chieftainship of the government.

Briand is one of the strongest men of the present administration. He is an orator of extraordinary power and eloquence, and of a persuasiveness that always carries the house with him. He is not a member of the Paris bar, but started out in life as a lawyer in a small provincial town, and when he came to Paris turned his attention to politics and to journalism rather than to law. He became in course of time editor of La Lanterne, and has only been in parliament since 1902. That is to say, he has made his way to the very head of public affairs in France during the brief six years that constitute the term so far of his official life.

Lord Acton, to whom has just been born a son to perpetuate his name and his honors, is a peer of the most complicated relationships. For his great-grandfather was the elder of two brothers who entered the service of the king of Naples in the eighteenth century. The younger married a German countess von Berg. But the elder brother waited until the daughter of this union had grown up, and then, in spite of her being his niece, married her, by means of a papal dispensation. Owing to this, Lord Acton's great-great-grandfather is also his great-great-great-grandfather.

Lord Acton is related to many houses of the old German aristocracy, likewise to those of Italy, is a cousin of Princess Bülow, wife of the chancellor of the German empire, and also of the Italian senator, Prince Camporeale and of his American wife. His father, the late Lord Acton, was one of the closest and most valued friends of Andrew Carnegie, and at the time of his death had just completed the by no means easy task of forming the private library of the Scotch-American multi-millionaire at Skibo castle. There were 10,000 volumes to be selected, and the money which Carnegie assigned for the purpose amounted to $150,000.

The laird of Skibo could certainly not have found any one better qualified to undertake the task. For the late Lord Acton was one of the most learned and in every sense of the word intellectual members of the upper house of Great Britain's parliament. He was regius professor of history at the University of Cambridge, and the late Mr. Gladstone, who was no mean judge, was wont to declare that of all the persons he had ever met Lord Acton was the one whose learning covered the widest range, and whose sources of knowledge were the most extraordinarily extensive.

The Actons, though one of the oldest Shropshire families, that figured prominently in the reign of King Edward III., and who received their baronetcy from King Charles I., have always had foreign affiliations. John Acton was admiral in chief of the imperial navy of Germany in the seventeenth century, and in the early part of the eighteenth, and his nephew, Joseph Acton, was a general in the service of the king of Naples.

Joseph's elder brother, Sir John Acton, also entered the service of the king of Naples and became his prime minister. Gen. Joseph Acton, just mentioned, had a son of the name of Charles, who became an admiral of the Neapolitan navy, and who left an extraordinarily numerous family, no less than four of his sons—namely: William, Ferdinand, Emeric, and Gustave—attaining flag rank as admirals, either in the Neapolitan or Italian navy, and two of them serving in turn as Italian ministers of marine.

It is their sister, Laura Acton, who, after jilting the late Lord Granville, married Prince Camporeale, and after his death the Italian statesman and Prime Minister Marco Minghetti. Her daughter by her first marriage is Princess Bülow.

Sir John Acton, the Neapolitan prime minister who played so important a rôle at the beginning of the nineteenth century in connection with Lord Nelson, Queen Caroline, and Emma Lady Hamilton, was succeeded in his baronetcy by his eldest son Ferdinand, the second son, Charles, becoming a cardinal, and in his turn prime minister of the kingdom of Naples. Sir Ferdinand married the only daughter and heiress of the last duke of Dalberg, died five years later, his widow thereupon wedding the late Lord Granville, the foreign minister of the various Gladstone cabinets, and who intrusted the education of his young stepson, Sir John (afterwards Lord) Acton, first of all to Cardinal Wiseman, and afterwards to the celebrated Prof. Dr. Dollinger at Munich. Dr. Dollinger was the founder of the denomination known as the Old Catholics, and his pupil, young Acton, became imbued with his views, and distinguished himself in 1869 and 1870 by his hostility to the doctrine of papal infallibility. This Sir John in 1869 was elevated to the peerage as Lord Acton, and married the German Countess Marie Arco-Valley.

The present Lord Acton, his son, is secretary of the British embassy at Madrid and a lord in waiting to the king. He is, like his father, a modern and liberal Catholic, received his education at Magdalen college, Oxford, and is married to Miss Dorothy Lyon, daughter of Thomas Henry Lyon of Appleton hall, Cheshire.

He owns Aldenham park and estates, extending over an area of about 10,000 acres, in Shropshire. But the famous Aldenham library, comprising a collection of no less than 60,000 rare volumes and priceless manuscripts, constituting the most celebrated collection in existence of works on the history of the various Christian churches, was bequeathed by the late peer to his friend, the Right Hon. John Morley, now secretary of state for India.

As Morley is not a man of means and did not know how to house the books, realizing at the same time that it would be most ungracious to dispose of them by sale, he presented the collection as it stood to the university library of Cambridge as a memorial of Lord Acton. The university has since then been obliged to pay $2,000 for the mere cost of the removal of the books to Cambridge from Aldenham park. In addition to this, the structural alterations necessitated at the university library to house the books, the provision of bookcases, etc., cost $12,000 more. Then the work of scientifically cataloguing the library, which has only just been completed after four years' hard work, has cost another $12,000 or $15,000, while the printing of the catalogue and the binding of the books has eaten up another $10,000. So that the total estimated cost to the University of Cambridge entailed by the acceptance of this gift of the late Lord Acton's library from John Morley has amounted to the neighborhood of $40,000.

I must mention that the Dalbergs, of whom Lord Acton is now the chief representative, claimed to be the most ancient and illustrious house in Germany, and to trace their descent to a relative of the Savior, who became a Roman centurion, and settled at Hernstein, near Worms. For centuries the Dalbergs played a conspicuous rôle in the history of Germany, on the pages of which their names continually appear. Whenever the emperor-elect was crowned as ruler of Germany and of the holy Roman empire at Frankfort a herald invariably demanded in loud tones, "Is any Dalberg here?" and if any one was present he was immediately knighted by the new monarch.

The penultimate Duke Dalberg was archchancellor of the holy Roman empire in the closing years of its existence, and when the empire was overthrown by Napoleon and all further resistance to the latter had become useless Dalberg joined his fortunes and was appointed by him president of the confederation of the Rhine, which Napoleon had created in order to take the place of the holy Roman empire. Napoleon also created him grand duke of Frankfort, and designated Eugene de Beauharnais as his successor. He died without issue, being succeeded in his dukedom by his nephew, Emeric, last duke of Dalberg, who was with Talleyrand at the congress of Verona.

STATE CHARITIES IN IOWA.

Asylums, Prisons, and Homes Are All Under the Supervision of One Board of Control.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The state charities in Iowa are administered under the supervision of a board of control of state institutions, consisting of three members. The law creating this board was passed by the Twenty-seventh general assembly and ten years ago the first day of July next the various state institutions, with the exception of the State University, the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, and the State Normal school, passed under the control of the board and all local boards were abolished.

The members of the board of control are appointed by the governor with the affirmative vote of at least two-thirds of the members of the senate. Not more than two members of the board shall belong to the same political party, thus making it nonpartisan. In addition the provisions of the law divorcing the board from political influences are severe. No member or employé of the board and no superintendent or employé of any institution under control of the board is allowed to influence any person subordinate to them to vote the ticket of any particular party or for any particular candidate, nor to solicit or contribute money for campaign funds.

The institutions under the board are the four hospitals for the insane, hospital for inebriates, sanitarium for treatment of tuberculosis, institution for feeble minded children, soldiers' home, orphans' home, penitentiary, reformatory, two industrial schools, school for the deaf, and college for the blind.

The present board of control is as follows: John T. Hamilton, Cedar Rapids, chairman; John Cownie, Amana; and Gifford S. Robinson, Sioux City. The board has absolute charge of the institutions under its control.

How Supplies Are Purchased.

The supplies for all the institutions are purchased on contracts awarded after competitive bidding, the quality of the goods and the responsibility of the bidder being taken into consideration. Estimates are furnished by the heads of the various institutions and after being carefully inspected are made the basis of the purchases. When the awards are made the superintendent of each institution is informed of the person obtaining the contracts and the prices and he orders the supplies as he needs them.

"What has been the advantage to the state from the purchasing of supplies for all the institutions by the board?" was asked of Judge Robinson, one of the members of the board.

"The advantage has been about the difference between the wholesale and retail price of the different commodities," he replied. "As an illustration: At the time the board took control of the institutions the per capita for the support of the patients in the hospitals for the insane was $14 to $16 per month. The legislature reduced this to $12 a month, and it has remained at that figure, although prices of some articles which enter into their support have advanced 50 per cent. The inmates are well cared for, have abundance of good, wholesome food, and we find in most cases the reduced per capita allowance sufficient."

In regard to the improvement in the condition of the patients in the insane hospitals he said that each of the four hospitals is visited at least once a month by one or more members of the board, who give the institution a thorough inspection. At such times each patient is afforded opportunity to speak privately to the members of the board.

Controls Private Asylums.

"In addition to supervision of the four state hospitals for the insane, the board has control of five private institutions in the state which care for insane persons," continued Judge Robinson, "and also in the case of the sixty counties in the state which have poorhouses in which insane persons are kept. These institutions are all of them visited by inspectors who report upon their condition."

The improvement in the two industrial schools, the one for boys at Eldora and the other for girls at Mitchellville, was especially marked. "We have built a new school building for the school for the boys at Eldora," he said, "and the work being done there now will compare favorably with that done in the public schools. When the board took charge there was no regular school building there. The boys' sitting room was used as a schoolroom. The wife of the superintendent acted as school teacher, and there was but little system used. Now we have a graded school and the boys are making good progress. We have also two buildings for industrial training and are teaching the boys tailoring, shoemaking, harness making, and expect to teach blacksmithing and wagon making. We also have a complete printing plant at the school and give instruction in that art. We find that the boys take an interest in learning trades and believe they will be greatly benefited by such instruction."

In the Penitentiaries.

As to the improvement in conditions regarding the inmates of the penitentiaries, Judge Robinson spoke in optimistic strain. He was hopeful of the good effects of the indeterminate sentence and parole law passed by the last legislature, and also of the provision making the Anamosa penitentiary a reformatory and separating the younger prisoners from the older and more hardened criminals. Of the reforms introduced by the board at the penitentiaries he said:

"We have abolished the lockstep and have introduced the system of grading the inmates. According to this system only the worst class is required to wear the old prison stripes.

"When a prisoner is received he is placed in the second grade and wears a checked suit. After he has been in the institution for six months he is eligible, on good behavior, to promotion to the first grade, when he dons a gray suit. This leaves the stripes for those in the third grade, which includes prisoners who do not obey the rules of the institution, and are what we might call the more hardened criminals. To show how well this system works, let me give you some figures of the prison population on Jan. 1 this year. At Fort Madison penitentiary there were at that date 432 inmates, of whom 342 were in the first grade, 87 in the second, and 3 in the third. At the Anamosa reformatory there were 330 inmates, 232 in the first grade, 96 in the second, and 2 in the third. These figures, it seems to me, speak eloquently of the good work being done by the grading system."

The criminal insane and female convicts are confined at Anamosa. There are only twelve females now serving sentences.

The institution for inebriates at Knoxville, to which confirmed drunkards may be sent on order of the court, is largely an experiment, but good results are hoped for.

Purposes of Control by Board.

The purpose of the board having control of the institutions which care for the wards of the state is twofold. First, to obtain as economical administration of affairs as possible, having regard to the physical well being of the inmates, and, second, to institute every approved method for the betterment of the condition of the mentally and morally unfortunate.

Speaking of the advantages of the administration of the state's charities under a board of control, Judge Robinson said: "It seems to me that some of the benefits of the administration of the affairs of the state institutions by a board of control are these: First, placing the management in the hands of a central body, all the members of which devote their entire time to the work of the institutions. They must necessarily have better knowledge of the work than would local boards who gave but little attention to the institutions except when they met, which was only two or three times a year. Second, making the institutions entirely independent of political influence. Third, the adoption of a uniform system of bookkeeping, of accounts, vouchers, etc., so that the board can tell at any time the exact condition of any of the institutions under its control. Fourth, the purchase of supplies for the institutions in large quantities, thereby making great saving in cost. Fifth, constant and close supervision of the affairs of each institution. Sixth, the better knowledge which one board devoting the entire time of its members to the institutions can acquire concerning methods of management and their application."

The Iowa board of control of state institutions spends annually about $2,000,000 for supplies and improvements for the institutions, and in the last ten years it has spent several million dollars for the construction of new buildings.

THE MORALS OF MARCUS.

A Comedy Drama in Four Acts.
BY W. J. LOCKE.

Presented in Powers' Theater by Marie Doro and Company, Jan. 27, 1908. The Cast:

Sir Marcus Ordeyne	C. Aubrey Smith
Sebastian Pasquale	Hubert Harben
Hamdi Effendi	Forrest Robinson
Stenson	William Evans
Carlotta	Marie Doro
Judith Mainwaring	Beatrice Forbes-Robertson
Mrs. Ordeyne	Mrs. Kate Meek
Dora Ordeyne	Leonore Palmer
Mrs. McMurray	Mrs. J. P. West
Antoinette	Alice Gale

There is a popular style of comedy drama that may some day be classified as the mouse play. It invariably concerns the sweetly pathetic heroine of slender build and soulful eyes and her experiences in the home of a great, strong man, where she spends her time creeping into hearts and nibbling at the serious affairs of life.

There is no record at hand, but it may be assumed confidently that the first mouse play followed the first attractively petite ingénue upon the stage, and it is reasonably sure to live, in one form or another, until the last ingénue expires, for it is beloved of women and gracefully tolerated of men.

From the entertaining story he told in his best selling novel, "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," W. J. Locke of London, England (the home of the epigram), has fashioned a nice little mouse play for Marie Doro, well suited to her soft-gray temperament and her wistful ways. The author has followed practically all the rules laid down by the pattern makers and approved by the public, and while the result offers nothing that is startlingly original (save, of course, the epigrams, which are worthy the school that extends from Epictetus to Wilde, from Marcus Aurelius to Arthur Pinero and Bernard Shaw), while, as said, nothing that is startlingly original is uncovered, the play serves its first purpose as entertainment and its second purpose as a "vehicle" for Mr. Frohman's newest star with credit to the adaptability of Mr. Locke and the more or less astute judgment of Mr. Frohman.

In "The Morals of Marcus" the little gray mouse appears in the form of an English waif and gnaws away the icicles that bind the heart of Sir Marcus, who would have been a crusty old philosopher had he lived his life another ten years and not been interrupted. She is a peculiar little creature, and her name is Carlotta. Her father was a British vice consul in Turkey and her mother, when she became a widow, married an unspeakable Turk in order to provide a home for the child and a plot for Mr. Locke.

The waif, brought up in the household of the Turk, escapes one day and elopes to England with a romantic but moral young Englishman who, on realizing that he has all but damned his soul in stealing the girl, buys her a ticket to a London suburb and then proceeds to shoot his own head off. Thus it is that she comes through the hedge of Sir Marcus' country home one fine morning and finds that worthy trying to write a comprehensive history of the morals of the renascence. Right there, by telling him that she has nowhere to go, no one to go to, and nothing to eat but green apples, which already have given her a pain in the tummy, she begins to "creep into his heart," and the play is off with an interesting but perfectly obvious finish in sight.

Second act little mousie is cutely installed and is having a fine time accustoming herself to her surroundings. She is really 18, but she performs with all the infantile insouciance of 8, and promptly is voted sweet by most of the women and some of the men. She nibbles at chocolates, plays with marshmallows, proves her feminine instinct by painting her cheeks, and is given a lesson in writing during which she suffers from momentary softening of the brain, but quickly recovers.

Of course, Sir Marcus' relatives are shocked. They hate to think of what will happen to the title should the little mousie begin to gnaw at that foundation of their respectability, and they protest she should be sent on her way. But Sir Marcus promptly tells them to mind their own business and permit him to mind his. He is, however, concerned regarding the sentimental objections of Lady Mainwaring, a married woman whose guardian he is and with whom, we surmise, he has been carrying on an affair since she has separated from her husband. But on one point he is firm—he will not allow anything to stop the mouse from creeping into his heart, now that she has crept.

In the third act the dramatic theme is developed and a rather brazen abduction is forced into action. The unspeakable Turk comes to the home of Ordeyne and demands the return of his wife's daughter. Ordeyne, seeking to circumvent the unholy one, declares the girl to be his wife and later announces a determination to make good the boast by marrying her. Then Lady Mainwaring, who wants Sir Marcus for her own, conspires with a handsome loafer to spirit the unhappy waif away, which he succeeds in doing by making her (Carlotta) believe her staying there endangers the life of Sir Marcus.

But though she creeps out of the house, she cannot creep out of the heart of Sir Marcus, and when, in the last act, she comes back, after having been betrayed and deserted, he receives her again as he did when she came through the hedge. She has "gained knowledge through suffering," and he has learned how dear she is to him, and so the little mouse escapes the trap and finds a home in which there will be more than a poor man's allotment of bread and cheese and kisses.

So you see the new play does not differ essentially from Mr. Barrie's tale of "The Professor's Love Story," or Mr. Gillette's story of "Clarice," or Mrs. Ryley's account of "A Bachelor's Romance," or Mr. Pepie's romance of "The Prince Chap." It is just another mouse play, and as such is modestly entertaining.

Miss Doro is a bright, alert little actress, and a capable one, and she gravitated gracefully between the pathos of Carlotta's worldly experiences and the silliness into which she dips in order to be cute and "mousie." The more she had to do the better she did it. Her serious scenes were her best scenes. In a fanciful story, in which the entertainment of the audience has a stronger claim than the art of characterization, the assumption of a mystifying dialect seems both unnecessary and unwise. Carlotta's peculiar speech, and her accentuated effort to suggest the undulating grace of the harem, interfered somewhat with the charm of the actress' performance.

The company contains an excellent actress in Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, a niece of the English actor, and she made the character of the unfortunate Mrs. Mainwaring directly and logically appealing. C. Aubrey Smith, a substantial actor of the English school, whose method is not unlike that of Mr. Gillette, played Sir Marcus with excellent appreciation of his profound philosophies and a glib recital of his epigrammatic speech. Hubert Harben was the handsome abductor, filling the picture satisfactorily. Forrest Robinson had one good scene as the Turk, and Mrs. Kate Meek, Mrs. J. P. West, William Evans, and Alice Gale assisted capably.

The setting is handsome, and last night's audience, which was of fair size, seemed well pleased with the entertainment.

BURNS MANTLE.

Gotham Likes A Waltz Dream.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Operetta having once more become the chief export of Vienna, considerable interest naturally centered in the production this evening in the Broadway theater of the latest Viennese shipment of music, romance, and jokes, the whole being offered for American consumption under the name of "A Waltz Dream." The Viennese manufacturers were Oscar Straus as to music, and Felix Doermann and Leopold Jackson as to the other materials, but the goods had been trimmed up a bit for this side of the Atlantic by Joseph W. Herbert.

Much credit attaches to both the original makers and to the American furbisher, for between them they have produced a musical entertainment of much more than the ordinary merit. In "A Waltz Dream," as in "The Merry Widow," the musical feature that most pleased the first night audience, and is likely to go on pleasing many more, was a waltz melody that, enthusiastically greeted at its first appearance, bobs up sporadically from then until the very end. Wherefore it seems more than likely that nobody will have the temerity for some time to produce an operetta hereabouts that isn't plastered all over with waltz music.

The plot deals with an Austrian lieutenant who is made to marry a princess, though much against his will. Immediately after the ceremony he declares all is over between them and, being lured into a public garden by the seductive strains of waltz music played by a band of female musicians, he makes love to the conductor of the band, but his bride finally wins him.

Edward Johnson as the reluctant bridegroom of royalty made probably the biggest personal success of the evening, which is an achievement, because Charles A. Bigelow as the kingly papa, Joseph W. Herbert as the imbecile prince, Josie Sadler as a stout female virtuoso on a bass drum, and Sophie Brandt as the conductorette who took the flirtatious bridegroom too seriously, were all enthusiastically received.

London Hears "Das Rheingold."

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The production of his Nibelungen ring in English was said to have been one of Wagner's ambitions, and tonight, twenty-five years after his death, the first attempt to realize that ambition was made at Covent Garden. A capital performance of "Das Rheingold" in English, but under the conductorship of Dr. Hans Richter and with singers of various nationalities, some of whom had to learn the language for the occasion, inaugurated the enterprise in a worthy manner. An American singer, Mr. Whitehall, took the rôle of Wotan.

MANUAL TRAINING ESSENTIAL, SAYS DWIGHT L. MOODY'S SON

Educational Work of Northfield and Mount Hermon Praised in Address to Their Alumnæ and Alumni.

That efficiency in domestic science should be the "intellectual aim" of fair coeds, no less than the acquirement of learning in the higher arts and religion was the dictum of W. R. Moody, son of the late Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, in an address last night before the Mount Hermon-Northfield Alumni association of Chicago. The association held its annual banquet in the dining hall of Moody institute.

Mr. Moody said:

"In Northfield seminary the study of domestic science is recognized as an essential of higher education. A $50,000 building has been donated for that purpose by the Mrs. Julia Billings family of New York.

Likewise, Mr. Moody said he considered the most important training in Mount Hermon preparatory school for young men to be the industrial training furnished by the broad acres of farming land, and the manual training shops. As evidence of the success of this fundamental training he cited that Mount Hermon has more than its pro rata of honor students in Harvard university.

The eastern institutions founded by his father twenty-seven years ago, Mr. Moody said, are outgrowing their capacity.

"We had to turn away nearly 500 girls at Northfield this year because we didn't have dormitories to hold them," he said.

Mr. Moody will remain in Chicago until Feb. 5, when the seventy-first anniversary of his father's birth will be celebrated at Moody institute.

NEWS OF THE SOCIETY WORLD

Large Attendance at the Fifth Monday Morning Musical.

MRS. PALMER [illegible] ABROAD.

She Will Sail for Europe from New York Within a Few Days.

Encouraged by the success of the fourth morning musical and attracted by the program announced for the fifth, the largest throng of society women which has ever attended any of the series appeared in the Congress hotel ballroom yesterday. In return the women were treated to a program of music, the excellence of which sent artists and listeners alike to their homes with the feeling that "blue Monday" was a misnomer in one instance at least.

Aside from its musical and social success, the fifth morning musical might go down into history as a morning of good nature. Mme. Kirkby-Lunn and M. Georges Lucas, the Metropolitan opera stars, who were responsible for the artistic success, radiated good humor and the women of the audience, who represented the city's fashionable world, responded with an enthusiasm which kept them tarrying at the close of the program, calling for more. Throughout the morning the accusations that a society audience lacks sympathy and interest this time was repudiated, for applause was frequent and enthusiastic, and both artists willingly repeated whole songs that proved favorites.

Mme. Kirkby-Lunn was among admirers, for her ability as a vocalist is known in Chicago. She has never been heard here in better voice. Moreover, she was a pretty picture to look upon in her simply fashioned frock of pale pink satin striped gauze. The skirt was full, trimmed only by narrow bands of pink satin wrought into a Grecian border about the bottom. The bodice was made with square neck, filled in with fine lace, the lace also fashioning the short puffed sleeves. Bands of the satin outlined the neck, and, unlike most of her sister vocalists, she wore but a single diamond pin, long and of flower design, caught in the lace of her bodice. With this costume she wore a medium sized hat of mole velvet and lace trimmed with a feather to match and lighter ribbon. To add to the daintiness a gold piano was used yesterday morning, forming a pretty background with the green of the palms.

The morning was the first appearance of M. Lucas, who has not been heard in America outside of New York. M. Lucas gave the program of operatic selections which was announced. He suffered from a slight roughness of voice, traceable, no doubt, to his smiling assertion, that "it is a dreadful thing to sing in the morning!" but this was overshadowed by the evident sincerity of his interpretation and he was warmly applauded.

Some of the women who have appeared at the preceding musicals of the series were missing. Mrs. Potter Palmer's absence from the city left her box to be empty for the first time. Mrs. Arthur Meeker, through whose joint efforts with Mrs. J. Ogden Armour the series has been promoted, went south last week to spend a few days with her younger children, who are in Aiken, S. C. for the winter, and so was missed. Mrs. Frank Mackey, who has been a constant attendant, left for California on Sunday to spend the remainder of the winter. Mrs. Edward Leicht, who has been present at all of the previous musicals, has been confined to her home with sickness.

Mrs. Armour, who gave a luncheon at the Annex later, had for her box guests Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Watson Blair, Mrs. Nelson Bigelow, Mrs. John Marshall Clark, and Mrs. Bryan Lathrop. Most of these women wore street suits, although Mrs. Field appeared in one of the handsomest costumes of the morning—a trained gown of black lace, the skirt ending in a deep band of the softest silk plush. A half length coat of silk astrakhan with military cords and a large black velvet hat with osprey feathers was worn with this.

Adjoining this box company were the box parties of Mrs. W. W. Kimball and Mrs. R. T. Crane Jr., the guests appearing like one large company. The parties included Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. William Odell, Mrs. Honoré Palmer, Mrs. Herbert Stuart Stone, Miss Lucy Blair, and Miss Edith Hoyt. Miss Blair wore a gown of gray with a long squirrel coat and a hat of gray trimmed with white net bows.

Mrs. Harold McCormick, in a soft velvet of light brown and a long sable coat and hat, the latter trimmed in long feathery aigrettes matching the gown, had among her guests Mrs. George Brown of Baltimore and her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Field. In another box the guests included Mrs. A. B. Dick, Miss Mabel Dick, and Miss Cora Prindiville. Mrs. Lawrence Reed, wearing dark red broadcloth and velvet, with a dark red hat and short mink coat, had box guests.

In the audience were Mrs. Fenton B. Turck in black broadcloth with short jacket of astrakhan and a large black hat trimmed with a green plume; Miss Ethel Hooper, in green and white with a rose pink felt hat trimmed with flowers; Mrs. J. R. Adams and her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Gunsaulus, Mrs. Leroy Fuller, in a gray coat suit and hat; Mrs. Charles Conover, in a green street suit; Mrs. Warren Salisbury, likewise in green cloth; Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. Robert McGann, Mrs. Charles Dempster, Mrs. J. B. Murphy, Mrs. Edward Hosmer, Mrs. Augustus Parker, her sister, Mrs. Richard Stearns, and niece, Mrs. Secor Cunningham—a party which was joined later by Mrs. Charles Gillett as Mrs. Stearns' luncheon guests at the Annex; Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, Mrs. Charles Plamondon, Mrs. F. R. McMullin of Highland Park, Mrs. George Watkins, in gray velvet and purple, and Mrs. Walter Nelson in black velvet with a black velvet coat and large pink velvet hat trimmed with roses.

The last of the musicals will be given in another fortnight.

Cards have been received in the city for the wedding of Miss Theodora Shonts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shonts, formerly of Chicago, but now of New York, and the duc de Chaulnes. The service is to take place in New York next month.

Mrs. Potter Palmer tarried but a few days in the city. She left for the east Sunday and was among the guests at the Vanderbilt-Szechenyi wedding yesterday. Within a few days she will sail for Europe, and society is wondering whether this means that the marriage of Miss Pauline Kohlsaat and Mr. Potter Palmer is to be celebrated in London as was that of Mr. Honoré Palmer and Miss Grace Brown. According to those in authority, the wedding is to be a quiet affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick are scheduled to arrive in Miami, Fla., this week, and other news which comes from the east and is of interest in Chicago says that Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Forbes [Mamie Helsen] are still tarrying in Florida, spending much time flashing off the yacht Whiz. Mrs. Minna Field Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore, and Mrs. Moore's mother, Mrs. Swift, have sailed for Europe, Mrs. Gibson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, returning to Washington yesterday after having seen her off on Saturday, instead of going abroad with her, as was first reported. Mrs. Spencer Eddy was one of the company presented to the kaiser at the first drawing room held last week. Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter will sail for England in March to pay a visit of length to the countess of Suffolk [Daisy Leiter]; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dickinson, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John W. Foster in Washington, were guests of honor at a dinner for twenty given by their host and hostess Saturday evening.

Mrs. William J. Candlish, 1738 Sheridan road, will give a luncheon today and bridge parties on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The members of the Soirée Française will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Daniel Byrnes, 1051 East Garfield boulevard, today. Prof. Henri Golzard will lecture.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pick, 4417 Michigan avenue, will entertain Miss Maude Brede and Mr. Leo Salinger at the grand opera this evening.

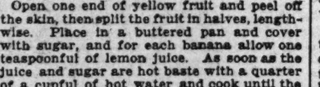
For Each Woman According to Her Needs.

To Make Over Girl's Dress.

If you have a girl who grows so rapidly that her dresses soon become too short in the skirt and waist, you can easily remodel the dress if you have a fair idea of sewing. Rip out the sleeves and cut the dress out to yoke length. The waist may then be let down slightly to make it large enough. Make a yoke and new sleeves for the waist of silk and use the discarded sleeves to make a slightly gathered yoke seven or eight inches deep to lengthen the gathered skirt. Making use of the old sleeves in this way saves expense, and the skirt always looks prettier when the yoke is made of the same material. The joining of the yoke and skirt may be hidden by a three-quarter inch wide braid. Two rows of braid may be stitched an inch or so apart lower down on the skirt.

The joining of the waist and yoke may also be covered with the braid, and it is an easy matter here to carry the braid out at the edges of the yoke over the arms to give a wide shouldered effect. The braid may also be sewed around the armholes, allowing it to come slightly below the armhole, under the arm, to produce the effect of the large armhole. The silk for the sleeves and yoke should match in color as nearly as possible the material of the dress, as a new, bright colored silk might tend to emphasize any shabbiness if the dress is at all worn.

If a plaid or check silk is decided upon, the check or plaid should be small, and the predominating color should match that of the material. The braid should be some bright colored braid, which will brighten the somberness of the dress if it is dark colored. A braid with a puff thread in it will be the easiest to work with.



Milk Baths.

Milk as a skin beautifier is as old as the hills, and a great deal has been written about milk baths. Like most beautifiers it must be used regularly, persistently, and with a careful regard as to the diet to effect sure results. It is true that the results are slow, but they are sure also, and when once they are noticeable a great change will also gradually be perceptible.

The face and neck should first be cleaned with pieces of absorbent cotton soaked in equal parts of olive oil and brandy or olive oil and eau de cologne. Firm and gentle pressure should be used in this process, so as to stimulate the surface cells. Dry carefully and dab the entire face, spatting it gently with milk. Skim milk is not so good as "full" milk, but it will serve the purpose.

Cosmetic Ball for Wrinkles.

In France they have a way of plumping out thin cheeks which may be tried with excellent effects. A cosmetic ball is fastened to the end of a stick. The ball is made of a lump of cold cream, covered lightly with cheese cloth. The ball of cream is lightly spatted on the face until the skin becomes moist and soft. This friction is excellent for the cuticle.

Then there is the massage with the finger tips to rub the cream in, and last of all the dash of hot water. Hot water should be used at night and never in the morning. The skin is tender after the hot water bath, the massage and steaming and should be rested for at least an hour after the treatment.

Good Health Rule.

Drink a cup of hot water immediately upon arising in the morning and one before retiring at night.

Gem Pudding.

Mix four ounces of butter and sugar to a cream. Grate the rind of a lemon into this. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth and the yolks to a cream. Add the yolks to the butter mixture and stir in four ounces of flour; then stir in the whites lightly, put the puddings into six well buttered cups, making them two-thirds full, and bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes. Serve with hard sauce made as follows: Rub together two ounces of butter, four ounces of sugar, and the juice of one lemon. Keep sauce cold until wanted.

ESTHER H. WATERS.

Baked Rabbit.

Rabbits are plentiful; everybody will get tired of fried or stewed rabbit. I tried a new way and it was delicious. For dressing, slice some bacon, fry brown and add two onions, a cup of soaked bread, celery, parsley, and if on hand any kind of cold meat, cut it in bits and add an egg, a tablespoonful of Worcestershire or lemon juice, pepper, salt, and a little cayenne; mix well. first sew on the body of rabbit a heavy strip of bacon as to form a bag, then stuff, lay in roasting pan with a few slices of bacon over it, salt and pepper and brown, a little vinegar will improve it. Bake one hour, basting often.

MRS. LOU BACCUS.

Baked Bananas.

Open one end of yellow fruit and peel off the skin, then split the fruit in halves, lengthwise. Place in a buttered pan and cover with sugar, and for each banana allow one teaspoonful of lemon juice. As soon as the juice and sugar are hot baste with a quarter of a cupful of hot water and cook until the fruit looks semi-transparent. Slip into a dish and cover with a melted red currant sauce, in which place cooked cherries and strawberries. This is a good way to serve berries that are too soft to serve in the usual way. Instead of the jelly the sauce can be made of crushed berries and cherries. Let the bananas and sauce become cold before serving.

DAILY FASHION HINT.

Street costume made of gray broadcloth, trimmed in black velvet buttons, with embroidered collar and cuffs.

"Free Riot" Laws

How would you like to be pointed out as a tough, bully, law-breaker and criminal, because you are a member of a Labor Union, and ruled tyrannically by leaders who are known to be men of "violent tendencies" (as the Goldfield Committee reported)—who make a business of stirring up trouble, strikes, picketing, boycotting, slugging, dynamiting, destruction of property and who stop industries and force their own union members to go without wages until the leaders can assert their right to dictate and rule?

All this with fat and sure salaries for the leaders and more or less poverty for their working members.

The writer of this has a little money to spend in telling the public the workman's story. Take one as an example (there are several hundred thousand).

He was born in the town he calls "home," had a school education and by chance slipped thru the "union" restrictions which kept several of his mates from learning a trade, by securing an apprenticeship. After serving he became a mechanic, owned a home, was a highly respected neighbor and citizen and prosperous.

Finally a paid "organizer" appeared in the town, a union was formed and he induced to join under threat of being called a "scab." He knew the organizer got a commission on him and each other new member, and while he thought a union of workingmen would be a good thing on some accounts, he didn't exactly like the looks of things, but couldn't help himself.

Then he was ordered to strike to force the discharge of all independent men.

So he lost much by idleness and saw violence and destruction of property in the name of the "union," he of course being charged as one of the law-breakers, although he stayed at home and kept out of trouble and didn't need any injunction to prevent him from committing crime.

He lost his wages and had to bear much odium in order to help fill the pockets of the labor leaders and give them more power.

He was further humiliated by observing that the rank and file of the union men were absolutely controlled by a few leaders who ran things to suit themselves and forced the public to class all union men as indorsing the lawless and despicable acts of these leaders and their bullies.

In a strike the public had learned by experience to look for lawlessness and violence. Men were followed and bull-dozed, attacked and at times murdered.

Horses were maimed, harness cut and wagons and goods destroyed. Women followed and insulted and sometimes stripped naked. Mines were dynamited and flooded, men shot from ambush and homes blown up. Industries were stopped and thousands thrown out of work.

Every time a murder or any lawless act was committed he saw these "Leaders" rush into print to deny, and take union money to defend those whom the union men knew to be criminals.

Every act of these Union Leaders seemed to show their sympathy with and desire for lawlessness and violence. They would protest against the presence of police, soldiers or any other peace officer hired by the people.

They would employ all forms of hidden and mean acts to harm other men.

All of these things caused the common people to look upon union men as possible law-breakers and enemies to the peace of the community.

This was further added to by the leaders taking the money of the union members to hire lawyers and lobbyists in Congress to change the penal laws so the real toughs in the unions could commit acts of violence and not be punished.

Also to enact an anti-injunction law so that the people's courts could not issue injunctions which would prevent violence and loss of property.

These things plainly showed that these leaders wanted to be free to commit violence, attack their fellow men, stop industries and destroy property in the name of union labor and yet go free.

If a union man don't want to riot or commit violence an injunction to prevent it won't hurt him.

This work makes honest, peaceable union workmen disgusted, for they are being classed as anarchists.

It is most unfair to reputable union men that they be subject to such leaders and unable either to correct them or escape their anger if not obeyed.

Organizations of Labor or Capital may exist and operate peacefully and legally, but most of the paid leaders of the unions plainly seek to break the law and commit acts of violence to increase their power, force all men to join and pay increased fees.

It is a dangerous condition demanding attention from every lover of his country.

When workingmen are fined and forced to pay from $25.00 to $1,000.00 for some "disobedience" of "orders" from the leaders, some idea of the extent of the slavery may be understood.

A few designing men have gained control of "organized labor" and are shrewdly scheming to rivet the shackles on their own members and on all citizens. Give them the "free riot" laws and they can enforce obedience.

Take a careful look at the work of these Labor leaders now before Congress.

They demand a revision of the "penal code" so that rioters and toughs directed by Labor Union managers may commit various acts of lawlessness and go free.

They demand an anti-injunction law, so that the hands of the people's courts shall be tied and they cannot issue restraining orders to prevent acts, sure to result in riot, assaulting of other workmen, dynamiting and destruction of property. This is known as the "Free Riot Act."

They demand that no free American who fails to pay fees to the union leaders be allowed to work in certain government departments.

They demand the defeat of public men who vote against these measures of anarchy.

The "union" man's money is used to work these measures through.

It is a most dangerous condition confronting the people, but our workingmen and other citizens can preserve their freedom by acting, and acting promptly.

President Roosevelt is quoted as saying, "The worst foes of America are the foes of that orderly liberty without which our Republic must speedily perish. The reckless labor agitator who arouses the mob to riot and bloodshed is in the last analysis the most dangerous of the workingmen's enemies. This man is a real peril, and so is his sympathizer, who, to catch votes, denounces the judiciary and military because they put down mobs."

"The men who have done us harm are those who preach the doctrine of anarchy, but refrain from action that will bring them within the pale of the law; for these men lead thousands astray by the fact that they go unpunished or even rewarded for their misdeeds."

The constitution seeks to guarantee to every American freedom and the right to the pursuit of happiness in his own way. It is not intended that a select few gain control of an organization and by absolute power and violence rule all other men and force them to pay monthly fees, as planned by these labor leaders.

We don't want new laws that make Violence, Dynamiting, Boycotting and general mob rule safe to the tough element. That would destroy industries and commerce and put workpeople into poverty, with every man's hand raised against his neighbor.

Men of America must take a stand against these insidious attacks on their God-given personal liberty.

The way to help yourself is to write now, and again later to the members of Congress, whose names you can get and tell them your wishes.

They will understand readily if your letter asks them to "Vote for the measures that are clearly in the interest of the masses." Vote against any bill, whether presented by Labor or Capital, if it is a "class" measure and intended to benefit a few and injure the many. Demand more good laws against criminals, not less.

Tell them we don't want this country filled up with criminals, made so by cowardly legislation in the interests of Labor Union Bosses, grafters, frenzied financiers or anarchists.

Then watch how they vote. Past history shows that the people defeat public men who forget the great majority of their free constituents and work for measures introduced solely to put more power into the hands of designing labor leaders.

When the people speak, things are done.

There are brave members of Congress who stand up for the law-abiding citizens and refuse to vote for the anarchy of these labor leaders, but such Congressmen want words of encouragement from the people.

A few members of Congress think they can continue to hold office by bowing to the shouts and demands of these organized labor leaders in whom anarchy and disorder is ingrained. Such public men (there are but few) are willing to prostitute their own ideas of right and justice to curry favor with an organization thought to be strong enough to keep them in office. That is a fatal mistake.

Look at the members of Congress who have been opposed at the polls by all the forces the leaders of organized labor could bring to bear.

Every Congressman who has stood up fearlessly for the rights of the common people and refused to vote for "free riot" and such bills, has been returned by increased majorities.

What the great mass of newspaper readers and voters want to know is,

Does he stand for all the people and not alone for the few, and does he stand for absolute freedom and justice? The reason is plain.

"Organized labor" is a name abused by the "Violent men" who have gained control. They use that name to mask their anarchy and scheme to keep workmen paying fees to them.

Organized labor itself represents only about one citizen in every 40 Americans, or say 2 million out of 80 million. Great numbers of the 2 million members are upright, peace-loving, reputable citizens and in many cases forced to join unions against their will. Such men absolutely will not support or vote in favor of the "free riot" plans of the "Men of Violent Tendencies" in control.

Then the great peace-loving, patriotic majority, the 80 millions, have at least some regard for the law of the people and their own safety thereunder

A public man can only be safe in office when labor leaders demand that he vote for laws protecting "free riot" and the like, by replying that he "stands for any measure introduced by either Labor or Capital provided that measure be clearly in the interest of all the people and not in the interest of a class alone."

If he tries to curry favor by supporting any of these lawless acts of organized labor his position will be known and he will go down to defeat and carry with him the denunciation of a people who demand peace and know how to maintain it.

There are about 500 local organizations of liberty-loving people in as many cities in the U. S., variously known as Citizens Ass'ns, Industrial Ass'ns and Citizens Industrial Ass'ns. Their affiliations and support represent several million people.

They are watching this legislation and their voices will be heard in no uncertain manner in support of peace and law.

It shall be my privilege and pleasure to pay for the publication, in practically every prominent paper in America, of the names of Members of Congress who support or pander to this "free riot" sort of legislation.

Again, in trying to carry out this work for the perpetuation of the freedom of the people it will be necessary to supply advertisers and other inquirers with the names of newspapers who are so much in fear of the "Violent Men" that they dare not publish this article, although I offer it to them and pay for its publication.

It has at times been hard to get a word for the common man to the public eye, but there is a way and "There's a Reason."

If you want to know the papers dominated by labor union leaders buy various papers of January 28th. If you don't find this article write such papers and inquire "why?" A very few have no contract with us, the majority have. They will give a variety of excuses, but never the real one, that they are afraid to speak out for the rights of the common man, fearing punishment by labor unions. Isn't that a dangerous state of affairs? Don't you think the great mass of readers have a right to know what papers submit to having their utterances colored and censored by the labor union leaders, before they dare present the "news" to their readers? There are quite a few such papers and I am out to tell the facts and give them a fair test.

Above all it is of the greatest importance that the readers, one and all, write quickly to members of Congress, asking them to vote only for measures for the safety of the people and not for any measure of the "free riot" sort.

Our forefathers fought for freedom for themselves and their children and we must be alert, for oppressors arise from time to time and would rob us of it.

Patrick Henry once said, "The most valuable end of government is the liberty of the inhabitants. No possible advantages can compensate for the loss of this privilege." Don't let any man or set of men rob you of it. Write to members of Congress. Just for the people.

COLD AFFECTS IVORIES.

Lack of Heat Makes Contest Long Drawn Out; Winner's Average Only 7 31-67.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—George Sutton retained the 18-2 balk line billiard championship tonight by defeating Ora Morningstar at Lenox Lyceum by a score of 500 to 309.

It was the poorest contest that has taken place for a professional championship between players of the first rank in years, and the condition of the hall was blamed for this. The room was not sufficiently heated and the sensitive ivories soon became chilled. The result was they bumped, jumped, and behaved badly generally, greatly handicapping the players. It was hard to control the balls, draws and follows became mere guess work, and the contest dragged wearily until nearly midnight. The averages were worthy of second rate amateurs.

Sutton would have won by a much larger score if he had not fallen down so badly in his final hundred. It took him thirty-seven innings to go through his final century, Morningstar picking up a bit in that period while handing out a stiff dose of safety medicine, which further impeded Sutton's progress. Sutton's best work was done in his second and third hundreds. He culled 93 points in one session, the twelfth, previously having made a run of 74. Both these lucrative clusters, which virtually won the match for him, terminated by misses of massés. There was some fairly good balk line nursing by Sutton in making these runs.

Morningstar played wide billiards most of the time. He made some pretty open cushion shots, but could not keep the globes together at all, his position play being faulty. He had considerable bad luck in getting lineups.

Near the finish Morningstar made a grotesque scratch, due to the cold balls. His cue ball jumped three feet in the air, came down on the table, spun around dizzily, then scooted across and counted, setting the house in a roar. Just before this Sutton became angry because a spectator was laughing, turned around, and administered a sharp rebuke to the source of the levity. Score:

Sutton—3, 0, 0, 2, 0, 0, 22, 74, 5, 20, 10, 93, 15, 5, 0, 2, 0, 5, 10, 0, 13, 0, 56, 0, 1, 21, 26, 0, 0, 22, 0, 0, 21, 0, 4, 1, 10, 0, 1, 8, 1, 0, 0, 1, 0, 0, 5, 6, 1, 0, 0, 0, 0, 10, 4, 1, 11, 1, 0, 0, 0, 3, 1, 0, 0, 3, 2. Total, 500. Average, 4 45-56. High runs, 93, 74, 56.

Keough Wins First Match.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Jerome Keough of Buffalo tonight defeated Thomas Hueston of St. Louis, the world's pool champion, in the first block of a series of 600 points to be played for the championship, by a score of 212 to 150. Keough's high run was 34; Hueston's, 21.

JUDGE BALL HELPS BASEBALL.

Appeal for Injunction Against New Seats at West Side Park Is Denied—Joe Tinker Signs.

Yesterday was a day of cheer around the headquarters of the Chicago National league baseball club. It was caused by the action of Judge Ball throwing out the appeal for an injunction against the placing of new seats in the grand stand at the west side park, and the fact that Joe Tinker, the crack shortstop, came back to bat and signed his contract for 1908.

President Murphy declared that the efforts to secure an injunction had little chance to go through and said that the work had been progressing at the park as rapidly as the weather would permit.

Pitcher Overall, who has been wintering in California, will be in Chicago on Saturday, according to a letter received by President Murphy. The Cubs chief said he did not believe the visit of his crack twirler was entirely in the interests of baseball, as Overall is to be married in the near future.

President Comiskey of the White Stockings yesterday received the signed contract of Pitcher Jim Freeman. Freeman was the star pitcher of the Minneapolis American association club last season.

JENNINGS WORRIED BY COBB.

Refusal of Detroit's Star to Sign Contract Bothers Manager—Favors Giving $5,000 Salary.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, will report here on Feb. 15. President Navin today received a letter from the red haired one to this effect. It was a big, fat letter, too, and from what has leaked out at baseball headquarters Jennings is worried by Ty Cobb holding out for $5,000 in long green. Jennings knows that the success of the club depends in a great measure on the hitting, base running, and fielding of the Georgia lad, and he knows also that there is only one Ty Cobb running loose just now. It is said Jennings is in favor of giving Cobb the $5,000 he asks.

No Relief for F. C. Reisling.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 27.—The application of Player F. C. Reisling for reinstatement was today rejected by the national baseball commission, which declared he had presented no new testimony, and there were no extenuating circumstances. His application had been several times rejected and the American association had given his name as one of the alleged contract jumpers for whom reinstatement was asked at the national commission annual meeting as an indirect means of criticising the reinstatement of certain other players.

Lowe to Coach College Team.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Arrangements are being made by Western University of Pennsylvania to obtain "Link" Lowe of the Detroit Americans to coach the university nine this season. Lowe, it is understood, will secure the New Castle franchise in the Ohio and Pennsylvania league. The Pittsburg club today received the signed contract of D. G. Alderman, drafted last year from the Springfield (O.) Central league club.

Gunther Players Sign.

A meeting of the Gunther baseball club was held yesterday for the purpose of getting the players in line for the coming summer. The following men signed contracts: Fred Ransome, George Stellman, Billy Medwtzky, Jay Parker, Albert Schall, Martin Riley, Earl Rugar, and Eddie McNerny. Art Zangerle and Young Riley, the Wendell Phillips High school star, had signed previously.

PITTSBURG SWIMMERS COMING.

Team from the Oakland A. C. to Meet the Illinois A. C. Aquatic Experts Tomorrow Night.

The Illinois Athletic club swimming team will meet the team representing the Oakland Athletic club of Pittsburg, Pa., in the I. A. C. tank tomorrow night.

The Oakland A. C. team is on a western tour and will meet the C. Y. M. C. A. team Thursday evening and the Evanston Y. M. C. A. Friday night. The team ranks well with other teams of its kind in the east and has some of the best swimmers in that section. Guy Dailey, a veteran, who still is able to give the youngsters a good argument over the short route, is captain.

Swimming Director Frank Sullivan of the I. A. C. expects his team to win. The events will be 40 and 100 yard swims, 40 yard breast stroke, 40 yard back stroke, plunge for distance, relay, fancy diving, and water polo. The I. A. C. team will go to St. Louis March 4 to meet the Missouri Athletic club team.

Chairman Zeller of the athletic committee will call a meeting of the committee today to decide whether the club will again hold the charity meet at the Coliseum. Unless the committee can see favorable prospects ahead and is assured the hearty coöperation of the other clubs, universities, and organizations the meet will be given up. Zeller says the club will send two boxers to the Olympic games this year. He refuses to divulge the names of the men, but claims they are the best amateur boxers in the country today.

"THE BURGLAR AND THE LADY."

FIRST PREMIUM IN FRONT

Jockey Notter Has Hard Task Beating Lucky Mose, 50 to 1.

RIDER IS OVERCONFIDENT.

Dacra Takes Steeplechase After the Choices Run Out.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A 50 to 1 chance came near beating First Premium in the feature event at City park this afternoon. Lucky Mose was the outsider and was not conceded to be in the same class as First Premium. Notter held him lightly and swung wide into the head of the stretch, but Lucky Mose gave First Premium all he could do to land in front by a length, with Handbridge third. Notter was overconfident and, with a more energetic ride First Premium would have won by himself.

The steeplechase was for maiden jumpers and the two choices, McAllister and Captain Jarrel, ran out. Captain Jarrel was the pacemaker in the first part, but did not last long and as he ran out McAllister followed him. Woodsing fell. Dacra then won in a drive by a length. Jim Hutton always was a keen contender, but weakened at the end when he hooked up with Mix Up.

Easy Race to Nasturtia.

Nasturtia was ridden to an easy victory by L. Smith in the three furlong race for 2 year olds. The Schreiber pair, My Lady Frances and Lillian Ray, gave the winner an argument in the first part, but were carried off their feet. The Texans thought they had a good thing in the fifth in Come On Sam, and also backed Toy Boy to win the third race, but neither of them managed to land in front, although both ran well. Toy Boy was a warm favorite, but Mollie Montrose raced him into submission in the first half, and he quit badly. Prince Ahmed, well backed, won cleverly.

The grand jury here has been hot on the trail of professional tipsters. In his charge to the jury the presiding judge seemed to think that there was some connection between racetracks and these birds of prey, and so instructed the talesmen to look into the matter. Manager M. J. Winn and Secretary MaGinn were subpœnaed, and testified that tipsters who advertised to furnish winners had absolutely no connection with the racing associations.

FAVORITES FAIL AT OAKLAND.

Bad Condition of Track Causes Defeat of Choices—Long Shots Get an Inning.

"Red" Walker scored with Zelina and Old Settler, both quoted at one time at 15 to 1. Graphite and Gromobol had a desperate struggle to the saddling paddock, where the former drew away.

Emil Herz has preferred charges against Carman and his trainer, Blute, and there may be an investigation. According to Herz, he was given Mark Anthony as a "good thing" by the Carman people. He bet $1,800 on this information and now claims that Carman and his crowd played Deutschland. Summaries:

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY HEK.

Taking their cues from the ingenuous Tyrus Cobb, a number of desirable ball players want the following clauses inserted in their contracts:

Players should not be required to pay admission at the gate on days when their services are not required on the field.

A player who, while traveling, wishes to economise by buying his lunch from the candy butcher, instead of going against the luxury of the dining car, should be given the privilege of going south with the difference.

A player who prefers to wash his own uniform should be given credit tantamount to the price the laundry gets.

The same when he has a friend in the business and gets his soap at cost price.

When a player prefers to walk to the grounds instead of availing himself of the bus, he should be credited with 5 cents car fare.

The same should apply when he can get room and board cheaper than at the regular hotel.

Salivary pitchers should not be required to furnish their own chicle and slippery elm.

The club should provide dress suits to be used at post season functions.

In his present line of business the argument that is calculated to provoke the most comment is the argument Jim Corbett should advance. It is water on his wheel to be taken seriously. His contract does not call for logical reasoning or simple truth telling. He is not talking for the wise; he is talking for the gawks. That is 90 per cent of the agreement. The other 10 per cent is the parrokeetish mezzo soprano he passes over the footlights. The intelligent person who attempts to hold him down to a solid line of reasoning based on his own record and the records of those who have preceded and followed him is simply stultifying himself. Let him talk or let his managers talk. It is all to the same purpose.

The New Orleans racing powers have been summoned to tell what they know about the extravagant claims of advertising tipsters based upon their races. The advertising tipsters have been giving their clients to understand in so much black type that races of frequent occurrence are foregone conclusions, and making thinly veiled insinuations as to the connivance of the judges and the managers. The federal judge some time ago took cognizance of the advertising tipsters in their relation to the postal laws, and he wants to know to what extent the furnishers of the incentive are involved, with a view to applying a federal hammer to the forging of a new kind of monkey wrench.

Attacking horse racing is becoming so popular that everybody wants to get in on it.

Mrs. Tommy Burns was always opposed to her husband's contracting a mésalliance with a colored fighter, but now that she has been brought to recognize that a clash with Jack Johnson is inevitable, she predicts with charming naïveté that her distinguished spouse will knock Johnson's kinky block off.

Baseball fandom* would be in a state of maudlin excitement just now if it knew what the row was all about.

*A borrowed term.

As a line of absent treatment for this present spell of weather, we recommend a calm contemplation of next summer's swimming championships.

BAIRD RETURNS TO ANN ARBOR.

Athletic Director Believes Withdrawal of Michigan Ultimately Will Result in Harmony in the West.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Happy over Michigan's withdrawal from the western intercollegiate conference, Director Baird returned today from the west.

"I am glad Michigan is out," said Baird. "I think the action will have salutary effect on college athletics in the middle west, because it is significant in these ways: Michigan has stood firm in a belief the conference was wrong in its reform measures; has risked ostracism in behalf of that belief; has pointed the way toward modification of the conference rules, and so, encouraged sister universities in their demands against needless reforms.

Mr. Baird said it was not yet definitely settled that Pennsylvania would play here next fall. He has just about closed with Case for on Oct. 3; M. A. C., on Oct. 10; and Wabash at a later date. These, with Pennsylvania, O. S. U., and Vanderbilt, give Michigan a strong schedule. If he adds Dartmouth and Carlisle he will have perhaps the hardest Michigan ever has tackled.

For indoor track season he hopes to get the First regiment of Illinois team and some strong relay teams from various colleges.

His baseball schedule is as follows: April 25, Case at Ann Arbor; April 13-14, Tennessee at Knoxville; April 16-17-18, Vanderbilt at Nashville; May 7, Wooster university at Ann Arbor; May 9, Georgetown at Ann Arbor; May 20, Cornell at Ithaca; May 23, Syracuse at Syracuse; May 25, Brown at Providence; May 29-30, Syracuse at Ann Arbor.

MANY ENTER WRESTLING BOUTS

Annual Mat Championships of Chicago Turner Societies Attract a Record Breaking List.

The entry list for the second annual wrestling championships of the Chicago Turner societies shows a great increase over last year's number, there being ninety-seven individuals from five clubs for the events, which start Feb. 10.

At the request of South Side, Unity Polish, and Sloveska turners the entry list has been held open until tonight. With the additions from these clubs it is expected the entries will reach 160.

The Social Turners, who always have been foremost in the wrestling art, have thirty-one nominations, and expect to make their usual good showing. A new champion will be established in the middleweight division, as Ernest Kartge of the Socials, who took first honors last year, has been declared a professional by the A. A. U.

KEEN FINISHES IN TRACK MEET.

Athletic Carnival of Pastime Club at New York Is a Big Success.

IRONS WINS HIGH JUMP.

Chicagoan Takes First Place with Leap of 6 Feet; Ramey Second in 600 Yard Run.

New York, Jan. 27.—Despite the fact that no records were broken, the athletic carnival of the Pastime Athletic club, held at Madison Square garden tonight, was one of the best meets witnessed here for some time. The throng was disappointed by the absence of Melvin Sheppard from the special 1,000 yard race. Sheppard's suspension at Philadelphia on Friday night on the charge of having fouled Guy Haskins prevented his participation.

The Chicago Athletic association team competed, but the only winner of a first was Frank Irons, who won the high jump, with an actual leap of 6 feet. He had a handicap of 2 inches. R. C. Taylor took third in the 60 yard dash, and H. P. Ramey was second in the 600 yard event, after a thrilling finish.

Great Race at 600 Yards.

The 600 yard run brought together such cracks as Hillman, Ramey, Dorland, and Sedley. When men took their marks there were calls for Taylor, the colored runner, but he did not appear, as he had left the building. He was not on the program. Sedley was first away, followed by Dorland, Ramey, and Hillman. After about 200 yards Ramey, the Chicago man, shot to the front and made the pace with Dorland, Sedley, and Hillman. About a lap and a half from home Hillman sprinted into second place, and it was a great struggle on the homestretch between himself and Ramey, Hillman getting the verdict by a foot.

Smithson, the National A. A. U. champion, made the 60 yard high hurdles in eight seconds, a world's record, but knocked down a hurdle, which nullified the performance.

The trials in the 220 yard handicap were productive of plenty of exciting racing. The first heat went to Taylor of the Chicago A. A., who had an allotment of five yards. Kelly, who was on scratch, started in the third heat, but though he struggled gamely he suffered from jostling a couple of times and failed to qualify. Taylor ran third in the final, the winner being Goggin of the Pastime A. C., who had a start of fifteen yards.

M'FARLAND IN SIX ROUND BOUT.

Local Lightweight to Make Initial Appearance at Philadelphia Tonight Against "Young" Loughery.

BY GEORGE SILER.

"Packey" McFarland, the local lightweight, is billed to meet "Young" Loughery in a six round bout at Philadelphia tonight, and its result will be awaited with interest by the Chicagoan's admirers. The distance set is a little out of "Packey's" regular fistic diet, as his contests during the last year have been from ten to fifteen round affairs.

In these bouts he could afford to feel out his opponents for several rounds, and after having them gaited he still had ample sessions to win decisions. A six round contest, however, necessitates hurried action right from the outset, and, at times, a continuation of it until the final gong. That "Packey" can adapt himself to any kind of going is expected.

Reports from the Quaker city state McFarland was presented to the fans in that city last Saturday night and was not favorably received. He was accused of sidestepping "Young" Erne by some, and others belittled his fistic abilities. "Packey's" Irish fighting blood was aroused, and before leaving the platform he stated he would fight Erne for $1,000 a side provided the Philadelphian would agree to battle twelve rounds in Boston. Erne's admirers did not reply to this challenge, but they may have something to say about it when "Packey" steps into the ring tonight with Loughery.

Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion of America, put in his last hard hour's work for his ten round fight with "Kid" Murphy at Peoria tomorrow night, and will leave for the scene of the encounter this morning. The midget bantam boxed six fast rounds with George Siddons, his trainer, and after a vigorous rub down he was declared fit for the battle. This will be their third bout. Murphy was the first and Johnny the second.

Reports from Philadelphia state that Harry Lewis and Bill Papke have been matched to fight six rounds in Philadelphia in two weeks. Papke is having an operation performed on his nose, and will be unable to engage in a scrap for a month.

Lights Go Out; Hockey Game Stops.

The Calumets and the Chicago hockey teams commenced a postponed game last night at the Midway rink, but after twenty minutes of play the lights failed and the game will have to be replayed. The Chicagos were two goals in the lead and going strong.

CLOSE CONTESTS IN SEMI-FINALS.

Austin and Lake Win in High School Basketball Championships.

PLAY AT C. Y. M. C. A. GYM.

Wendell Phillips and Curtis Losing Teams in Brilliant Games; Oak Park in Race.

Play in semi-final games of the Cook County High School Basketball league at Central Y. M. C. A. yesterday furnished two of the hardest fought bouts of the season, Austin winning from Wendell Phillips after a fierce struggle, 33 to 23, while Lake put Curtis out of the running, 23 to 13. The tie in the northern division between Oak Park and Lake View for the second place in that division was settled during the day without postponing the semi-finals.

In the drawing Lake View, representing the team entitled to second place in the northern division, drew a bye. This gave Lake View and Oak Park a chance to play off the deadlock, and the two teams met at the Wendell Phillips gymnasium, the latter winning, 21 to 17, and is now eligible to play in the second set of semi-finals tomorrow. South Chicago also drew a bye.

Brilliant Play Shown.

The principal battle of the day was the contest between Lake, the leaders of the western section, and Curtis, the second place team of the southern division. Both teams played brilliant ball from the start, although Lake had the upper hand all the way. Goldstein, the Lake right forward, was the star.

The first session ended with the Lake boys in the lead, 14 to 10. The second half was more heated and rough play by both teams resulted. Shepard of Lake in defending his goal received a small gash over the right eye and had to be taken out of the game. Shortly afterwards Perry, the Curtis left forward, was laid out on the floor for five minutes from a hard knock. Lineup:

Lake [23].		Curtis [13].
Goldstein, McCormack	Right forward	Hawley
Goettler	Center	Thomson
Shepard, McCormack	Right guard	Nelson

Baskets—Goldstein [7], McCormack, Goettler, Hawley [2], Perry [2], Eckland [2]. Free throws—Thomson [10], Goldstein. Points awarded—Curtis 1. Referee—Pearson. Umpire—Riley. Time of halves—20 and 15 minutes.

Victory for Austin.

Austin's fast five was compelled to do its best to win out in its tussle with Wendell Phillips and it was only after a supreme effort that the leaders of the northern section won, 33 to 23. Austin's playing was the best seen on a local prep floor this year, and its team work throughout the contest was almost impossible to break up. Lineup:

Austin [33].		Wendell Phillips [23].
Ross	Right forward	Wolf
D. Babbitt	Left forward	McGregor
Clement	Center	Pressler
A. Babbitt	Right guard	Kennedy

Oak Park Is Winner.

In the Oak Park-Lake View game the former won, 21 to 17. The Oak Parkers forced the issue from the start. Stout, who was substituted for Martin in the second half, counted consistently for Oak Park. Lineup:

Oak Park [21].		Lake View [17].
Wheeler	Right forward	Gates
Martin, Stout	Left forward	Wolf
Rouzer	Center	Molander
Deming	Right guard	[illegible]

Baskets—Wheeler [2], Stout [4], Rouzer [2], Gates [2], Molander [2], McGinnis [2]. Free throws—Wheeler [3], Gates [4]. Points awarded—Lake View, 1. Time of halves—20 and 15 minutes.

Lincoln M. E., 49; De Paul, 13.

The Lincoln Methodist Episcopal five last night defeated De Paul university at the latter's gymnasium, 49 to 13. Lineup:

Lincoln M. E. [49].		De Paul [13].
Mennie	Right forward	Kennedy
Lopado	Left forward	Hynes
Dempsey	Center	Urban

HIGH COURT BLOW FOR UNION LABOR.

1898 Act Barring Railroad Discrimination Called Unconstitutional.

TWO DISSENT TO OPINION.

Justice Harlan Says Congress Cannot Compel Employment Without Contract.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—The constitutionality of the act of congress of June 1, 1898, prohibiting railroad companies engaged in interstate commerce from discriminating against members of labor organizations in employment, was called into question by the case of William Adair versus the United States, decided by the Supreme court of the United States today favorable to Adair. Justice Harlan held the law repugnant to the constitution.

"Congress Can't Break Contract."

The court held that Adair, as master mechanic of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, had a right to discharge an employé because he was a member of a labor organization, just as it was the employé's right to quit its employment because of his membership in the organization. Such a course, the decision added, might be unwise, but, regarded as a mere matter of right, there could be no doubt congress could not, under the constitution, authorize a violation of contract under the guise of protecting interstate commerce.

Justice McKenna dissented.

Case from Kentucky.

The case came to the Supreme court on a writ of error from the United States District court for the eastern district of Kentucky. Adair was proceeded against on the charge of threatening to discharge a locomotive engineer named Coppage because the latter was a member of a labor union. The act of 1898, a result of the great Chicago strike, was invoked for Coppage's protection, and the district court fined Adair $100. The constitutionality of the act was attacked by the railroad attorneys, and they promptly brought the case to the Supreme court.

Justice Holmes Favors Law.

Justice Holmes said the law should be construed as constitutional. He thought the right to make contracts had been stretched to the limit by the court's decision, and that congress had a right to legislate to encourage labor organizations.

"While," said Justice Harlan in his opinion, "the rights of liberty and property guaranteed by the constitution of every person against deprivation without due process of law is subject to such reasonable restraint as the common good may require, it is not within the functions of government, at least in the absence of contract between the parties, to compel any person against his will to accept or retain the services of another, or compel any person against his will to perform services for another."

Rights Are Analogous.

"The right of a person to sell his labor is the same as the right of the purchaser of labor to prescribe the conditions on which he will accept such labor. So the right of an employé to quit the service of the employer is the same as the right of the employer to dispense with the services of the employé."

Justice Harlan, discussing the effects of a contract, said: "If the parties by contract fix the period of service and describe the conditions by which the contract may be terminated, it controls their rights, and for any violation the party wronged will have appropriate civil action. In the absence of a valid contract it cannot be that an employer is under legal obligations to retain an employé, any more than an employé can be compelled to remain in the service of another."

Law and Interstate Commerce.

Discussing the relationship of the law to interstate commerce, Justice Harlan said:

"The power to regulate interstate commerce is the power to prescribe rules by which the commerce must be governed. But such rules, to be within the competency of congress, must have substantial relation to the commerce regulated. What possible legal or logical connection is there between an employés' membership in a labor organization and the carrying on of interstate commerce?"

"Caramel" Whisky Decision.

That whiskey in which burnt sugar or caramels have been placed after government inspection is not subject to forfeiture to the government under section 3455 of the revised statutes was today decreed by the Supreme court of the United States. The question was raised by the Court of Appeals for the Eighth circuit in the case of the United States vs. the A. Graf Distilling company. The suit involved the seizure in the eastern district of Missouri last April of three barrels of whisky.

JUDGE SAYS TRACTION LEASE WILL BE MADE THIS WEEK.

Grosscup Outlines Plan for Conversion of the Union Property Into Chicago Railways Company.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup briefly outlined the future program for the conversion of the Union Traction into the Chicago Railways company yesterday. He said:

"We now are waiting for the report of the master in chancery in the foreclosure sale. It will be presented to me in open court. Time then will be given for the hearing of objections to the sale before it is approved. The probable course will be a lease by the receivers to the Chicago Railways company, to be executed some time this week."

City Traction Expert M. B. Hereley was much disappointed when he came downtown in the morning and found the North State street cars still were stopping at Lake street. Saturday night he had inspected the work done in State street in the way of making connections so the cars could be turned into Dearborn street on Sunday, and announced the cars would run as far south as Polk street the next morning. Mr. Hereley once was superintendent of the Union Traction system, and his promise sounded good to the many people interested.

But Electrical Superintendent J. Z. Murphy for the company explained when the cars failed to run that while the State street connections all were made, yet those at Dearborn and Washington streets remained to be completed, and this would not be until next Saturday night.

"We will get those cars running as soon as we can," promised Mr. Murphy.

WANT A NATIONAL UNIVERSITY.

Conference of State University Presidents Urges Congress to Appropriate $500,000.

Members of congress today will be asked to support a bill for an act to create a national university at the seat of the federal government in Washington, that was adopted at the conference of presidents of state universities, at the Auditorium Annex hotel last Saturday evening.

Copies of the bill today will be sent to officers of all state universities and educational institutions and representatives in state legislatures with requests for support.

The bill was drafted by Dr. Edmund Janes James, president of the University of Illinois.

The bill calls for an appropriation of $500,000 and stipulates that unconditional gifts may be accepted from private individuals.

Reports on Chicago Tract Society.

Missionaries speaking twenty-three different languages were maintained by the Chicago Tract society during 1907, according to Dr. Jesse W. Brooks, the secretary, at Willard hall yesterday. Luther Laflin Mills presided. The total expenditures of the society during 1907 were $12,251.82, as against $9,608.40 the year previous.

SHOWS SECRET RATES ON OIL

More Light on Charges Paid by Standard Company.

ISSUE IS DISCRIMINATION.

Charter Annulment Hearing Reveals Chicago Tariffs.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A dispute over the admission of tariff statements by a government witness was the feature of the hearing today in the case of the government against the Standard Oil company for annulment of its charter.

E. Dana Durand, deputy commissioner of corporations, said he applied to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois for tariffs on oil from Whiting, Ind. He said the rates from Whiting to southern points were not the same rates charged to those points against the Standard.

Counsel for the Standard objected to this, and Attorney Frank B. Kellogg, for the government, offered a statement showing that the rate in the tariff was one figure and the charge for transportation to the Standard was less.

Durand then said the 6 cent rate of the Alton on petroleum shipments from Chicago to East St. Louis was intended to be secret. When questioned further he said the records showed the 6 cent rate was charged the Standard on shipments from Chicago to East St. Louis.

At the instance of Mr. Kellogg Mr. Durand presented various tariffs of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road, showing that that line had been a party to tariff No. 24, and that its rates on oil from Whiting to points in the southwest had been made in conformity to tariff No. 24. No new points were developed, however, the line of Mr. Durand's testimony as to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy being similar to that given concerning the Chicago and Alton.

BETHEA TO TRY OIL TRUST; CASE SET TO OPEN APRIL 6.

Judge Landis Refuses to Have It on His Calendar—One Result Is Indefinite Delay of $42,000,000 Fine Suit.

Judge S. H. Bethea in the United States District court yesterday set the trial of the Sandard Oil company of Indiana on the indictment charging that company with accepting concessions from the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway, for April 6. The setting of the case at that time was opposed by Attorney John S. Miller, but the court advised the Standard Oil attorney to confer with District Attorney Sims or Attorney General Bonaparte if he desired the case to be delayed longer.

The case was originally placed on the calendar of Judge Landis, who tried the first of the oil cases, but Judge Landis yesterday refused to hear it and transferred it to Judge Bethea.

As a consequence of this transfer the biggest case against the oil company, involving 2,124 counts, and a possible fine of $42,480,000, was postponed by Judge Bethea indefinitely in accordance with suggestions from District Attorney Sims. Judge Bethea will try the Chicago and Eastern Illinois case, it is probable, before anything more is done with the biggest case which has to do with shipments over the Burlington.

FORM OF REBATING IS NOVEL.

Refining Company Offers to Return Part of Money Paid for Glucose Grape Sugar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The Corn Products Refining company, a concern controlled by the Standard Oil interests, has made a novel rebating offer to such of its customers as will buy their glucose grape sugar exclusively from the company. Payment will apply only on business done during 1907 and is not to be made until the end of 1908, as explained in the following circular:

"We will pay to you on Dec. 31, 1908, 15 cents a hundred pounds on the total amount of glucose grape sugar which we have shipped to you during the year 1907 upon condition that you and your successors shall purchase exclusively from this company or its successors all the glucose grape sugar handled by you during the year 1908 and shall have paid in full all invoices covering the same. You will observe this profit sharing cannot be anticipated by deducting from your invoices, but is only payable by this company's checks after those invoices are settled in full."

President Bedford estimates this plan will call for a disbursement of about $[illegible],000 at the end of the year.

RAILWAY PLEA TO ROOSEVELT; WANT TIME LIMIT EXTENDED.

Delegation Representing Leading Systems Urges That So-Called Nine-Hour Act Do Not Take Effect on March 4.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—The operating vice presidents of twelve or fifteen great lines of American railways conferred today with President Roosevelt and the interstate commerce commission as to securing an amendment to the act limiting the hours of service of employés. The act referred to is known as the nine hour law, which is to become effective March 4. It is expected the commission will extend the time limit or recommend to congress action to this effect.

The delegation presented to President Roosevelt arguments in support of an extension of the time when the law should go into effect. After discussion the president referred the committee to the interstate commerce commission, that body, under the law, apparently having the necessary authority to accede to the wishes of the committee if the request were deemed proper.

During the afternoon the delegation conferred with Chairman Knapp and Commissioners Prouty and Cockrell, the only members of the body now in the city. No proposal in definite form was submitted to the commission, but the subject was discussed in an informal way. The commission took no action, but has the matter under consideration.

Among those who participated in the conferences were: I. G. Rawn, second vice president of the Illinois Central; H. U. Mudge, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; D. Willard, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; C. E. Schaff, New York Central lines; W. A. Gardner, Chicago and Northwestern; and G. L. Potter, Baltimore and Ohio.

SEES AD'S VALUE IN TYPE USED.

Speaker Before Business College Says Merchant Should Have Knowledge of Printing.

That the merchant who advertises is a loser by lack of type knowledge was a point emphasized last evening in an address before the Chicago Business college, Wabash avenue and Randolph street, by William D. McJunkin. He said the merchant should have a knowledge of the part played by type display in making an "ad" effective.

Analyzing the component factors in the pulling power of an "ad" as argument, illustration, type display and space used, the speaker said that the element of type display could hardly be overrated. He said:

"Let the merchant consider the favorable or unfavorable impression of his business conveyed by good type cleverly displayed or poor type as poorly displayed. What an impression of dignity, of conservative business principles, of elevation above the 'shoddy' or the 'piking' kind of business, do the announcements of some business houses create through the mere judicious selection and harmonious combination of type faces. On the other hand, how suggestive of pettifogging methods, of catch-penny principles, of hurry and splutter ways of business, are those weirdly huddled, circus poster combinations of irreconcilable types."

STOCKS WEAKEN AFTER ADVANCE.

Prices Decline in Wall Street Market Owing to Pessimistic News.

MONEY OUTLOOK EASIER.

Growing Surplus Big Factor in Better Conditions in the Financial World.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—At the opening of today's stock market session it was apparent that supporting orders had been placed in the market to offset any uneasiness and consequent liquidation which might follow the over Sunday announcements regarding the closing of the National Bank of North America and the institution of a government suit to break up existing relations between the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads.

This support seemed to take the form of a movement against the short interest, which has accumulated in stocks during the last fortnight, and its influence was most apparent in such issues as Reading, United States Steel, St. Paul, Amalgamated Copper, Pennsylvania, and Northern Pacific. All of these shares rose sharply on fairly substantial transactions. The advance thus promoted continued well on toward the close of the day, when an attempt to dispose of some of the stocks bought for the purpose of this movement brought about declines, which were not, however, of sufficient extent to cancel all of the earlier gains.

Pacific Issues Heavy.

There was the usual output of reports to accompany this highly professional maneuver, and in the case of Northern Pacific they again took the form of an approaching extra distribution on the shares. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were heavy and efforts to include them in the rise was only partly successful. Union Pacific ended the day with a loss, while Southern Pacific was up ¼ of a point.

There seems to be considerable uncertainty as to the outcome of the government proceedings, but it was recalled in the financial district that one of the interstate commerce commissioners in discussing the success of such proceedings some days ago expressed doubt over the possibility of a decision which should end existing relations between the two roads, and this is perhaps the general feeling regarding the matter.

Mexican Central securities were again active and the advances in these issues were based upon the supposedly favorable terms upon which Mexican Central will be received into the merger of the two principal Mexican roads.

In the bond market transactions were the largest reported in over two years, and the day's total business of $6,196,000 reflects, of course, reviving interest in this department of the stock exchange. The day's business in bonds was well distributed.

Money Rates Reflect Easy Market.

Money rates continued to reflect the ease which so great a surplus as $37,000,000 reported on Saturday is bound to produce. Call money fell below 2 per cent again and quotations on time loans were correspondingly low. One interesting piece of news was that brought by the London cables regarding the taking of gold in London by Paris. The Bank of France recently has made substantial advances to London, and today's gold movement would seem to indicate the repayment. The gold actually taken came, however, from the arrivals from South Africa, and the Bank of England secured $3,000,000 of this as against $1,000,000 taken by Paris.

The closing of the National Bank of North America had been foreshadowed by the steady decline in the institution's deposits, and beyond the sentiment attaching to the fact that it was a clearing house institution, the decision to liquidate the bank was without significance.

Money on call easy, 1½@2 per cent; ruling rate 1¾; closing bid, 1½, offered at 1¾. Time loans weak; 60 days 4, and 90 days 4½; six months, 4½. Prime mercantile paper, 5½@6½ per cent. Sterling exchange strong, with actual business in bankers' bills at 487.15@487.20 for demand, and at 483.80@483.85 for 60 day bills. Commercial bills, 483.50. Bar silver, 55⅞c. Mexican dollars, 44¼c. Government bonds easy; railroad bonds buoyant.

Relieves in Five Minutes

Help Comes Quickly When Hyomei Is Used for Catarrh.

The quick relief that comes from the Hyomei treatment for catarrh is most remarkable. Put a few drops of liquid Hyomei in the little pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and before you have used the treatment for five minutes you will notice relief from your catarrhal troubles.

It gives a tonic healing effect to the air you breathe, kills all catarrhal germs, stops the poisonous secretions, soothes the irritated mucous membrane and makes a marked improvement in the general health.

Hyomei is not a cure all; it has but one aim, the cure of catarrh and diseases of respiratory organs. When the catarrh is cured, the general health is improved, for then Nature has a chance to build up the whole system.

If you suffer from offensive breath, raising of mucous, frequent sneezing, husky voice, discharge from the nose, droppings in the throat, loss of strength, spasmodic coughing and feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest, general weakness and debility, or any other symptoms of catarrh, you should begin to use Hyomei at once. IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The dry goods market continued generally quiet, but the tone is steadily improving. Sales of cotton goods, gray, bleached, and colored, are increasing. Dress goods and men's wear for fall are being opened, but trading is light. Jobbers' trade is lighter than usual at this season. Manufacturers are buyers in the market, but they are not operating with freedom. However, conditions are materially better than two weeks ago.

Metals—There was quite a sharp break in London tin market, with spot closing at £122 15s and futures at £123 15s. Locally the market was weak and lower in sympathy, with quotations ranging from $27.00@27.35. Copper was lower in the English market, with spot quoted at £61 5s and futures at £62. Locally the market was dull and unchanged, with lake quoted at $13.75@14.00, electrolytic at $13.62½@13.85½, and casting at $13.37½@13.62½. Lead was 2s 6d higher at £14 12s 6d in the London market. Locally the market was unchanged at $3.70@3.75. Spelter was unchanged at £20 17s 6d in London and at $4.45@4.55 in the local market. Iron was unchanged to 1½d lower in the English market, with standard foundry quoted at 46s 3d and Cleveland warrants at 47s 7½d. Locally the market was unchanged. No. 1 foundry, northern, was quoted at $18.25@18.75; No. 2, $17.75@18.25; No. 1 foundry, southern, and No. 1 southern, soft, $18.00@18.50.

Antimony—The local market for antimony continues dull and weak. Prices are nominally 9c for Cookson's, 8½@9c for Hallett's and 8@8½c for ordinary brands. An easier feeling is noted in London, and Hallett's is quoted at £35, with ordinary brands at £34.

Butter—Firm; receipts, 3,769 pkgs.; creamery specials, 32½c; extras, 32c; third to first, 23@31c; held, second to special, 24@30½c; state dairy, common to finest, 21@30½c; process, common to special, 18@24c; western factory, common to first, 17@20½c; imitation creamery, first, 21½@22c; held, third to first, 17@20c. Butter in Philadelphia firm, ½@1c higher; extra western creamery, 33c; do nearby prints, 35c.

Eggs—Easy; receipts, 6,687 cases; state, Pennsylvania, and nearby, fancy, selected, white, 28@30c; good to choice, 25@27c; brown and mixed fancy, 24@25c; first, 23@23½c; western and southern first, 22½@23c; seconds, 21@22c. Eggs in Philadelphia firm, good demand; firsts, 24c; western, choice, 24c; fair to good, 21@23c at mark.

Poultry—Dressed steady; western chickens, 12@20c; turkeys, 12@16c; fowls, 10@13c.

POTATO PRICES SHADE HIGHER.

Potato prices were quoted a shade higher yesterday, although the demand was not especially urgent, business being light. Supplies were moderate, however, and there was no pressure of offerings. No changes were noted in the egg market, but the tone was nervous. Receipts were considerably less than a year ago at 3,036 cases. Dealers are afraid of mild weather, with a consequent freer movement from the country, and do not like to load up too heavily at this season. Butter was firm, with a fair demand, especially for the best makes. Celery was lower on account of the heavy receipts. Trade in general on the street was of fair proportions.

SHORT COVERING BOLSTERS WHEAT

Market Is Lifted to Moderate Advance After Working Under Dollar Mark.

CORN SCORES GOOD GAIN.

Despite Fine Weather Coarse Grain Is Well Supported; Provisions Up.

Almost completely hemmed in by bearish news, wheat bulls yesterday scaled the ramparts after being subjected to a withering fire, holding a fair advantage when the flag of truce was flung out. Except for a surprisingly strong Liverpool market in the face of the sharp break here last Saturday, the price defenders had practically nothing to hide behind. The English market started ⅛d lower, but soon recovered all but ⅛d of the loss, closing ⅛@⅛d weaker. There was the usual quota of damage and insect reports from the southwest, but such advices did not carry much weight with the crowd. The success of the bulls was attributed largely to the reckless daring of shorts, who evidently were oversold. The readiness with which values responded to any important buying frightened the rank and file into covering. Net changes were at advances of ⅝c for May, ⅝@¾c for July, and ⅝@½c for September.

May Down to 99¾ Cents.

Wheat started with a moderate degree of firmness, principally on the unexpectedly good showing at Liverpool, but it was not long before the bears' guns were working disastrously to prices. May was hammered down to 99⅝c before a reaction set in, the other months also suffering. The readiness with which the grain was sought under the dollar mark indicated that the conflicting forces may be planning to fight it out around "par." Big bulls, while not doing much at the moment, insist that the market is shaping itself for a sharp upturn, and say that the short interest is much more extensive than appears on the surface. Bears point to the heavy domestic receipts, the absence of encouraging export demand, and the pessimistic world's statistics, and answer the question themselves. With the burden of general bearishness steadily increasing, they hold, nothing short of a miracle can sustain the market around the prevailing level. However, they plainly show uneasiness every time the market develops strength.

Sharp Recovery at Liverpool.

Liverpool's recovery was attributed largely to big buying for prominent houses, some of which apparently took fright at probable internal troubles in the Argentine. Some of the local bears unhesitatingly declared that Liverpool was being subjected to manipulation, with some of the pretentious American speculators in charge of the machinery. Continental markets showed declines of ¼@⅜c at Paris, 1⅞c at Berlin, and ⅞c at Budapest. World's exports last week aggregated 10,448,000 bu, compared to 8,352,000 bu the corresponding period of 1907, this country and Canada contributing 4,440,000 bu of the total, with Russia and the Danubian countries shipping 896,000 bu, light as compared to the combined exports of a year ago. The enormous increase in supplies on ocean passage—3,840,000 bu—was flaunted vigorously by the bears. This showing was largely responsible for the marked weakness at Berlin. Supplies now afloat are 37,048,000 bu, against 26,400,000 bu a year ago.

Domestic Receipts Still Heavy.

Despite bullish expectation that the beginning of this week would show a material falling off in the domestic movement, both the northwest and the southwest reported receipts much in excess of those of a year ago. Duluth and Minneapolis had 408 cars, against 291 cars last year, and Kansas City and St. Louis reported a total of 429,000 bu, compared to 188,000 bu the similar day in 1907. Winnipeg received 353 cars, against only 65 cars a year ago, but a large percentage of the arrivals was said to be of poor quality. Primary receipts footed up 951,000 bu, compared to 533,000 bu last year. Clearances at the seaboard were large at 519,000 bu, wheat and flour. Despite the heavy movement, the general cash situation was fairly strong. Some encouragement finally was given to the bulls by a report that Duluth had worked 50 boat loads of Durum for exports at prices 2c higher than No. 2 red at the seaboard. Locally there was a fair demand from millers, and Kansas City reported further sales to Texas millers.

Winter Wheat Reports Bullish.

The advices concerning winter wheat progress generally favored the bulls, some of them bordering on the sensational. Some of the most important parts of "banner" Kansas reported that the plant was having trouble with Hessian flies and "green bugs" and that its general appearance was disappointing. Missourri, Nebraska, and Oklahoma were loud in their complaints, also. Crop Expert Snow issued a bullish statement on farm reserves of wheat, but the trade did not have much to say about it. The visible supply showed a decrease of 9,000 bu, compared to a falling off of 729,000 bu the similar time last year. The total visible now is given as 42,217,000 bu, compared to 44,731,000 bu last year.

Corn Rallies from a Dip.

Firmness at the start in the corn market was followed by a moderate break on selling by scattered longs, but it soon became apparent that holders were not willing to sell freely at the decline. Shorts covered liberally, and it was not long before the loss had been recovered and the market headed for a place above the Saturday finish. Net price changes showed gains of ⅛@⅝c for May, ⅝c for July, and ⅜@½c for September. Weather in almost all directions was favorable to conditioning and hauling, and, while some improvement was shown in the cash market, prices ruled lower. The fine weather has not brought forth as much corn as the bears had expected, and yesterday's local receipts were only 510 cars, compared to 659 cars a year ago. Total primary arrivals were 1,077,000 bu, compared to 1,276,000 bu a year ago, and clearances at the seaboard aggregated 163,000 bu. Bulls attached much significance to the reported sale of 500,000 bu of Illinois corn for export via the gulf.

Liverpool closed ⅛@⅜d lower. The corn districts of the Argentine reported timely and beneficial rains. The visible supply statement showed an increase of 461,000 bu, compared to a decrease of 71,000 bu a year ago. World's exports last week were 2,307,000 bu, against 2,073,000 bu the similar period in 1907, and supplies on ocean passage represented a decrease of 468,000 bu. Expert Snow made farm reesrves of the cereal 52 per cent of the yield, and pronounced the general quality the poorest of record, with rot and mold general. The local estimate for today was 476 cars.

Active Oats Futures Easier.

Oats were relatively the weakest grain on the list, although the market was painfully quiet throughout. The close showed ⅛c lower. Receipts were 271 cars here, exceeding the estimate by 37 cars, compared to 183 cars a year ago. This had something to do with the relative weakness, which was shaded before the final bell sounded. Total primary arrivals were 679,000 bu, compared to 628,000 bu a year ago. Clearances at the seaboard were practically nil. The local estimate for today was 271 cars. Prices at the sample tables ruled easier, and a fair business was transacted. The visible supply represented a gain of 359,000 bu, against a decrease of 259,000 bu last year.

Firmer Tone to Provisions.

Much lighter receipts of hogs here and at other western points, the strength in corn, and an improved demand from outside speculators and investors underlay soundness in the provision market. Net changes were advances of 7½c for pork and lard and 2½@5c for ribs. There was some reaction from the session's best showing, due to selling by packers and some of the floor longs. Western hog arrivals were 80,800, against 82,200 a year ago, Chicago contributing 37,000, against 56,000 expected. The local estimated swine receipts for today were 30,000. Prices at the yards showed strength. Good purchases of May lard were for short account. Investors paid special attention to pork and ribs. There was not much change in the general cash situation.

Demand for Rye Slow.

The demand for rye was slow, with prices a shade easier. The visible supply increased 112,000 bu. Receipts were 22 cars. No. 2 free on board was quoted 83@84c; No. 3, 78@82c; No. 4, 68@78c.

Barley was unchanged to 2c lower. The visible supply decreased 135,000 bu. Receipts were 71 cars. Feed was quoted 65@75c; malting, 80@95c; screenings, 31@65c.

Flaxseed was dull and ½c lower. Receipts were 2 cars. No. 1 northwestern was quoted $1.21; No. 1 from the northwest, $1.19½; No. 1 southwestern, $1.10¾.

Timothy seed was firm at the late advance. Contract was quoted $4.50; March, $4.80@4.85; country lots, $3.75@4.50.

Clover seed was steady at $17.75 for contract seed, $17.90 for March, and $12.00@17.25 for cash seed.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

A brisk demand existed here for cash wheat yesterday, with sales larger than recently, local and interior millers being the best buyers. There was a healthy inquiry from all directions, millers evidently being willing to accumulate fair stocks around the present level. Southern millers in particular seemed to be anxious for wheat, there being a large number of inquiries from that direction. No. 3 red wheat was in sharp demand in the sample crowd and 2½c under May on track was paid for this grade. Outside markets reported a good demand, with prices firm relative to the futures. The most important outside business of the day was reported from Duluth, which claimed the sale of 400,000 bu durum wheat in store in the east for export, and also the sale of 75,000 bu durum for all rail shipment to the seaboard. St. Louis No. 3 red wheat sold at $1.01. Buffalo reported the sale of 50,000 bu wheat to millers. The demand for cash corn here was moderate. High prices are being bid for Illinois points for corn, 53½c being offered for No. 3 corn to be shipped to New Orleans. Receipts here are grading slightly better, and some of the receivers were of the opinion that the arrivals in the near future would show substantial improvement in this direction. Oats were rather easy, the offerings being fair and demand moderate. Local sales were 175,000 bu wheat, mostly No. 2 red to millers, 160,000 bu corn, and 100,000 bu oats. The seaboard reported 640,000 bu wheat and 64,000 bu corn, with Kansas City claiming 500,000 bu corn worked for export since the close on Saturday.

B. W. Snow's crop report issued yesterday estimated stocks of corn on the farms on Jan. 20 at 52 per cent of the crop, or 1,356,000,000 bu. With the minimum allowance for farm use during the next six weeks, the present indications suggest that the March 1 reserves will be well under 1,000,000,000 bu, compared to 1,356,000,000 bu a year ago on March 1. The quality of the grain on hand is said to be the poorest on record, rot and mold being reported from nearly every district. Farm stocks of wheat were estimated at 30.3 per cent in all positions, or a total of 192,000,000 bu. These figures include all wheat, including seed. Snow estimates that farm stocks with a normal movement to March 1 will reduce stocks at that time to about 125,000,000 bu, compared to 206,000,000 bu last year. Northwest farm reserves were estimated at 40,000,000 bu, of which 20,000,000 bu will be required for seed, leaving 20,000,000 bu, or 18.6 per cent, available for sale. Oats reserves were estimated at 41.2 per cent of the crop, or 311,000,000 bu, and it is expected on March 1 the stocks will be about 225,000,000 bu. March 1, 1907, the stocks in farmers' hands were 384,000,000 bu, the smallest total in recent years being 273,000,000 bu in 1904.

Duluth reported the sale of 400,000 bu durum wheat for export and claimed the price received was over No. 2 red at the seaboard. If by this No. 2 red was meant New York No. 2 red, local dealers said there must be a misunderstanding, as the durum is hardly bringing over that price based on present prices. May durum wheat started yesterday at about 89½c and was advanced nearly 2c, but was still under our May practically 10, while May wheat in New York was selling at about $1.06¾ at the time the sale was reported. Baltimore No. 2 red wheat was quoted about 98c, and this may have been the red winter referred to. Stocks of durum wheat at Buffalo are about cleaned up with this sale, provided it is moved out and not resold again, and durum stocks at all points in the east are said to be light, which, it is claimed, will cause the demand for red winter to increase.

Receipts of corn here last week were larger than for the same week any year for ten years, complaints as to arrivals being small, being farfetched. Many sections are also selling and shipping more corn than has been the case in years on account of the decrease in stock feeding this year. Our western Illinois point, which has averaged sales of 25,000 to 41,000 bu for the last five or six years, has so far this season sold 125,000 bu, approximately three times what has been shipped in the best years heretofore. Some of the receivers claim that the same is true of other sections, and that the lessened feeding requirements, resulting both from the heavy movement of stock and from the mild winter, which has permitted stringent economy in feeding, will go far towards making up for the shortage in the crop.

The buying of wheat on the decline was principally by commission houses, led by Logan-Bryan, Bartlett-Frazier, Cudahy, Lake, A. O. Brown, and Clement-Curtis. The local crowd sold wheat at the bottom and was forced to cover later. Bartlett-Frazier, Kidston, Barrell, Chapin, Canby, and Wrenn sold considerable wheat. The Northern Grain were good buyers. Bartlett-Frazier drained the pit of offerings early and were instrumental in forcing the late advance. Friedman was a good buyer towards the close, and Wagner bought freely early. Updike sold early. Lamson and Armour Grain sold old May oats. Buying was scattered. Selling of provisions was headed early by Bartlett-Frazier, Hately and Schwars. Later Logan-Bryan bought 3,000 tcs lard.

Clement-Curtis had the following from their traveling correspondent, dated Jan. 26, Wellington, Kas.:

"Fine fields in this vicinity badly infected with fly. Development of the larvæ more advanced than elsewhere and damage apparent. Some fields of early sown practically ruined. I am now inclined to think damage over all infected region will run 25 per cent. Plants with infection here are dead and with similar development further north, like result will follow. Harper Saturday, found same condition and met several persons who said larvæ had reached maggot stage in some fields and hole crops gone. Mailed sample of conditions here."

Local corn exporters were inclined to be skeptical relative to the large export sales of corn reported from Kansas City. One exporter said that his house had offered corn abroad as cheap as market prices would warrant the last two days, and that his best bids were 1½c out of line. The sale referred to was one of 500,000 bu, worked since the close on Saturday, and was said to have been Illinois corn worked from Kansas City for export via New Orleans. One large house here, which does a large business via New Orleans, did not sell any corn to go out for export that way.

Slaughter had an Argentine cable saying: "Heavy rains in some parts of the corn belt." Moisture was badly needed in some sections of the belt. Broomhall cabled that his Argentine agent had wired that the corn crop had been benefited by recent rains, but that damage resulting from drought had been considerable. It is estimated the exportable corn surplus will amount to about 104,000,000 bu. So far this season the shipments have been about 44,000,000 bu. For the preceding year the total exports were approximately 95,000,000 bu.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 9,000 bu last week. Corn increased 461,000 bu; oats, 359,000 bu, and rye, 112,000 bu. Barley stocks decreased 135,000 bu.

IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

City Railway Bonds Are Forced Down While Stocks Jump Up.

LOCAL MARKET IS STEADY.

Diamond Match Advances Two Points; Good Listed Bonds in Demand.

For some days Chicago City railway 5 per cent bonds have been pressing on the market. Yesterday for the first time they dropped ½ below the underwriting price, 95.

It appears that the larger of the two banks which underwrote the issue has been a free seller. It is not known whether it has been for the bank's own account or for one of its customers. The bonds at these prices look attractive. Meanwhile the stock of the City railway company yesterday jumped 9 points, closing at 175, against a closing price Saturday of 166. As the bond interest is prior to all other debts of the company, there is no reason why the bonds should decline and the stock advance, other than some forced selling of the former. Total sales of bonds during the day were $39,000.

The local stock market as a whole was steady. There was an advance of 2 points in Diamond Match, due to a report that earnings to be shown on the stock this year would be about 13 per cent. The timber lands of the company are of value, and by the selling of the lumber and thus reducing the company's assets, it is possible to make a good showing in the annual figures, so far as the bookkeeping statement of income and expenses goes. As the timber land grows more valuable, the remaining timber can be marked up to offset the sales of assets.

Features of Local Bond Market.

Several of the local bond houses say the demand for good listed bonds is highly satisfactory. The only drawback is that a great many would-be purchasers fail to get bonds because while debating the price they will pay bond quotations advance.

For local municipal issues there also is a demand, though such bonds are not being offered. By municipal is meant city, drainage, and park bonds.

There is one class of bonds, however, which is not in favor at the present time, because of the experience of holders during the recent financial stringency. These are unlisted corporation bonds. There being no open market for them, the owners who sought either to sell them or to raise funds on them as collateral were in both instances disappointed. The banks did not care to lend, because there was no ready market. Creditors did not, for the same reason, like to accept them. Even the corporations issuing such bonds failed in most instances to make any bid for them.

In time, however, this experience probably will be forgotten and such bonds again will enjoy the favor they did before the depression.

Big Decrease in Atchison Net.

It is estimated that the Atchison for the current fiscal year will show a decrease in net earnings of $6,000,000, compared with the last previous year. About $3,000,000 of this decrease is estimated to be due to the changes in bookkeeping brought about by the interstate commerce commission. Even with such a decrease the net earnings will be equal to approximately 9 per cent on the common stock, which is now paying 6. It should in no way affect the position of the preferred stock, which underlies all the dividends paid on the common. When stocks were at low prices last November a great many small investors purchased Atchison preferred, paying in cash.

The interstate commerce commission requires a reserve against depreciation of equipment, which has thus far in the case of the Atchison amounted to $240,000 a month. This charge necessarily will fluctuate, but an average of $200,000 a month would mean $2,400,000 annually. The property will be improved by that amount, though it will have been taken from earnings.

Smelting Business Cut in Two.

It is announced that the business of the American Smelting and Refining company is showing a decrease of 50 per cent, the most pronounced shrinkage the company has experienced in its history. American Smelting stock has been weak for some time on what seems to be satisfactory evidence of inside selling. The fact that the stock is being sold instead of being supported by insiders is the best evidence of the weakened position of the company.

Missouri Pacific Notes Offered.

Formal announcement was made during the day of the offering for subscription of the $6,000,000 Missouri Pacific railway company two year collateral 6 per cent convertible gold notes. The notes are offered at 99 and interest, thus yielding 6½ per cent income. It is announced that only one-third of the issue is for sale, the other two-thirds having been disposed of privately. In payment for the new notes at the offering price there will be taken Missouri Pacific 5 per cent notes maturing on Feb. 10, with the current coupon attached, at 102½ flat. The notes are convertible at par into Kansas and Colorado Pacific railway company first refunding mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds due 1938.

Locomotive Orders Slow.

It is announced that one account of business depression the American Locomotive company will close its locomotive works at Providence, R. I., the first week in February. One thousand men are affected.

New orders for locomotives are coming in slowly, but the company has unfilled orders and repair work which will serve to keep its larger plants in operation, though the working hours and the number of men employed will be less than heretofore.

Dividends Declared.

The J. G. Brill company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable Feb. 1. The books will close Jan. 28 and reopen Feb. 3. The company also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on its common stock, payable March 14. The books close March 12 and reopen March 16.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Money and discounts were both easy today. The Bank of England secured the bulk of £1,000,000 in gold available, the continent taking a small portion of this sum. On the stock exchange the monetary outlook affected gilt edged securities favorably. Consols advanced smartly, but the settlement restricted business, and home rails were weakened by realizations. Copper shares were flat on the decline in the price of the metal. Argentines weakened on reports of political unrest in that country, but Japanese bonds and other Paris specialties were firm. The favorable New York bank statement gave American securities a steady appearance at the opening, but reports of banking troubles and the selling of the Pacifics owing to the action taken by the attorney general weakened the whole market around noon. Later prices sagged, but they recovered after the receipt of the New York opening. This section closed quietly steady.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Prices on the boerse today were weak and business was limited. American securities were lower.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Prices on the bourse today were weak. The private rate of discount was 2 15-16 per cent.

THINK AHEAD

Get your money invested at the present high rates for a long term; put it into something that is safe and that will stay safe.

When a bond issue is reduced each year by serial payments with no release of security, its safety increases. We offer such bonds, (1) covering a long period of years; (2) already reduced by cash payments of $51,000; (3) having already accumulated in 2½ years a sinking fund of almost ⅓ the amount of the total issue.

Security almost $4,000 for every $1,000 bond.

HAIL BLOW AT TWO CENT LAW

Roads Rejoice When Pennsy Wins Case and War Is Likely.

ATTACK ON STATES' POWER.

Eastern Road Will Re-establish Old Schedule in Pennsylvania.

The announcement of the Pennsylvania railroad that, following the decision of the Supreme court of Pennsylvania, which declared the unconstitutionality of the 2 cent passenger fare law passed by the last legislature, the old schedule will be restored to the lines of the company, its branches, and leased lines, may prove the initial skirmish of a general warfare.

In a number of states whose legislatures have passed similar rate laws the railroad may begin an attack against the power of the state to declare what rates may be charged.

The announcement that the Pennsylvania system, as far as the lines lie within the state, will resume the rates in usage previous to the passage of the 2 cent fare law was made on Saturday, and the old schedule will take effect Feb. 1.

Officials of the western roads interested in the 2 cent fare laws promulgated by a number of western states expressed their satisfaction with the decision.

Attacks Principle as Harmful.

"While the 2 cent fare laws passed by a number of states have not been wholly harmful to all the roads, the principle that a state legislature can step in and declare what the roads may charge for service is a principle which must be fought," said an official of the Chicago and Alton road yesterday. "The quickest way to kill railroading in this country and to cause the roads to stop extensions, which mean the opening up of new country and consequent prosperity, is to let any state legislature which thinks it is capable step in and upset rates which are established upon the traffic and locality and the cost to rendering service."

Says Old Roads Lose Money.

Other railroad officials expressed the same view. President E. B. Thomas of the Lehigh Valley system, in his statement before the annual stockholders' meeting last week, asserted that under the 2 cent fare law the Lehigh Valley well could afford to give annually to the state of Pennsylvania $500,000 to be relieved of the duty of operating passenger trains.

BLOW FOR STOCK SHIPPERS.

Missouri Supreme Court Says Railroads Need Not Give Free Return Transportation.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 27.—The Missouri Supreme court today, in an opinion by Judge Burgess, decided the law requiring that free return transportation be given to shippers with each carload of live stock by the railroads of this state is unconstitutional, on the ground that it is a discrimination in rates against other shippers and in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution, in that it takes property without due process of law.

DECIDED BY APPELLATE COURT.

Fifteen Cases Ruled On, the Lower Tribunals Being Affirmed in Twelve of Them.

Fifteen opinions were filed by Justices Holdom, Adams, and Brown, sitting in the Appellate court yesterday. Twelve of the lower courts' findings were affirmed and three were reversed. Following are the cases:

UNITED SOCIETIES REFT BY POLITICS.

Four Committeemen Quit Because Their Demands Are Turned Down.

NO ACTION AS A PARTY.

Seceders Especially Desired Nomination to Beat State's Attorney Healy.

Politics is threatening to disrupt the United Societies for the Preservation of Personal Liberty. Four members resigned from the committee on political action yesterday, and more trouble is threatened.

The men who resigned are Carl Glogauer, Max Hennius, Cyril Jandus, and Michael Michels. They quit because the other officers of the societies refused to do as they wanted.

The four men named wanted the United Societies to go into general politics as a sort of second Independence league. They argued that the organization should hold a regular convention, nominate candidates of its own for various county offices, and if the regular parties did not care to accept them, then do their best to elect them. The assertion was made that if this should be done it would demonstrate the voting strength of the societies, so that politicians would have to pay attention to them.

Jandus for State's Attorney.

The particular office aimed at was that of state's attorney, and Senator Jandus was a full fledged candidate for the societies' nomination for the place. This particular office was picked out on account of the activity of State's Attorney Healy in prosecuting saloonkeepers accused of keeping open on Sunday and his consequent unpopularity among the members of the organization. Mr. Jandus felt confident that if he could get the nomination the democrats would have to indorse him and he could win easily.

But the majority of the leading spirits in the societies took another view. They insisted on sticking to the original plan of the organization, which provided that the societies should take a hand in politics only when some question in which they were all directly interested came up for settlement. To turn the organization into a political party for the nomination and election of candidates for office would simply destroy its influence, it was argued. So the ambitious members quit the committee.

Voters' League for Primary Bill.

The Legislative Voters' league has determined that so far as a primary law is concerned half a loaf is better than no bread. The one thing the league especially wanted was the McGoorty amendment in the original Oglesby bill, which provided that the voters at the primary should determine how many candidates for the lower house were to be nominated by each party in the various senatorial districts.

This is out of the Jones-Oglesby bill, passed by the senate and now before the house, and in its place is a provision that the number shall be determined by the party senatorial committee. In stating its position on this point, the league has made this announcement:

"The league will take no backward step, but on the contrary, will urge the next general assembly, should the Jones bill be enacted, to remedy what it regards as its principal defect.

"Rather than be instrumental in defeating all direct primary legislation, the league, however, will not oppose the passage of the Jones bill as it is, fearing that it will be killed entirely if the door be opened to amendments. Foes of direct primaries, masquerading as friends, must not hide behind the McGoorty amendment on the league's advocacy of its principle.

"Every state representative who favors direct primaries should be in his seat next Wednesday to vote for the Jones bill. An absentee will make a record, in effect, of voting against the bill and against direct primaries."

More Pay for Council Favored.

Henry B. Favill, president of the Municipal Voters' league, during the day gave out a statement favoring the passage of the bill now pending in the legislature to increase the salaries of aldermen. He said:

"In its recent report the Municipal Voters' league pointed out the need of bringing into the city council more men of constructive efficiency. Fifteen hundred dollars a year is not a sufficient compensation for the men qualified to serve the city capably as aldermen. I am authorized to state that the executive committee of the Municipal Voters' league believes the passage of this bill would be in the interest of better government for Chicago."

FIFTH SALOON JURY NOW OUT

Argument in the Sunday Closing Case Completed at 4 O'Clock.

DEFENSE ADMITS CHARGE.

General Belief That Still Another Disagreement Will Be Result.

The fifth Sunday closing trial—that of John Doerhoefer, 2537 Cottage Grove avenue—was completed in Municipal Judge Heap's court yesterday. The case went to the jury shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

An hour later Judge Heap adjourned court until 9:30 o'clock this morning. He announced that in the event the jury reached a verdict before that time it should be sealed and delivered to the court this morning. The jurors were taken to the Morrison hotel at 10:30 p. m. for the night.

While none of the attorneys would venture a prediction, it was the feeling generally that the result of the jury's deliberations will be another disagreement. The feeling was based on the fact of there being two total abstainers on the jury—Walter Hawkins, a negro, and Henry P. Crowell of Winnetka, a member of the evangelical council which conducted the Torrey revival meetings.

Austrian Admits Charge; Denies Guilt.

Attorney Alfred S. Austrian, for the defense, agreed to admit the charge that Doerhoefer kept his saloon open on Sunday, Nov. 24, and that he sold intoxicating liquors. He insisted, however, that this admission was not equivalent to a plea of guilty.

The members of the jury are:

Joseph J. Karpeles, 1442 West Fifteenth place, soapmaker.
Emil B. Pederson, 4452 Cottage Grove avenue, salesman.
George J. Stickel, 647 Springfield avenue, butcher.
Marcus A. Anderson, 1018 Tripp avenue, ironworker.
Rudolph Weiss, 1819 Aldine avenue, salesman.
David K. Skinner, 740 Forty-sixth street, cattle buyer.
William Weeks, 94 North Western avenue, engineer.
Hyman E. Goldberg, 5042 Prairie avenue, designer.
Frank A. Darby, 2633 North Robey street, clerk.
Henry P. Crowell, Winnetka, president American Cereal company.
Walter Hawkins, colored, 4027 Armour avenue, decorator.
Fred G. Pegelow, 1256 Diversey boulevard, engineer.

Ten of the jurymen declared they took a drink when they felt like it.

Hears Charges Against Hotels.

Whether suits will be brought against the Del Prado and Chicago Beach hotels for selling liquor within the limits of Hyde Park will depend upon the nature and sufficiency of the evidence, according to Corporation Counsel Brundage.

A committee was appointed by the Methodist ministers at their weekly meeting to prepare a reply to a poster in many saloons warning the public that the "prohibition humbug" will be disastrous to the country.

Financial Reverses Cause Insanity.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—W. A. Isles, a merchant of Farmer City, became a raving maniac today, and was sent to the hospital for the insane at Jacksonville, because of business reverses.

Mexico
That historic land of Aztecs whose hills and valleys still show the marks and ruins of ancient civilization. Where a semi-tropic climate gives health, life and rich color to both animal and plant life. By far the most interesting land of this continent. Bull fights held with all the splendor of Royal Arena in Madrid—quaint Indians, descendants of the noble Aztec—the missions of the Spanish padres give Mexico a rare charm to the traveler.
